ATTACKING THE BATTERIES

Admiral Sampson Keeping the Spaniards Busy Replacing Their Destroyed Fortifications.

VESUVIUS USES DYNAMITE!

CAIMANERA IS DEMOLISHED

Bombardment Lasted But 95 Minutes.

SAMPSON KEPT BUSY

Making Preparations to Attack Other Points in the Vicinity of Santiago.

Special to EVENING HERALD.

Kingston, Jamaica, June 16.—The defenses of Caimanera have been demolished by the battleship Texas, Captain J. W. Philip; cruiser Marblehead, Commander B. H. McCalla; and the gunboat Suwanee, after a bombardment of ninety-five minutes.

Admiral Sampson is preparing to attack the new batteries being erected on a high point at Cajibabo Point. There is an open bay at this place, eight miles east of Santiago harbor, and but a few miles across the country to Santiago city. There is an iron pier at this point, and is well adapted for landing troops. The Spaniards are at work throwing up fortifications to prevent the landing, but Sampson's fleet will spoil their prospects.

It is impossible to estimate the number of Spaniards engaged, owing to their guerrilla methods of fighting, but it is believed there were at least 100. The Spaniards behaved splendidly, their marksmanship being excellent, even under the severe fire of the enemy.

The captured camp lay about five miles southeast of the rifle pits of the Spaniards, and was an important base for the enemy, as it contained the only well within six or seven miles. Lieutenant Colonel Huntington decided on the attack early in the day, and at about 8 o'clock the force started across the mountain. The march up and down the steep hillsides under the glaring tropical sun was a severe test of endurance for the marines, and before the battle ground was reached 22 men had received medical attention. All were able, however, to reach the position before the fighting ceased.

The marines were compelled to march in single file, following the mountain trail. Meanwhile the Cubans darted backward and forward, to right and left, on the scout. It was from a hilltop the Americans caught sight of the Spanish camp lying on a ridge below them. It consisted of one large house, the officers' quarters, surrounded by numerous "shacks" and huts, all clustering about the precious well.

The Americans began a cautious advance, and were within 200 yards of the enemy before the crack of a rifle from the Spanish lines announced that the Spaniards had discovered them.

The troops quickly moved into line of battle, with the Cubans on the left flank. The enemy's bullets were whizzing viciously over the Americans, but the marines settled down to their work as unconcerned as though at target practice.

Very few Spaniards were in sight. They were lying behind the huts and in the brush, but the puffs of smoke revealed their positions and enabled the Americans to do effective work. For 20 minutes both sides maintained a terrific fire. The Spanish shots were generally wild and spasmodic, while the Americans coolly fired away, aiming carefully and shooting to kill. For the most part the Americans' firing was done individually, but at times the officers could direct firing by squads, always with telling effect.

It was beginning to look as though a bayonet charge down the slope would be necessary to dislodge the enemy, when suddenly the latter began to break for a thicker hundred yards further on. Little groups could be seen fleeing from the camp, separating, darting through the brush and zig-zagging to escape the bullets.

It was then the American fire became deadly. Man after man could be seen to fall in a vain rush for shelter, and the fire from the Spanish became scattering and almost ceased. Two Cubans lay dead and four wounded, and Private Walker, of Company D, had to limp to the rear, with a slight wound in his ankle.

The easy victory put the command in high spirits. The little black Cuban warriors waved their machetes and howled curses at the Spaniards in savage fashion. Their firing had been wild throughout, but they all displayed the utmost contempt for the Spanish bullets, apparently being absolutely without fear.

As the enemy began breaking camp the Dolphin, which lay out at sea, was signaled and began pitching shells toward the thicket for which the Spaniards were making. Meanwhile Lieutenant Augusti Feared Insurgent Attacks.

Madrid, June 16.—The Minister of War has received the following despatch, dated June 8, from Captain-General Augusti:

"The situation in Manila is still very grave. The enemy has completely surrounded the capital. I have been compelled to double the forces concentrated on the line of defense and to increase the garrisons in the block-houses. Trenches have been made wherever possible, so that the troops may make a good stand when it comes to fighting at close quarters.

"All communication with other parts of the island is cut off. I am without news of Gen. Mout, whom I expect with reinforcements. I am within the walled city, where a last stand will be made. The white population is concentrated here, preferring the possibility of bombardment by the Americans to the certainty of maltreatment by the insurgents. I am not aware when the squadron is likely to bombard."

Cervera to Leave Santiago.

London, June 16.—A despatch from Madrid says it is reported that Admiral Cervera is about to leave Santiago. He is short of ammunition, but, relying on the speed of his vessels, he hopes to cut his way through Admiral Sampson's fleet and attack the military expedition commanded by Gen. Shafter.

Clara Barton Sailed.

Key West, June 16.—A vessel arriving here this morning says the Santiago expedition was sighted last night twenty miles south of Tampa bay, steaming slowly southward. The Red Cross ship is awaiting the arrival of Clara Barton, expected here to-day. The vessel will immediately follow the invading army, upon Miss Barton's arrival.

KILLED IN THE MINES

Fatal Fall of Rock at the Knickerbocker Colliery.

FIRST ACCIDENT OF THE MONTH.

The Victim Met His Death While He Was Engaged in Sounding the Top Rock After a Charge Had Been Fired—His Neck Broken.

The first mine accident officially reported in this section of the Sixth anthracite district thus far this month occurred in the Knickerbocker colliery this afternoon.

The victim was Joseph Alasick, a miner 37 years of age, residing on Chambers street, near Chestnut street.

Alasick and a laborer named Stanley Sabos worked in a breast and shortly after 10 o'clock prepared and fired a charge in some rock, shortly after the firms took place Alasick went up to the face to examine the breast to resume his work. Alasick was in the act of sounding the top rock when it suddenly fell and crushed him beneath the heap of broken rock.

An examination of the body showed that it had not been mangled, but the neck was broken and death was instantaneous.

The remains were removed to the family residence and a distressing scene followed the arrival there, as the wife had no intimation of the accident until the ambulance arrived at the door. Two women fainted each supposing that the victim was her husband.

The deceased leaves two children beside the wife. He was a Lithuanian and was held in high esteem by his neighbors.

MAJOR BURKE SPEAKS.

The General Manager of Buffalo Bill's Wild West Show Interviewed.

Major John M. Burke, general manager of Buffalo Bill's Wild West show, paid the Herald office a visit yesterday. After an interesting conversation relative to his visit to Key West and Tampa last winter organizing a band of western cowboys who make up the last addition to the "Bought Brides of the World," he said: "I want the citizens of Shenandoah and surroundings to understand that this great exhibition, the original Wild West, has never been here before and should not be confounded with the minor imitations who have toured around the smaller cities. Also that Col. Cody brings the entire outfit, the largest organization that has ever travelled, 600 men and 300 horses. It is larger than it was in London, Paris, Rome, Vienna, and even at the Chicago World's Fair. The show has lately played four weeks at Madison Square Garden, New York, Boston, Philadelphia, Washington, etc. Everything will be as advertised. All the different races and nations will be represented by genuine characters. The profession in which nothing but soldiers, warriors, primitives and westerns, girls will participate will show the right of a life-time and an education that years of travel cannot equal. Every type can be closely inspected and will combine representatives of all the daring heroes of history from the Arab to the Cavalry of the world down to the Cuban wounded veterans' lines of today. Men who have fought under Gomez, Mico, and Garcia. Col. Cody will be here, never in the course of events will probably never be here again. Everything is advertised will be presented and a rare educational treat can be assured."

Grand Army ban soup will be served, free, to all patients tonight.

Latest Advice From the National Capital on the War Situation.

WASHINGT NEWS.

WASHINGTON, June 16.—The war department has new eleven transports of Tampa, and arrangements are being made for the charter of at least twice that many more. These vessels will be used to transport troops to Porto Rico. The troops at Chickamauga will be equipped at once, and from that camp 15,000 will go to Porto Rico. Two brigades, consisting of 7,000 men, will be taken from there now equipped at Falls Church, Va., will be moved further south at once, and some of these may be included in the Porto Rico expedition.

Two more fighting ships will be added to the navy by August 1st. They are the reconstructed cruisers Chicago and Atlanta.

The success of the new 2 per cent war loan is now assured from the way subscriptions are coming in to the Treasury Department from every section of the country. No subscriptions for the new bonds will be received from citizens of foreign countries unless those from our own citizens should fall below the amount called for. The opinion is expressed by officials that there will be a tremendous over-subscription, with little chance for the very large subscribers. The government will favor the smaller subscriptions in the allotment, and these will absorb the entire issue.

The state department has been informed through Consul Ruffin at Asuncion, that the commission appointed by the Paraguayan government to inquire into the condition of the Spanish torpedo gunboat Tenacore, lying there for some time, reports that she is in no condition to leave, her machinery being defective.

ANOTHER SPANISH FLEET SIGHTED.

Key West, June 16.—Naval officials here place little credence in the report that another Spanish fleet is nearing Cuban waters, supposed to be the Cadiz squadron.

The report comes via Port Antonio, and is to the effect that a British vessel, now at the above port, had received a dispatch from Port Royal, Jamaica, telling of the approach of a second Spanish squadron.

The New Orleans at Work.

Kingston, June 16.—The New Orleans, under instructions from Admiral Sampson, opened fire on new batteries being erected by Spaniards near the light-house at Santiago. She poured hot-shot at it for about ten minutes and completely demolished the new batteries, every shot taking effect. The batteries, newly supplied, but the New Orleans was not hit once. Another effort is being made by the Spaniards to repair the damage.

Probably Fatal Accident.

Ashtand, June 16.—Joseph Cull, an aged resident of this town, met with an accident early this morning that will probably result in his death. He went to bed last night at the usual hour, and about 2 o'clock this morning was attacked by nightmare. In his sleep he walked from his room in the second story to a steep landing, and fell to the bottom, a distance of about twelve feet. His head was severely cut, and was internally injured. The attending physicians say he will hardly recover. He was 65 years of age.

Spain's Cable Fleet.

Gibraltar, June 16.—Active preparations are being made at Cadix. It is believed that the fleet now there will sail singly under orders to meet at a given point, probably on the high seas. Some of them have already left. It is rumored that Admiral Dewey is short of ammunition.

Spain Orders Their Exchanges—Du Bosc and Carranza Must Leave Canada.
