Eczema All Her Life.

Mr. E. D. Jenkins, of Lithonia. Ga., says that his daughter, Ida, inherited a severe case of Eczema, which the usual mercury and potash remedies failed to relieve. Year by year she was treated with various medicine, external applications and internal remedies, without result. Her sufferings were intense, and her condition grew steadily worse. All the so-called blood remedies did not

Peter Rinker, of Silver Brook, said

one of the strikers had told him that if any English people went back to work they would be killed.

Rudolph Heinzman saw several famflies driven out of their homes at Silver Brook by the strikers. Witness was caught and compelled to march with the strikers.

Robert Aircy testified that he saw a number of McAdoo strikers start for Harwood to stop the breaker there. They were armed with clubs and Iron

William Long, superintendent of the Silver Brook colliery, testified: "On Sept. 3 I heard the strikers were coming over to our coillery, and knowing they had injured some men in some washeries nearby I told our men to go home as fast as they could. The strik-ers rushed into our breaker, and with their clubs broke about 300 window panes. They then stopped the engines and blew the whistles. They also broke the windows of the blacksmith shop. When I tried to stop them one of them struck at me with a big club. I slipped, and as the club descended it struck my shoulder instead of my head, as had been intended. They also chased a lot of men into the woods."

Charles Meikrantz was captured by the strikers and compelled to march with them. He escaped, and being recaptured was beaten with a club, Henry Gustin warned off the strikers with a pistol when they tried to make him march with them. Richard John, engineer at the Beaver Brook colliery, was compelled to stop his engine under threats of being should have steamed into this port, yet hurt. William J. Hays, outside foreman at the Lehigh Valley colliery No. 1, at Yorktown, said that the McAdoo and Honey Brook strikers raided his col-liery on Sept. 2, and forced out his men. All of the 156 tenants of the company were in a state of terror. Levi Bellit, of Yorktown, said: "One of the Italian strikers threatened to run a knife into me if I did not join them. I marched a little way with them, and then escaped.

Oliver Smith was at Cranberry when the Harwood men marched through the town en route to Lattimer, on Sept. 10. The Cranberry foreigners joined. them, and four of these pursued and Superintendent Joseph McFarlane, of the Jeansville colliery, told how the McAdoo strikers had driven out the men there, with many threats and much display of force. Many of the much display of force. Many of the men were compelled to join them. The whole neighborhood, he said, was ter-rorized. Allen Weir, manager of the ommpany store at Jeansville, told the same story. John McFadden, a boss at Jeansville stripping, said he and his men were surrounded by the strikers, and stopped work without any resistance. The strikers then forced them to march along for several miles, guarding each of them closely, and threatening them with injury if they tried to escape. William Kershaw was surrounded by a lot of strikers and told he had to march along with them. He refused, and one of them tried to pull him along. He slipped from the man's grasp and ran home. A big striker, armed with a club, came rushing after him. They grappled, and Kershaw was being overpowered when his dog, Tige, sprang upon the man and bore him to the ground. This gave Kershaw a chance to escape.

Henry Matthews was chased away from his work at Jeansville by the strikers.

William Colkin, of Jeansville, was called out of his house by six strikers, armed with clubs, who threatened to brain him if he did not march along with them. He went as far as West Hazleton.

Dennis McGinley, a conductor on the Lehigh Valley railroad coal train at Cranberry, was stoned and badly cut by the strikers and forced off his train at the point of a miner's "needle." On Sept. 2 Samuel Barlow, at Mc-Adoo and Ebervale, saw 200 armed strikers stone the breaker, flourish their knives and shoot revolvers. On Sept. 7 they drove the Ebervale men out and attacked the office there, and tried to assault Superintendent John Scott, who was obliged to draw a revolver to protect himself.

EMILE ZOLA APPEALS.

Will Make an Attempt to Prevent Execution of Sentence.

BUT LITTLE HOPE OF SUCCESS.

M. Zola, However, Will Have a Suite of Rooms, Many Personal Comforts and the Privilege of Receiving Visits | Spanish proping From His Wife and Friends.

Paris, Feb. 25.— Maltre Laborie, counsel for M. Zola, yesterday lodged a notice of appeal on behalf of M. Zola from the sentence imposed upon him on Wednesday of one year's imprisonment and a fine of 2,000 francs. To-day a similar notice was filed in the case of M. Perreux, nominal director of The Aurore, in which the alleged libel for which M. Zoia was indicted

The Paris correspondent of the Lon-don Daily News, who interviewed M. Zola yesterday, says: "He appeared fatigued, but was quite frank, natural and unconcerned. He had not a word he has been in the hospital. of regret or bitterness in his conversation, and he expressed great pleasure at knowing that foreign nations almost universally sympathized with David Christie Murray, who interviewed Maitre Laboris on behalf of the London News, says: "M. Laboric has little hope of a revision of the sen tence, and no hope whatever of its reversal. M. Zola, however, will be even better treated than first class misdemeanors in England. He will have a suite of rooms, access to books and newspapers, many personal comforts and the privilege of receiving visits from his wife and friends."

Mr. Murray also interviewed M. Zela. The latter said he did not grieve for himself, but was cut to the heart by the condition of his country, that could sanction such a verdict. He declared that he would not abandon the crusade, but he said sadly: "Where can we make the next appeal? Our lack of means is obvious. France believes her honor assailed, and therefore she is reluctant to be influenced even by foreign opinion. She would rather resent the attempt to impose foreign judg-ment upon her own free will. For the present patience is the only wisdom."
