THE STRIKERS THREATS

Further Testimony For the Defense in the Wilkesbarre Trial.

MEN DRIVEN FROM THEIR WORK.

One Witness Declares That Several Attempts Were Made to Start a vented by the Strikers.

Wilkesbarre, Pa., Feb. 24.-The defense in the trial of Sheriff Martin and his deputies yesterday produced ran for the brush when some strikers tried to capture him. Two shots were fired, but he managed to escape.

August Winnock, who worked at Cranberry, testified that on Sept. 3, seven days before the fatal shooting, a crowd of strikers told the workmen that they must quit or they would be hurt. On the day before the shooting they tried again to work, but were stopped on the road and told they would be killed if they went to the workings.

Ludwig Laube, of Cranberry, stated that he refused to go home when ordered to do so by the strikers, and in consequence was struck in the back with a stone thrown by a striker, and

Robert Hillhouse testified that he had stones shaken in his face, and was sworn at when he tried to pass through the ranks of the strikers.

Lawrence Ermold, a 15-year-old boy. was following his father through a crowd of strikers when he was struck and kicked severely. He was finally rescued by his father and two strikers.

Robert Depew, of Cranberry, saw a lot of strikers cutting the limbs of trees to use as clubs. They pursued him, but he escaped and went to work The next day they caught him on the way to work and made him go back home under threat of injury.

John Shavello saw armed strikers at West Hazleton on Sept. 8. Mrs. Anna Krecht, of West Hazle-ton, told her husband to run into the bush when the marching strikers came In sight. She saw two men armed with clubs and heard two shots fired.

Corroborative evidence was given by Emma Rutgen, 15-year-old Herman Rutger, Mrs. Emma Stage and Wilhelmina Hoffman. The latter saw a striker fire two shots at a boy.

Jacob Williams, time keeper of the Cranberry breaker, gave some interesting testimony relative to the moveand pieces of iron. They tried to step the Crystal Ridge strippings on Sept.

7. There were 60 or 70 of them, but the sheriff and four deputies were present. The sheriff told them they were doing wrong and violating the law, and they went back again. On Sept. 10 I saw the strikers marching into Crystal Ridge and saw several small said she told the boarders at her house to hide in the church, where they would be safe from the strikers.

William Steibe, on Sept. 10, saw the Harwood strikers beating Andrew Worshak, who had been hiding from them at Crystal Ridge. He took the man home and sent for Dr. Robertson, who found the man terribly bruised Mrs. Carrle Haas, of Cranberry, saw the strikers drag a man out of his home by the arms, and saw them fire two shots at some fleeing men. The man dragged out of his house had been sick in bed. At a meeting at Cran-berry on the day before the shooting one of the speakers said: "If the English speaking people do not do as we want them to we will crush the stuff-ing out of them. If we don't get our jobs back then every breaker in the region will go up in the air."

evidence was only admitted after a lengthy argument. John Mummy said two shots were fired at him as he ran into the bushes, and Gustav Jack told how he was hidden and forced him to join their Joseph Ermold said when the strikers tried to stop him on Sept. 10 he drew a revolver, whereupon they let him pass, but threatened him.

John Beach, of the Harwood colliery, said: "On Sept. 3 I heard the McAdoo men were coming and told all my men to go home. Two of the McAdoo men came on wheels, and said: 'We are go ing to stop the mine and drive the men out.' When the strikers came some of them wanted to cut the rope of No. 2 plane. A carload of men were being hauled up, and if the rope had been cut they would have been killed. By hard talking I managed to persuade the strikers not to cut the rope,

"On Monday, Sept. 6, a crowd of Harwood men, armed with clubs, came to the breaker and went through it, looking for men who were hiding from They found none, and the leaders. Joe Eobotski and John Kubitski. told me that if any of them came to work they would be killed. Between Sept. 6 and 10 we tried several times to start the breaker, but each time the men were driven back by the strikers and threatened with death."

W. H. Snyder, master mechanic and assistant superintendent of the Silver Brook Coal company, said that a few days before the Lattimer shooting the McAdoo strikers marched there and told them to stop hoisting. They did so, and then the strikers pulled out the fires, chased out the firemen and said if there was any more work everybody would be killed and the breaker torn down. They then smashed every-thing in the blacksmith shop. A few days before, while driving, a striker shot at him. Snyder returned the fire, and there was an exchange of shots.

M. ZOLA'S CONVICTION.

What Everybody Requires at The Farcical Trial Ends as Has Been Predicted.

While Publisher Perreux Must Serve Four Months Longer - The Great Novelist Bears His Conviction and Sentence Philosophically,

Paris, Feb. 24.—The Zola trial is end ed. The jury agreed days ahead on the verdict, and its unanimity was due to threats. It stayed in the jury room for a few minutes, and the sentence is one year for M. Zola and one year and

His friends, the artists, Bruneau and Desmeulin, were more broken hearted than she. They have daily accompanied Zola, protecting him from mob violence. M. Laborle was also greatly upset.

Zola, protecting him from mob violence.

M. Laborie was also greatly upset.

Zola's other friends were delighted. They declared that by the sentence he was redeemed from all past faults; that it set him on a radiant pedestal, gave him a unique position and would make him the representative man of humanity. They had greatly feared a severe sentence, but one wiped off with the benefit of the first offender's law. In this case he would not have gone to prison.

The troops were never employed to keep order during the trial. The civic guards and constabulary only were called out. There were 7,000 on duty a ground the law courts yesterday, but despite all precautions to exclude the public 2,000 persons got into the hali. A monarchy could only live by force of the army, and would mean war. France is not organized for war, for her army is only organized for war, for her army is only militia, but Prince Henry of Orleans is hoping for military movement against the republic and to come to the top. He daily showed himself during the trial in the hall of the court house, and one day embraced Major Esterhazy, crying, "Vive l'armee." He was surrounded and salaamed to by his Orleanist friends. But it did not do. He has no brilliant, captivating qualities, but only an ambiguous, half girlish figure, and talks through his nose languidly.

The cheering was tremendous all over town, but there was little violence, though the Jews were terrified. Some Jews managed to be near the law court, but escaped with their lives. The house was filled from the ground floor to the garret with bouquets of flowers that had come from all parts, the gifts, doubtless, of Jewish ladies. The tables were littered deep with tele-grams. One dispatch of 3,000 words came from Odessa. M. Zola will write another letter before surrendering himself. He was go-ing, he said, to the end of the century in all around conditions. The friends around him envied him his departure in the path of glory. What an honor it would be to be a martyr for truth and justice! He had all that a prosperous career could give, but the way of the cross, philosophically understood, was now open to him. He says he is sorry for France, but thinks she will right herself. A friend expressed regret that there is so much bourgeois comfort at the St. Pelagie prison. M. Rochefort has there his English bed and bedding, and his servant and wife go daily to prepare his lunch. A cell would be preferable were it not for rheumatism.

Zola's oldest friend assures me that he will not die in jall. He was brought up in hardship. His father was an old military campaigner with Napoleon, and was in the retreat from Russia, at Waterloo and other battles, a sturdy French peasant. M. Zola was reared by peasantry to be hardy and enduring His health is not so good as a while ago, owing to his anti-fat diet, but the prison is sure to strengthen him.

M. Zola can remain at liberty for three days, during which he may decide whether to appeal to the court of cassation, an appeal which can only be taken on the ground of irregularities of proceedure. If these were proved it would justify an annulment of the trial Should an appeal be taken it would not come on before the court of cassation until after the next general elections, when it is probable that a new ministry will be in power.
