OBITUARY.

Andrew Doyle Died at His Home on West Coal Street This Morning.

Death announced to his wife, Mrs. Doyle, at 8:20 o'clock this morning at his late residence, on West Coal street.

John Leidinger, a resident of Tamaqua since 1853, died at that place on Sunday and was buried yesterday.

Mrs. Ida C. Long, aged 44 years, who died at her home on Dutch Hill, Tamaqua, on Monday after an illness of 4 weeks, was buried today.

Michael Buerer died in Philadelphia on Monday, aged 68 years. Deceased was formerly a well known resident of Mt. Carbon. He is a brother-in-law of John A. Sullivan and is survived by his widow. The remains were brought to Potomac for interment today.

Mrs. Thomas Lathlean, of West Lloyd street, was tendered a surprise party yesterday by a number of her friends in celebration of her thirty-ninth birthday anniversary.

The visit was made early in the day and the festivities continued until a few hours after the shades of night had fallen.

There was indulgence in vocal and instrumental music. Mrs. John Snedden acted as speaker for the visitors and made an excellent address of congratulation, to which Mrs. Lathlean responded by serving an elaborate dinner.

Many handsome and useful presents were made to the hostess. The ladies who took part in the gathering were Mrs. Hayes, Mrs. and Miss Allen, Mrs. and Mrs. Waudman, of Grandville; Mrs. Marshall, Mrs. Johnson, Mrs. Schoener, Mrs. Robinson, Mrs. E. Beidall, Mrs. Griffiths, Mrs. Cashner, Mrs. Hutton, Mrs. Mader, Mrs. Williams, Mrs. J. Williams, Mrs. J. Mason, Mrs. E. Mason, Mrs. Snedden, Mrs. Gebber and Mrs. Jessie Snedden, Max Schmidt and Mr. and Mrs. Lathlean.

Mrs. E. Miles, Miss J. Miles, Miss Kurtz, of Bridgeport, Conn.; Miss B. Burnett, of Scranton, and Misses Ella and Ann Glasgow, of town, were the guests of Mrs. Louis Goldin last evening and were delightfully entertained by Miss Jennie Goldin with piano selections, and Master Harry Goldin, violin, the Misses Gough, piano duo, Miss Jennie Goldin, piano, and singing by Miss Jennie and Harry Goldin.

For the accommodation and amusement at Smith's cafe, in the basement of the Titman building a piano has been added. The instrument is of the square design and is provided over by a clever manipulator of the keys.

A music and dancing was the predominant feature at a sociable tendered Miss Mamie Carr, of Philadelphia, at Bobbins opera house last evening. The honored guest is at present a visitor at the residence of Miss Katie Cunningham, on South White street. Music was furnished by an orchestra of three pieces in whose strains about fifty couple tripped the light fantastic. The sociable was under the supervision of the Messrs. Ward McAllisters, of East Coal street and West Cherry street.

The reorganization of the Lehigh Valley Coal and Iron Police force is bound to work wonders in that region. Yesterday the members of the force were notified that in the future they must work for individuality and corporations except they belong to the organization, nor must they accept favors from any one.

Charles, 16-year-old son of Andrew Lorch, of Brandonville, yesterday met with an accident which will probably cause the amputation of the left leg at the knee, while the loss of his right foot are severely mangled.

The boy, with several others was standing on the railway platform at Brandonville when a freight train came along and the boy decided to take a ride. Lorch got hold a ladder on one of the passing cars, but his foot got caught in a sill and as the train moved on both his feet slipped beneath the wheels.

Lorch held on to the ladder until released by one of his companions, John Dieffenberer. Had the boy released his hold before assistance came he would undoubtedly have been killed. The victim was removed to his home and attended by Dr. Rentschler.

Not So Old. The relatives of the late Jeremiah Doyle, of Brownsville, say that a mistake was made in announcing his age as 90 years, and that he was only 82 years old.

QUARRELED SIX CENTURIES.

Treaty of Peace Between Two Families Brought to a Close Amid Wrath. It is seldom in this workaday age that one encounters a genuine family feud inherited from sire to son through no less than six centuries.

Such a feud actually existed in the dominions of Queen Victoria until a short time ago, and its final settlement was brought about by the ingenuitously of a boy of Irish families in Ireland have long been the Fitz-Geralds and the Butlers. From being comrades in arms of the invading Strongbow, they became by degrees rival barons and fierce contestants for the vice sovereignty of the adjacent county.

In the wars of the Butlers sided with the red robes of Lancaster, the Fitz-Geralds with the white robes of York. Factions gathered around the great houses, and the bitter feud brought forth death and bloodshed from as early as 1250 down to the Williamite wars. The Butlers, whose chief had obtained the dignity of earl of Ormonde, succeeded in crushing the power of the elder branch of the Fitz-Geralds, earls of Desmond. It is told of a warlike Desmond that while being borne prisoner on the back of a horse, he was asked by a clansman the Butlers taunted him with the bitter words:

"Where is now the proud Fitz-Gerald?" To which the indomitable earl answered: "Fitz-Gerald is where he ought to be—on the necks of the Butlers."

This proud reply will give an idea of the intensity of the strife.

Now, it happened that her majesty's Irish viceroy gave a garden party in the viceregal lodge at Dublin, and thither were hidden by accident the Marquis of Ormonde, heir of the Butler family (familiar to the Americans through his yachting interests), and the little duke of Leinster, boyish chieftain of the house of Fitz-Gerald. With the duke, who was not quite 9 years of age, came his widowed mother, one of the beautiful Duncombe slayers.

The Duchess of Leinster lost sight of her son for a pace, and in going to look for the lad found him engaged in earnest conversation with a tall, elderly gentleman, in whom she was surprised to recognize the Marquis of Ormonde. What was her horror when, an approaching noisier she distinctly heard the youthful Geraldine remark in somewhat slangy phrase:

"Well, I suppose I ought to punch your head on account of the feud, but I say, you know, you're too jolly decent a chap for that. Can't we shake hands and call it square?"

With the utmost gravity Lord Ormonde grasped the small hand of his hereditary foe, and when the amused mother came to congratulate them on the happy settlement of 600 years of bitterness she found the young hopeful perched, like his famous ancestor, on the neck of the Butler.—Atlanta Constitution.

THE STORM.

Damage Caused By It Limited to Flooded Cellars. The storm of last night was a brief one, but the fall of rain was heavy and complaints of flooded cellars were made from several parts of town, especially in the First ward, where the sufferers from Flynn's stone wall renewed their cries of protestations against the nuisance.

Another cause of trouble was the excavation being made for the Columbia Brewing Company's stable. The entire area 30x130 feet was covered by several inches of water when the workmen arrived this morning.

The Columbia Horse Company's engine was called into play until the brewing company got a pump and line of its own connected with its boiler house. In some places the embankment of the excavation caved in.

Boston's subway Opened. Boston, Sept. 2.—Part of the subway, the city's new underground thoroughfare for street cars, was opened to traffic yesterday. The sections which will be operated for the present are those under the Common and public garden, about three-quarters of a mile in length. The other sections are not complete, and will probably not be opened until next spring.

Miss Fannie Hayes Married. FREDERICK, O., Sept. 2.—Miss Fannie, daughter of former President Rutherford B. Hayes, was married here last night to Ensign Harry Eaton Smith, of the United States navy. The ceremony took place at the Hayes mansion, Spiegel Grove. President McKinley, who attended the reunion of his old regiment here, was one of the invited guests at the wedding.

PAID UP IN THE WEST. Paducah, Ky., Sept. 2.—Thirteen members of the family and people living on the farm of Henry Hill, near Metropolis, Ill., were poisoned yesterday, and three are dead. It is thought at least eight of them will die. A hired girl, who is insane, threw a package of "rough on rats" in the well. She has been arrested and admits her crime.

DEED. METCALF.—On the 1st inst., at Wiggins, Pa., John Metcalf, aged 60 years. Funeral will take place on Saturday, 4th inst., leaving Wiggins on 12:45 P. M. Pennsylvania R. R. train, for Shenandoah. Services will be held at the family residence at 10 o'clock, noon, in front of the Odd Fellows cemetery, Shenandoah. Relatives and friends respectfully invited to attend. 8-2-4

FROM LOWELL, MASS. The Home of Hood's Sarsaparilla—A Wonderful Cure. "A swelling as big as a large marble came under my tongue. Physicians said it was a semi-transparent tumor and must be operated upon. I felt I could not stand it, and as spring came began to take my favorite spring tonic, Hood's Sarsaparilla. The bunch gradually decreased and finally disappeared. I have had no sign of its return. I am glad to praise Hood's Sarsaparilla." Mrs. H. M. COVENS, 8 Union St., Lowell, Mass. Get Hood's.
