THE name of Washington is remembered by states, eitles, streets, towns nd public squares named for him. Henry Clay is best known by his cigars. Webster would be forgotten if it were not for the Webster dietionary edited by people not related to him. And what of Bryan?

On a friends the enemy are in a sad predicament in this county. The free-silverites insist that Bryan and the Chicago platform be endorsed by the county convention, while the gold Democrats are just as determined that the gathering of the "unterri- he has decided that there shall be no gathe above that there has been built first on July 11th shall not compute exchange of remainers with the United in the United States Lief rather of new that" on July 11th shall not commit itself to the degmas of the 16 to 1 people. Thus we find the Democrats, on the eve of their convention, "be tween the devil and the deep sea," The lessons of the last campaign have clearly shown that the Democratic ticket, to be successful, must have the hearty support of both these elements, but so far the efforts of the harmonizers have proven futile. The Republicans can well afford to look on with complacency, feeling assured of success, provided the political of success, provided the political barmeles and bushwackers in their own ranks are relegated to the rear.
