HOW QUESADA ESCAPED DEATH.

Betrayed Allies of the Insurgents in the Spanish Army-Captain Laborde Denies the Sturies of Cruetty in Spanish Prisons-Melton's Surprise.

New York, Nov. 23.—The steamer Saratoga, from Havana, having on board the released members of the Competi-tor fillbustering expedition, arrived here last evening. The men are Cap-tain Alfredo Labords, William Gildea. Ona Melton, William Leavitt and Charles Barnett, an Englishman. The men are in fairly good health and ex-cellent spirits. Captain Laborde suffers somewhat from paralysis, which he contracted during his long confinement in the Cabanaa fortress, Joseph A. Springer, the United States vice consul at Havana, was also a passenger on the their capture on April 25, 1896, at Ber-racos, San Cayetano, Cuba.

The six men who had escaped the fate of the Virginius captives were greeted upon their arrival in New York by an enthusiastic crowd, who gave them a hearty welcome. The poor wretches were too weak to respond to the cheers which had been given in their honor. Their friends cried for joy as they grasped the hands of the re leased prisoners, whose eyes were sunk-en, faces pallid and forms emaciated. In telling the story of his release young Quesada declared that it was owing to information he possessed regarding two Spanish generals. After detailing the manner of his capture and his sentence to death he continued

This proposition was accepted, and in this way we were able to keep in constant communication with Gomes, Maceo and Garcia." The friends of young Quesada were surprised to learn that he had secured his release by giving away a secret which betrayed the allies of the insurgents in the Spanish army. It was this information, and not General Blanco's friendship for the late Professor Quesada, that secured his pardon. Probably the most wretched of the Competitor's crew was Ona Melton, the newspaper correspondent, whose intention, on going to Cuba, was not to par-ticipate in the war, but to represent the true situation in that country.

In describing his capture and subsquent treatment Melton said that when the first shot was fired by the Spanish gunboat he and two of his companions lowered a small boat and tried to escape. They were pursued and captured a short distance from the shore. On board the gunboat they were cruelly with sharp pointed sticks, which pund tured their flesh. They were after-wards thrown into a cell and fed but once a day. After the first six days the prisoners were permitted to see Consul Williams, and were fed twice a day, but just the sort of the food it was Melton is still unable to say. It barely supported life, that was all. After the respite Melton said he and his companions were placed in a large cell containing 40 other prisoners, both political and criminal, in the Cabanas fortress, and there he remained in trembling and fear. Last Thursday afternoon he was taken out of the dungeon as he supposed to be shot, but in the corridor he met Consul General Lee, who, to Melton's surprise, informed him that all of the Competitor prisoners had
