Two intoxicated men were Two intoxicated men were arrested in the adjoining township of Stockton yesterday afternoon on suspicton of compilelty in the murder. They gave the names of Dooney and Geesey, and an allbi for their moments on the night of the murder was established. They were released this morn-

The police do not think that the murder was committed by professional burglars, and are inclined to the theory that the women were murdered by a relative or some person well known to the family, who was familiar with the house and who entered it with the expectation of getting money. What particular relative is receiving the greatest amount of suspicion has not een divulged,

The authorities have modified to a great extent the auspicions they at first entertained against Ell Shaw, the son and grandson of the murdered women, who was in the house at the time the crime was committed and whose cries for help aroused the neighbors and brought the police to the
