Large Gaugs of Timbermen and Carpenters Repairing the Damage.

The operations at the wrecked trestle and bridge of the Pennsylvania Railrowd, at Roston Run, present a busy scene. Nearly one hundred and fifty men are working with a persistent and tireless movement that seems to set nature at defiance. But one object seems to be in view by the busy colony -to rebuild the collapsed structure regardhas of the amount of expenditure that may be required in labor or material.

Last night it was decided to dispense with the Pennsylvania Company's wreck crew from Pottaville, leaving two crews on the ground. They are the P.& R. force from Reading and the Pennsylvania R. R. force from Sunbury, each having steam wreck apparatus of gigantle power. The Pottsville crew will hereafter devote itself to hauling materials to the seene of operations,

There are at work on the scene 41 carpenters and 21 timbermen and this morning 50 trackmen were added to the force. Ter car loads of heavy bridge timber have arrived at the place. The workmen came from Re nova, Williamaport, Sunbury, Pottsville and Rending. The last to arrive gesterday were 14 carpenders, who came from Renova. One of the officials in charge said to-day that when once the men start in to work they devote no time to sleep and that the work of rebuilding the bridge and trestle would be pushed with a view to having trains run over the branch on Saturday.
