Heed the Warning.

Since the election in this state many of the Republican leaders have been figuring on what the meaning is of the large vote pelled for Dr. Swallow. It is an 'off' year, of course, and as a rule "off" years do not count for much in political reckoning, but on this occasion it cuts a post important figure in prognosticating as to what is likely to happen in the future. One thing is certain there will be a hot time all along the Hne next year.

It was not until near the close of the canvass that the Republican leaders recognized the demoralized condition of the party, and it was then too late to improve it. There is no denying the fact that the supporters of Dr. Swallow have been iraged by the large vot polled and will enter the fight next year with this prestige. The Repub-Hean leaders will have a battle royal on their hands in 1898 for the control of the state legislature and the election of a Governor and a United States Senator to succeed M. S. Quay.

The able and astute Washington correspondent of the Philadelphia Starday this to say upon the subject: set the leaders to thinking. It looks 5,441 miles of road, passed into the by druggists, price fifty can's and see dellar, as if it means trouble next year of a The outcome in Pennsylvania has as if it means trouble next year of a serious nature. The people voted on Tuesday as if they were in a restless condition; as if they were not satisfled with the way things are going on. Somebody is going to get hurt next year when it is time to start the campaign unless present appearances vanish at an early day.
