Mrs. Crawford has another sketch, dissecting the late Dr. Thomas W. Evans, the American dentist of Paris, commencing with the quotation:

"The rich man allo died and was buried." The says this text does not apply to Dr. Evans, as nobody thought it a duty to combrate his obsequios. Mrs. Crawford adds:

"There were only servants and sec-retaries in the household when he died and of course they were not going to incur expense, so the remains were thrust into a vnult somewhere, pend-ing the opening of the will.

A Unique Spollsman.

In the discussion upon the Civil Service bill in the House of Repre. sentatives on Monday, the Congressman from Schuylkill had the floor and proclaimed himself an out-andout spoilsman.

His resounding voice is said to have service system largely responsible for the corruption that existed in politics, and especially in the larger cities, because of the tendency it had to foster in the minds of Mugwumps, dudes, snobs, educated imbeciles and Anglo-maniacs, the idea that it was very vulgar to take an active part in leader, made a clear statement of the politics. He declared in favor of the minority position, which indicates that total repeal of the "infamous law," asserting that he would vote with the Democrats or anyone else to wipe it from the statute books. He believed in securing positions for the party workers by political "pulls."

It can hardly be believed that upon the very day that the leather lunged Congressman was vociferating his opposition to the Civil Service law in this outspoken manner, the President sent the name of a person who, though not one of the class named so contemptuously, yet is a political nonenity, to the Senate for confirmation to an office on the recommendation of this same Congressman.

But, then, Schuylkill's representative probably does not consider Girardville one of "the larger cities," and it may be vulgar to take an active Grubler Bros., drug store.

No trouble is more common or more misunderstood than nervous dyspepsia. People having it think that their nerves are to dame and are surprised that they are not cured by nerve medicine and spring remedies; the real seat of the mischief is lost sight of; the stomach is the organ to be looked after.

Nervous dyspeptics often do not have any oain whatever in the stemach, nor perhaps any of the usual symptoms of stomach weakness. Nervous dyspepsia shows itself not in the stomach so much as in nearly every other organ; in some cases the heart palpitates and is irregular; in others the kidneys are affected ; in others the bowels are conis positively stated by Mr. Pearson, are affected; in others the bowels are con-North Carolina Republican, that assistipated, with beadaches; still others are reverberated through the galleries as he announced that he held the civil surances have been received from those in authority in the house that an op-
