CASES BEFORE JUSTICES.

A Boy Arrested For Acts of Malicious Mischief.

John Pooler, Jr., was before Justice Shoemaker last night, charged with assault and battery upon Ossie Ross. The complainant was Max Ross, father of the girl. Pooler is fifteen years of age. He was charged with covering a paddle with chalk and slapping it upon the backs of people who passed along the streets. Several ladies who walked down Main street were treated in this manner. Refusing, the clothes, also complained that clothing on the dummies in front of his store were also damaged by the paddle and chalk, but he caused no arrest. In the Ross case a settlement was reached. The boy's father paid the costs, amounting to about eight dollars, and assurances were given that there would be a liberal use of the paddle when the boy reached home. Efforts will be made to punish other boys who indulge in the chalk practice.

John Farber, of Boston Run, appeared before Justice Shoemaker as prosecutor against his daughter Ellen, charging her with incorrigibility. The case was settled.

Mrs. Ann Reilly prosecuted Mrs. Michael McAvoy for assault and battery. The parties reside on Glover's hill. The case was settled.

Anthony Kankiewicz, the West Lloyd street saloonkeeper, was prosecuted by Richard Hopkins for assault and battery. The accused waived a hearing and entered $300 bail for trial.

Joseph Mandour prosecuted Simon Powalkis before Justice Toomey for assault and battery last night. The case was settled.

In Justice Toomey's court last evening Joe Blaker entered complaint against Paul Gorawicz, for assault and battery. It appears that Blaker entered the defendant's saloon and asked for a drink, when he was set upon by the saloonkeeper, ejected from the place, and beaten with a piece of gum hose. Gorawicz furnished $100 bail.

RIVAL BOARDERS' FATAL FIGHT.

A Conflict Between Drunken Minors Ends in Murder.

Wilkesbarre, Pa., Oct. 25.—A riot took place in the mining village of Brodericks, this county, between 12 o'clock midnight and 3 o'clock yesterday morning. A bad feeling had existed for some time past between the proprietors of two boarding houses. John Bolick conducted one of the houses and George Hornick the other. Filled with liquor, the partisans of Bolick attacked Hornick's house. They used stones, axes and clubs. They had nearly demolished the building when John Gavra, a boarder, opened fire from an upstairs window. Steve Mori, one of the attacking party, fell dead, with a bullet in his heart. Charles Stoch was wounded in the side. The invaders fell back when the shooting was begun, and the arrival of a number of constables put a stop to further hostilities. Several arrests have been made.

Challenge From Kurts.

EDITOR HERALD:—Please allow me small space in your paper to say that I, William Kurts, hereby challenge Daniel Cavanaugh, of Haven Run, to shoot another match for sum of one or two hundred dollars ($100 or $200) a side on Saturday November 6, 1897, on same grounds as previous match was shot. This is no bluff, for man and money are to be found at any of the following places: John W. Connolly's, Wm. Penn; Anthony Schmitz's, Shenandoah; or by calling at Wm. Penn. Dominick Gaughan will meet him at any time. If you want a match, Cavanaugh, come at once. In case Cavanaugh does not accept this challenge the Cold Creek sports will have a chance to accept the same challenge for the same amount of money. We would like to have a match by all means, Cavanaugh preferred. If we are easy this is worth while taking.

Yours respectfully, Wm. Kurts.

STATE POLITICS!

A Few Plain Facts About Quay's Attitude on Harmony.

ALWAYS FOR PARTY UNITY!

The Old Soldiers Come Out in a Strong Indorsement of Congressman Stone For the Governorship—Decision on the Capitol Commission Dispute.

Philadelphia, Oct. 25.—Beyond the fact that the state campaign is progressing favorably and that all the indications point to a very satisfactory offer majority, there have been no developments of an unusual character in state politics during the past week. Senator Quay has returned from Florida, and is now located in his Washington home, where he has been meeting and conferring with party managers during the past few days. Coincident with his return there, has been the revival of the moss-covered stories concerning possible and prospective deals between Senator Quay and his factional opponents in Pennsylvania. There is nothing new or original about these tales. They are the same old stories revamped for the use of those newspapers that are innocent or gullible enough to use them. But they are being circulated to no purpose. The real political friends of Senator Quay know and understand him thoroughly. They are aware of the fact that he has not even met Chris Magee in the last two years, and that he has had no conversation with any character with the name of Martin for at least a year past. His enemies know that the stories are not true, but are living in the vain hope that by some mischance they may be verified.

The truth of the matter is that Senator Quay has not given the slightest thought or consideration to the men that fought him so bitterly in 1895. He has only one purpose in view, and that is to unify and strengthen the Republican party in the state of Pennsylvania. He is, as he has so often expressed it, for harmony, but harmony without deals. There is nothing bitter or vindictive in his mental makeup, and if the men that antagonized him are willing to step into line and help to build up the Republican organization, and to bring out Republican majorities, they will not find any obstacle in his way. Beyond this he has no feeling or desire in the matter, and it can be reliably said that he has made no overtures in the past; that he has no arrangements for the present, and that he does not contemplate going into any deals for the future.

The friends of the various gubernatorial candidates have called upon Senator Quay during the past week, and to each of them he has reiterated his settled policy, and has rebuffed them in a manner, shape or form, that has done credit to the governorship in 1895. Colonel Quay has made this so clear and emphatic that there can and will be no possible misunderstanding upon the subject. Knowing this, the candidates have been striking out in a vigorous manner on their own account. Congress has done W. Stone, of Warren county, has not been idle, and it is quite probable that he will go the convention in Harrisburg in the early part of next year with a neat little bunch of counties marked down to his credit. The admirers of General Frank Beyer, who is now casting the ground and quietly mounding public sentiment, but without taking the general into their confidence. There is no doubt in the world but that General Reeder would make a strong candidate. He is the son of the famous Reeder of Kansas, and from him has inherited ability and courage. General Reeder has an excellent army record. He saw three years of hard service, being wounded at Nashville on December 17, 1864. After the war he began the practice of law in New York city, having offices for several years in the corner of Chestnut and Broadway. He is a distinguished president of the United States. After that he returned to Easton, where he opened law offices, and entered into partnership with Howard J. Reeder, his brother, who is now a member of the superior court of the state. He has all the elements of leadership, and if he decides to enter the gubernatorial race will do so with many warm friends and supporters.

Congressman William A. Stone, of Allegheny, is stepping forward very briskly in the race. The several delegates that have been instructed for him from Berks county put him in the position of being the first candidate to receive definite pledges. Colonel Stone is likely to have strong support from the soldier element in Pennsylvania. His Grand Army friends have already inaugurated a campaign in his behalf, which is likely to produce important results. Colonel Montooth, who is well known in Pittsburgh, and who came very near being a candidate for governor himself a few years ago, is one of the men now working to the interest of Colonel Stone. A committee, of which Colonel Montooth is chairman, is sending out a circular letter, which reads as follows:

Dear Comrade: We desire to submit to your careful consideration the candidacy of Comrade William A. Stone, of Allegheny county, for governor, and earnestly ask you to give him your support and use your influence in securing the election of delegates in your county favorable to his candidacy.

Comrade Stone enlisted on Feb. 10, 1864, from Ploga county, as a private in Company A, One Hundred and Eighty-seventh regiment, Pennsylvania volunteers, when not quite 18 years of age, and served until the close of the war, being promoted through the various grades of non-commissioned officer to second lieutenant. He is an honored member of Post 88, G. A. R., of Allegheny City, and his record as a soldier and citizen is beyond question. As a member of congress he has been tireless to promote the interests of his comrades, and as chairman of the sub-appropriation committee on pensions has protected and cared for their welfare. The old soldiers of Pennsylvania now have an opportunity to show their appreciation of his public services to them. His comrades here are almost unanimously for him. We cordially ask your help.

The decision of the Dauphin and Lancaster county courts, giving the capitol building commissioners the right to go ahead and build a capitol, is the interests of all the people of the commonwealth, and not for the benefit of a few pet architects, meets with very general public approval. The opinion of Judge Simonton is a veritable black eye to Governor Hastings, and puts him in the humiliating position of being wrong legally, as well as every other way. The schoolboy action of the governor in withdrawing from the commission because he could not have his own way is looked upon with derision and contempt by a very large number of people. The positiveness of Attorney General McCormick in refusing to represent the commission in court because they had had the temerity to differ with Governor Hastings also meets with disapproval. The action of the court may be taken as a public rebuke to both the governor and attorney general. The matter has been appealed to the supreme court, and there is hardly a doubt but that the highest judicial body in the commonwealth will concur in the common sense decisions of the lower courts, and give the commissioners the right to go ahead and erect a capitol for the commonwealth that will be within the appropriation made by the legislature, and at the same time of a style and character to meet the wants of the legislature and of the various state departments that will be permanently accommodated by the first Monday of January, 1898.

The Coal Trade.

The anthracite trade continues dull, the demand for coal being light, and prices, if changed at all, are somewhat weaker. There has recently been a material falling off in the demand for the domestic fuel, but there is a strikingly for the small steam coal. The major portion of the newly mined coal now being shipped from the breakers is going forward on old contracts, but there is also considerable coal being shipped both east and west for storage at the various distributing ports, while the accumulation of stock coal in the water yards has recently been increasing. The local anthracite trade is without any new or interesting feature to note this week. There is reported a fair volume of small tonnage doing with the coal trade, but it will require a prolonged cold spell to impart renewed activity.

To Organize the Miners.

The General Executive Council of the American Federation of Labor has decided to thoroughly organize the coal miners of the Schuylkill and Hazleton districts and will inaugurate the movement by a mass meeting to be held at Mahanoy City on the 30th inst. The speakers will include Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation; P. J. McGuire, first vice president of the same body, and George Chance, president of the Pennsylvania State Legislative Labor League. It is said that there are at present about 5,000 miners organized in what is known as sub-district No. 6, of the United Mine Workers of America. This sub-district comprises the Hazleton region, and north of that locality as far as Wilkesbarre and Scranton, and it is estimated, contains from 25,000 to 30,000 miners.

Bickert's Cafe.

Our free lunch to-night will consist of something special. Soft krot, pork and mashed potatoes to-morrow morning.

CENTRAL HORROR!

Not So Bad as the First Reports Indicated.

DEATH LIST REACHES NINETEEN.

Crowds of Curiosity Seekers Flock to the Scene of the Disaster—Bodies of Engineer Foyle, Fireman Tompkins and Secretary McKay Still Missing.

Garristons, N. Y., Oct. 26.—The complete list of the killed in the New York Central and Hudson River railroad wreck, a list which the railroad officials believe includes all of those who could possibly have been lost, amounts up to 19, and is as follows:

Thomas Reilly, St. Louis; E. A. Green, Chicago; W. H. G. Myers, Tremont, N. Y.; Giuseppe Taguana, New York; W. Schenckbecker, Newark, N. J.; Samuel Williams, Buffalo; A. G. McKay, private secretary to General Superintendent Van Etten; John Foyle, engineer, East Albany; John Q. Tompkins, fireman, East Albany; Mrs. Robert H. Lindsman, Utica, N. Y.; Chin Lee Song, San Francisco; China Fong Hop, 20 years old, brother of Lee Song, San Francisco; Chin Quong Hong, New York, father of Fong Hop and Lee Song; Hoo Wuh, New York; Lee Tong Sing, 17 Mott street, New York, merchant; Wong Gih, Hoo Sing and an unidentified Chinaman; unidentified woman, about 34 years old, said to be from Hudson, N. Y.

The Bodies of the Engineer, Fireman and Mr. Van Etten's Secretary are yet in the river, with small hope of their immediate recovery.

The incidents and features of yesterday had a tinge of the dramatic around the stations near the wreck, and walked through the drenching rain to stand and stare at the burning embers and mutilated cars. Of the 15 dead who lay in the coroner's office at Cold Springs eight were heathen foreigners, whose names or residences meant scarcely anything to the general public, and out of those eight were identified and claimed long before any person had come forward to inquire or seek for two well dressed and evidently respectable Christian white women, the only women killed in the wreck. In the morgue they lay for the full two days unclaimed and unthought, evidently the other day dead were claimed and taken care of.

The 16 bodies that were held at Cold Spring for identification and the claim of the relatives were divided between the two undertaking establishments. All day long these places were besieged by crowds of the curious, and those who might in any way establish the identity of the victims were admitted to look upon them.

The first body identified yesterday was that of Samuel Williams, of Buffalo, who died after being taken out of the wreck, and who on his way to the Peekskill hospital. The body was removed from Peekskill to Cold Spring, and was identified by the man's brother, Henry C. Williams, and Rev. August Goetz, pastor of Bartholomew Evangelical church, of Buffalo. It was a pathetic picture that was presented by the brother and his pastor, as they clasped hands over the body of the dead man and wept together.

Early in the day the Chinamen, who it was supposed would have to be buried at the county's expense, were for the most part identified by fellow countrymen from New York. Most of the Chinamen lived in New York. Chin Lee Song and Chin Fong Hop were brothers, who lived in San Francisco, and were on their way to New York to live, being in charge of their father, Chin Quong Hon, of 15 Mott street, and who is now among the injured in the Peekskill hospital. Hoo Wuh, 50 years of age, and for a number of years a resident of New York, was on his way home from a visit to San Francisco. The bodies will be taken to New York for burial.

Yesterday afternoon George C. Green, of Buffalo, general counsel of the Lake Shore railroad, arrived at Cold Springs and identified his nephew, Edwin A. Green, of Chicago. He said that the young man was 22 years of age, had called on him in Buffalo a few days ago, being on his way to New York. The body was last night shipped to Birmingham, where Edwin's mother lives, and where he will be buried. One of the two women was identified last evening as Mrs. Mary Lindsman, of Utica, N. Y. She was identified by her husband, Robert Lindsman, a tailor, who said that his wife left home on Saturday night to go to Croton on a visit to her mother. Mrs. Lindsman's maiden name was Mamie Miller. She left Croton some time ago, and has since lived in Utica, where she was married to Lindsman in August last. She was but 24 years old and was a good looking woman.

William Schenckbecker, of Newark, N. J., was identified by his brother, of Auburn, N. Y. He was 33 years old, and leaves a wife and two children. Stories current that some parts of the wreck caught fire after the accident are declared to be untrue, as are also the rumors that two bodies had been found near Peekskill. None of the injured is known to be in a serious condition, and all are doing well.
