MONDAY, MARCH 28, 1905.

There are few inland dailies receiving better news service than that furnished the Herald by the American Press Association.

MANY complaints have been made of late by our merchants that they are daily besieged by those who not only invite, but more frequently urge them to buy a ticket to some ball or dance, or some musical or literary entertainment, or urge them to take a space in some advertising scheme that, to any one of them, is of no earthly use whatever, and oftentimes when refused, the person soliciting is indignant because successful.

It is reported that the Populists over Republicans are about to break with the Democrats on account of a discovery that the latter are not willing to "toe fair" with them.

The Board of Health. We are in receipt of the following communication, and as it bears upon the duties of an important branch of our borough government, we give it space in our columns:

While the Board of Health, or rather its salaried officials, do not meet the expectations of the people, yet we believe our correspondent is somewhat severe in his criticisms.

For the past two or three months the Board has been considering the subject of milk inspection—and up to the present time it has resulted in nothing but talk.

There is no good reason why he should not do so now. It certainly comes within the scope of his duties, and no one will have the hardihood to say that he hasn't the time to devote to this work.

THE DUTY OF MOTHERS.

Daughters Should be Carefully Guided in Early Womanhood. What suffering frequently results from a mother's ignorance, or more frequently from a mother's neglect to properly instruct her daughter?

Tradition says "woman must suffer," and a little truth and a great deal of exaggeration in this. If a young woman suffers severely she needs treatment and her mother should see that she gets it.

Many mothers hesitate to take their daughters to a physician for examination, but no mother need hesitate to write freely about her daughter or herself to Mrs. Pinkham and secure the most efficient advice without charge.

The following letter from Miss MARY E. JOHNSON, Centerville, Pa., shows what neglect will do, and tells how Mrs. Pinkham helped her:

"My health became so poor that I had to leave school. I was all the time, and had drops of pus in my side and back. I was also troubled with irregularity of menses. I was very weak and lost so much flesh that my friends became alarmed. My mother, who is a firm believer in your remedies from experience, thought perhaps they might be of some use to me.

While standing at the bedside of my father in New York, 8-year-old Harry Farara's dress ignited and he was fatally burned.

Lewis Kirk, in late Lancaster, Pa., for shooting a woman out to kill. Edward Peck, who had declared insane, and tried for the insanity.

Ex-Governor-in-Chief T. S. Clark has tendered the service of himself and a regiment from Omaha, Neb., in case of war.

Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup seems especially adapted to the needs of the children. Pleasant to take; soothing in its influence. It is the remedy of all remedies for every ailment of throat and lung disease.

BEAT HIS SON TO DEATH.

That is the Charge Against a New Castle, Del., Negro. Wilmington, Del., March 25.—Alexander Doman, colored, was locked up in the New Castle jail yesterday, charged with murdering his 6-year-old boy, Joshua. The body of the boy was found buried in a box in the garden adjoining the house formerly occupied by Doman.

Ason to Hide Triple Murderer. Atlanta, Ga., March 25.—Firemen responding to an alarm at an early hour yesterday morning found the bodies of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Erley, white, and Robert Wilkinson, colored, in a store at 75 Humphries street, which was being rapidly consumed.

What pleasure is there in life with a headache, constipation and biliousness? Thousands experience them who could become perfectly healthy by using Dr. Williams' Little Early Pills, the famous Little C. H. Hagenbach.

Boat Capsized, Four Drowned. Seattle, Wash., March 25.—The steamer Bertha brings news that on March 23, C. A. Andrews, second engineer of the steamer J. C. Barr; T. H. Tracey, riveter and fitter; W. C. Doerr and Peter Doerr, father and son, of St. Louis, were drowned at Dutch Harbor. They were crossing in a small boat from Unalaska to Dutch Harbor in a squall, and their boat capsized.

SEWARD'S BIG DEBT.

How His Legal Fight for Woodward Enabled Him to Pay It. Calvin Huson, an old time lawyer of this city who died in Liberty prison, used to tell a good story of William H. Seward.

It was not long after this that Woodward, the famous manufacturer of Woodford, began to have a lot of trouble with firms all over the country who infringed his patents.

When Woodward went to find Seward at his hotel, it was to learn that the latter had taken the train immediately after the close of court for Auburn. Woodward followed him on the next train, and engaged Seward to conduct his case for him.

The opposition was represented by 12 lawyers, among whom were senators, congressmen and some of the best attorneys in the state. After much debating among themselves as to who should conduct the defense, they finally settled the job upon one of their number. He was no match for Seward, who easily won the case and got a strong opinion from the court.

Arrived with the opinion, Seward went back to Auburn and began the fight all along the line, wherever there was an infringement. He sent a copy of a voluminous brief to every man who was concerned in the infringement, and they were satisfied all over the United States, together with the opinion. For several weeks briefs left Seward's office by the bushel basket.

The benevolent person was in the 10 cent eating house indulging his appetite as far as the limits of the place permitted, when he was approached by a small boy with a bundle of new pencils under his arm and a cheap indelible pencil for sale.

"Want to buy a indelible pencil?" said the boy.

"How much is it, my son?" inquired the benevolent person.

"Only 5 cents," replied the boy.

"If I bought it I wouldn't have any use for it."

"I don't think it is of much use, is it?"

"I've got to use it, I have you?"

"Why do you want to sell it?"

"I want the 5 cents I'll get for it."

"Then you don't want the pencil?"

"I'd rather have the 5 cents," he ventured at last.

"I'd rather have the 5 cents," he ventured at last.

"I'd rather have the 5 cents," he ventured at last.

THE RISING MISSISSIPPI.

The Ohio River Flood Rushing Down to the Big River. PEOPLE DRIVEN FROM HOMES.

While the situation at Cincinnati and other Ohio River points is reassuring, reports from the Mississippi are alarming.

Cincinnati, March 25.—Unless rain should come copiously and quickly, the present freshet of the Ohio river will very soon pour the great flood into the Mississippi river. From Portsmouth up it is falling, while at all points below it is rising.

In the two-story houses families remain in the upper stories. Of flooded houses 500 are in and about Cumminsville from backwater in the Illinois river where the traction is more annoying than serious.

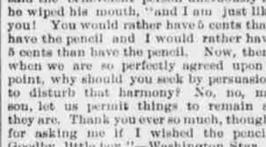

On the Kentucky side the inhabitants of lowlands near Dayton and Bellevue have been placed in the same unpleasant situation as their Cincinnati neighbors.

St. Louis, March 25.—Specials from river points that lie at Illinois, Ill., the Washab railroad bridges on both sides of the town are washed out and the families living in the Sangamon bottom have been obliged to leave their homes.

A special from Hannibal, Mo., says that that part of the city along Dear street is under water, making travel impossible except in skiffs or vehicles.

Both the city and the Missouri, Kansas and Texas railroad dykes gave way, flooding a section two miles long and arousing the sleeping inmates, who barely had time to escape.
