Business Conditions. There is quite a contrast between the present business conditions in the United States and those at this to land in Hawaii unless they have pre-time in the first year of Cleveland's viously secured the approval of the Haadministration. The readers of the BERALD are familiar with the condition of things four years ago. In August and September of 1893 banks were breaking, business establishments closing, and prices falling. Now prices are rising, new banks are being organized, and business establishments which have been closed for four years are opening up.

This statement is borne out by facts, and will be received by all, excepting possibly the calamity howlers, with a great deal of satisfaction. The latest issue of Bradstreet's states that the three large cordage mills at Isain. Obje, which have not been in operation for several years, will be started up at once and with a full force, and as the establishments cost over half a $8,000. million dollars, it goes without saying that this will give employment to a large number of men. The East Lake Woolen Mills, Bridgeton, Pa. which have been idle for nearly three years, will resume operations next In Wilkesbarre Life-Interesting to week. The Wead Paper Mills at Malone, N. Y., which have been idle for a year, will reopen at once.

Commenting upon the improved condition of the farmers, the American Farmer, which is a representative and conservative publication, says: While newspaper stories have been somewhat exaggerated, it is an absolute fact that the Western farmer's financial condition is wonderfully inproved. During the past three years he practiced such economy that with a slight improvement of wheat prices and this is just what it did in the case of Mr. last fall and fair values of cattle. Height, and he began to look for a remedy sheep, and hogs, the thrifty farmer gradually reduced his debts. With good prices this fall, he is indeed paying off the mortgage. The fall in the interest rate is as remarkable as the other features of the rising tide."

The improved condition is also noted in raffroad circles by increased traffic, and companies have made preparation for handling the same.
