OUR COUNTRY: First, Last and Forever.

To MORROW the stamp tax goes into effect. Business men and others should keep this in mind.

GEN. MENRIET used to be a printer and ought to realize the importance of sending the forms down on time.

WATCHING our military balloons by day and listening for the "rough" of the Vesuvius at night are calculated to make insomnia take an epidemic form at Santiago.

SENIOR COLG is a more persevering man than Editor Finney, or else he does not know so well when to let go of a discredited public official who seeks a life tenure of an office.

THE committee having in charge the Fourth of July celebration will meet to-morrow evening, when final arrangements will be made for the demonstration. Let all join in an effort to make it a success.

THE ordinance in reference to the muzzling of dogs has been given sufficient publicity, but there seems to be little effort on the part of the officials to enforce its provisions. There is much complaint on this score.

SOME of the veteran military critics predicted that it would take nearly a week to land Gen. Shafter's army at Santiago. President was on their side, but in this instance a single day answered the purpose and to prove the exception to the rule.

THE literary editor of the Miners Journal has earned the distinction of being a humorist of much merit, while the political editor of the same paper has become a rival of President Love, of Peace Union fame. That is a combination hard to beat, and the Congressional aspirant has secured good lieutenants.

THE next time the delegates to the Democratic state convention from this county meet and decide what that body shall declare on the money question, they should first ascertain the views of their colleagues. Apparently their free silver manifesto had little effect at Altoona. What will be the result at the county convention is yet an open question.

THE physicians out at Lawrence, Kansas, have formed a trust and instituted the nefarious scheme of high and rigid uniformity in their fees. No man can take a pill, or fix up a next morning's headache, or poultice a corn unless he thereby swells the coffers of this monopoly. Meanwhile the Kansas anti-trust law has been given knockout drops.

THE coming celebration of the Fourth of July will be a memorable one. Enough has already happened during the war to greatly inspire the national spirit, but other important achievements are likely to be recorded before Monday next. All the country is preparing for a Fourth of exceptional enthusiasm, and Shenandoah should be among the foremost in this county. The movement is well under way and those actively at work have every encouragement of success. Let the cannon boom, and the national anthem float from every house top.

THE President on horseback rides spiritedly across the cover of the July Ladies' Home Journal under his new flag, and his chief characteristics are detailed in an illustrated anecdotal biography, contributed by his nearest and most intimate friends. Very timely, also, is "The President's March," composed by Victor Herbert and designed to be played as a compliment to the head of the nation whenever he appears in public. At this time much interest will be taken in the original Declaration of Independence, now guarded from public gaze, which, with the original draft of the treasured document, is photographically reproduced in the July Journal by arrangement with the State Department.

Priceless Pain

It Can Point Back to Your Grandfather's Pain in Life.

The fact that the hand looks shapely and more graceful when the middle and third fingers are slightly curved in and away from the index and little finger is shown by the models in the glove store windows, and while it is affection to hold the hands in such a position, yet this exercise to make the joints natural, should be practiced.

Some one has said somewhere that the number of cultured generations back of an individual may be judged by the degree of curve in the little finger. Observe this with a mirror and you will see that when one sees a person holding a glass or cup with the little finger thrust out and curved until it resembles a hook, a little investigation will almost invariably show that the desire for culture has only just awakened in the particular family, and in its weakness is somewhat oversteering the mark.

The little finger may be used at any and all times during pregnancy up to the very hour of confinement. The earlier it is begun, and the longer used, the more perfect will be the result, but it has been used during the last month only with great benefit and success.

It not only shortens labor and lessens the pain attending it, but greatly diminishes the danger to life of both mother and child, and leaves the mother in a condition more favorable to speedy recovery.

"Mother's Friend" is sold by druggists at $1.00, or sent by express on receipt of price.

LOOKING FOR TROUBLE.

The Average Boy's Anxieties When He Meets a Schoolmate.

The new boy in the neighborhood always expects a trying time. He looks for covert threats and hidden snipes, and even for belittling demonstrations. He confidently believes all the boys in the new neighborhood are bent upon getting him.

"What did they say?" "They said everything. Didn't they, sister?" "But what did they say?" "I told you they said everything—an the boys said they were to get you."

"Oh, she said things. Didn't she, sister?" "Come, my boy, I'm in the head of the household. It's 'narrow those generalities down to facts. What did the servant girl say?"

"She said my name. Didn't she?" "What did she call you?" "She said 'good morning, children,' an then she said 'my name' as us as they."

"What kind of name did you make?" "Why, they— they— they— they called sister names. Didn't they?" "What did they call you sister?" "They said, 'How do you do, little girl,' an then—"

"There," said the father as he unfolded his napkin, "I guess we'll call the incident closed. The trouble with you, my boy, is that this neighborhood is treating you altogether too well. But if you go right ahead looking for trouble in the way you've started out, you'll be apt to find it in quantities that will take away your breath."

The boy snorted once or twice, and then the breakfast proceeded. —Cleveland Plain Dealer.

OLD AGE

When people get old their blood becomes old, too. It gets full of acids and impurities, and those things cause Rheumatism, Kidney, Urinary and Bladder Diseases come also, and aged men and women suffer untold aches and pains. Premature death is nearly always due to neglect. Life can be prolonged without question if a little attention is paid to the symptoms which plainly tell of danger.

Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy drives every taint of impurity from the blood, and thus Rheumatism is overcome. Its mild but positive effects upon ailments of the Kidneys and Urinary Organs are widely known. It is sold at druggists for $1 a large bottle.

SAMPLE BOTTLE FREE.—If there is a sediment to your urine after standing a while; if you have frequent desire to make water, especially at night, and there is pain in passing it; if your urine is cloudy, or has a strong odor; if you have Rheumatism, or are Constipated, send your name and address to the Dr. David Kennedy Corporation, Rondout, N. Y., and mention the name of this paper. A sample bottle of Favorite Remedy, with circular of valuable information, will then be mailed free. This offer is genuine.

The Sailors' Honeymoon. A sailorman is fond of pets, but a ship is no place for animal life. However, there are few ships, and few sailors, that do not carry out of port a crop of hens and a rooster. These seem to be for company or association or something of that sort, for the oldest mariner never heard of one of the hens being killed for the mess, and a hen at sea is absolutely taboo to lay eggs, and small blame to them.

The honooop is generally placed on the forward deck near the fore'side, in which the sailors live. They have a box of sand in which to roll and are made so comfortable with a canvas cover and a layer of straw that they become excellent sailors, and it is a queer sight to see them balance themselves on their sea legs when the ship tosses and rolls.

When the ship is in dock, the fowls are always driven into their coop and kept there until the ship is at sea, when they are released and given the freedom of the deck. At night they seek the shelter of their coop of their own accord.—Kansas City Star.

The Turbot Battery. Early in this century, in 1812, Colonel John Stevens conceived the idea of the construction of an iron plated vessel of war with a saucer shaped hull, propelled by screws so arranged as to give a rotary motion to the structure. The battery was to be of the heaviest ordnance of the time, and the plating heavy enough to resist the shot of similar guns at short range. Steady and Fitz-Hugh Lee. The conversation had drifted into war channels, and the major had the floor. "Well, Colonel Mosby, you know, was a good fighter, but when General Grant sent him to China the Virginians turned the coat on him. One day he was making a speech full of emotion to the Virginians that they ought to vote for him."

"Why," said the colonel, "I fought all over northern Virginia for four years. Talk about your war record! Why, my war record is a part of the state's history. Why, gentlemen, I carried the last Confederate flag through this very town."

"Yes," replied Fitz-Hugh Lee, "for I was here at the time." "Thank you for your fortunate recollection," gratefully exclaimed Mosby. "It is pleasant to know that there still live some men who put aside envy and testify to the courage of their fellow beings. As I say, gentlemen, my war record is a part of the state's history, for the gentleman here will tell you that I carried the last Confederate flag through this town."

"That's a fact," said Fitz-Hugh Lee. "I saw him do it. He carried the Confederate flag through this town, but Kilpatrick was after him, and he carried it no blamed fact you couldn't have told whether it was the Confederate flag or a small-pox warning."—New York Sun.

IF I KNEW. If I knew the box where the smiles are kept, No matter how large the key, Or strong the lock, I would try so hard 'Twould open, I know, for me. Then over the land and sea broadcast I'd scatter the smiles to play, That the children's faces might hold them fast For many and many a day.

IF I KNEW. If I knew a box that was large enough To hold all the smiles I meet, I'd try to get it, I'd try to get it, From nursery, school and street. Then, folding and holding, I'd pack them in And turn the monster key, I'd give a giant to drop the box To the depths of the deep, deep sea. —Boston Watchman.

NOT A JUDGE OF CUSTOMERS.

Mistake Made by the Clerk Who Had Charge of the Fans.

The languid young man in the fan department of a leading dry goods store was approached by an elderly lady, who asked to be shown some fans. The young salesman reached a long-handled trunk to a shelf and took down a box of spangled and feather edged fans.

"I would prefer something plainer and more serviceable," suggested the customer. He gave her a long look, which seemed to take in every detail of her toilet, and with the same languid air that characterized his first movements lifted a box of cotton back fans to the counter. Spreading one of these wide open, he waved it gently to and fro while he remarked:

"I know just what you want. One of these will be good for any occasion—this green satin, for instance."

"Oh, thanks," murmured the customer, and inquiring the price, she paid for the article and waited for her parcel and change.

"Nice weather we are having," said the young man contentedly as he restored the parcel to its original position.

"I'm so glad you like it," said his customer, gazing wistfully into vacancy.

Before he could be sure that no sarcasm was meant the package came, and he counted the change into the customer's hand with a shade more of alacrity than he had hitherto displayed. Then she got back at him.

"I'm so glad to have met you," she said, "it is such a comfort to find some one who knows just what you want! Now, when I came into the store, I expected to buy a fan with real tortoise shell sticks and a lace border to carry to a wedding I shall attend tonight. But you knew what I wanted and have sold me a fan for 80 cents, a great saving for me too. I thought I wanted the other, but you knew I didn't. Thanks and goodbye."

"She walked off, and the young man who had stood her up for a purchase in the line of any old thing is hoping she does not know his employer and is now willing to give customers the right to choose for themselves."—Chicago Times-Herald.

Against the Grain. Those who go among the poor to seek their elevation have need of the same subtlety and respectful sympathy which are required in dealing successfully with human nature in every department of life. Doctor Wilson tells of a visitor who entered a poor woman's home, helped herself to a seat and began with the avowed question: "Does your husband drink?"

"No," replied the insulted wife. "Does yours?" He told the story of an Indianapolis kindergarten teacher who called at the door of a really degraded woman and was met in a mood of sullen defiance.

"Did you come from the mission?" demanded the woman. "No." "Are you going to preach me a sermon?" "No." "Did you bring a Bible?" "No. I came from the kindergarten, and I want to talk to you about your little boy."

"Come in." There is a proverb which says, "Against the grain nothing goes." The mission and Bible people had probably failed to secure the good will of the woman because they stroked their hair in the wrong way.—Youth's Companion.
