tired of living. When the excitement caused by Barbain's attempted suicide had subsided McCallum announced to his prison mates that he would play a joke on the keepers. A few moments later a con-vict in a cell adjoining McCallum's heard the latter's cell door rattle, followed by a low groan. A shout of warning brought the keepers to the scene. McCallum was found hanging from the door. He had tied one end of a strap to the bars and the other about his neck, bent his knees under him, and allowed his full weight to hang on the strap. He had not been banging more than a couple of minutes, but the physician could not save his life. The doctor said that the strap must have pressed against the men's jumilar vein in such a way as to render him uncondous almost instantly McCallum was serving a 60 days' sen-
