Two Humanitarian Societies.

THE HERALD IS IN Receipt of two appeals in the interest of the volumteer soldiers who have left their homes and friends and are now to the front buttling for a mable muse The first appeal bears the autograph of D. L. Moody, who has organized the Army and Navy Christian Commission, which is already doing remarkable work among the sailors and suddiers. Their work is distinct from that of the Red Cross Society. in that it has to do entirely with the moral and religious needs of the the fact that the life of the camp is one of peculiar temptation. Even those who would be glad to live clean lives find it hard to do so. To help the men in this direction the commission is putting within the reach of every regiment, as fast as possible, a tent fitted with comfortable sents, tould to Brownsville a number of new a good books and papers, writing materials, etc. These the men are invited to use without charge. Each tent is in charge of a Christian man. who gives the soldiers a hearty welcome and may help be can. The men thoroughly enjoy and appreciate these tents and they are nearly always crowded.

Evangelist Moody, chairman of the commission, has sent several ministers and evangelists to the various camps to hold meetings, where there is always crowds of attentive soldiers to listen. One would hardly have thought of the war affording one of the best apportunities to preach the gospel, but Mr. Mondy finds it to be so. This work is entirely dependent upon public contributtons, and it should receive liberal support, which can be forwarded to Mr. Moody at East Northiteld, Mass.

The other appeal comes through a committee of the Philadelphia branch of the Red Cross Society, and bus intend howeverts per thousand gallons. No been sent to every clergymen in the state with the roonest that they appeal to their congregations on Sunday next for donations to carry on the

The Philadelphia branch of the society is making streamons efforts to equip an ambulance corps and field hospital, to send it to the front immediately and to maintain it.

The Red Cross Society, organized under the articles of the Geneva Treaty of 1868, which afterwards was ratified by all civilized nations, "devoted to those humane and and mercircl ministrations, deserves the hearty co-operation and aid of all good citizens who estimate at their just value, the patriotism and devojust value, the patriotism and devo-does a list of the parties exponented will be tion of those who fight in their furnished to the collecter. country's cause." Its efforts are "for the alleviation of the horrors of battle and for the relief and comfort of those who must die."

Because of its international character, the flag of the Red Cross Society is exempt from attack and its goods from confiscation. Terrible would be the calamity that would fall upon a nation violating the provisions of the Geneva Treaty. Because of its magnificent organization and years of experience, it is exceptionally competent to utilize supplies and funds without waste; and because of recording a North Main street Should because of recording to the Control of Street, and because of recording to the Control of Street, and because of recording to the Control of Street, and without waste; and because of recognition by our government it has unusual opportunity for thoroughly effeetive work with our troops.

These societies working along different lines - are both deserving of public support and encouragement. They cannot carry out their plans successfully without large expenditures of money. Their appeals will no doubt meet with hearty response from the American people.
