ESCAPED LYNCING.

Man Roughly Handled For Attempting a Criminal Assault.

Shenandoah, July 30.—Frank Schmieder, giving his residence as Shenandoah, escaped death from two sources yesterday afternoon. The first escape was due to the fact that a gun aimed at him contained bird shot instead of a bullet. The second escape was from lynching by an angered mob of citizens persuaded from their purpose by a party of women already horrified by the bloody condition of the man whose life the mob sought. The scene of the trouble was at Barry's Junction, midway between this town and Yatesville, where Schmieder made an attempt to assault a woman, the wife of Daniel Doyle, who lives in the second house from Barry's Station.

It appears that the girl named and two companions, aged respectively 12 and 10 years, and daughters of John Dempsey, were picking huckleberries on the hillside just above their home when Schmieder, who had come to visit relatives nearby, approached and engaged the girls in conversation. He tried to persuade Hannah Doyle to accompany him farther up the mountain, where he said she could find a better crop of berries. The girls grew suspicious, but Schmieder was persistent. When the girls started to leave him Schmieder grasped the Doyle girl about the neck and tried to hold her. The other girls ran away, shouting an alarm. The cries attracted the attention of Joseph Doyle, a brother of Hannah Doyle, the girl Schmieder was with. Doyle ran out of his house and over to the home of the Mulvey family, where he procured a gun. He then ran back to the direction of the place where Schmieder was and, when about ten or fifteen yards from the man, fired. The aim was good, but the charge light. The lead took effect in Schmieder's head, tearing the scalp at the back. Rushing forward Doyle caught up with the fleeing object of his wrath, punched his head and kicked his body.

Schmieder regained his feet and ran off. He had not proceeded far when he was observed by John O'Brien, night engine man at the Kuhn's boiler colliery. Seeing the bloody condition of the man, and concluding that the man had been concerned in an outrage, O'Brien drew his revolver and fired a shot at Schmieder's legs. The latter was running past the engine house at the time. The shot fired by O'Brien went wide of the mark. The fugitive was pretty well wounded and was easily captured by O'Brien. He was taken back to Barry's.

The crowd assembled had been increased by residents of Jacksons and vicinity, embracing men, women and children. There were cries of "get a rope" and Schmieder was jostled by the throng up on the nearest telegraph pole, tearing the scalp at the mouth, where Doyle had previously punched him, and his hair and clothing were spattered with blood. Mrs. Doyle, mother of the girl in question, was on the scene with a horse pistol in hand, but the weapon was not used. Schmieder begged for his liberty and offered with the crowd to kill him. He promised to go to repeat the offense, if released, and asked that nothing be said about the affair. The anger of the men worked in one direction, while the compassion of the women in the crowd was moved by the spectacle presented in Schmieder's blood and dirt covered form. Finally the influence of the women prevailed and Schmieder was allowed to go.

Further inquiry as to the identity of the man brings information from people who say they know him well that he is Frank Schmieder, a miner between 35 and 40 years of age, living at Shenandoah, and having relatives near Barry's Junction.

Shenandoah's Sprinter.

In the 33-yard handicap at Philadelphia on Thursday, Martin Fahy, of town, was one of the entries, and came in a close second. Had he not been handicapped by five yards would have won easily. In the fourth and final heat, Jamison, of New York, was entered as William Thompson, of New York. He was given 7 yards. Fahy was given three yards, and Morris, of Philadelphia, was given eight yards. At the crack of the pistol the three men dashed off and Jamison won by eight inches. Fahy closed up the long lead, and Morris was several yards behind.

MAHANOY CITY.

How a Fight Between Two Poles Was Terminated.

Mahanoy City, July 30.—Two Poles loaded with drink and when on their way to Shenandoah, caused a disturbance at Slaty. His last evening. They got into a dispute about the war with Spain, and a fight followed. The men rolled down a high embankment, cutting their hands and faces. The fall ended the fight. Information has been received that David L. Thomas, of town, who is a member of the governor's troop, was ill with typhoid fever, but the information was withheld in order that his parents would not learn of it. He has recovered and joined the troop on its voyage to Porto Rico.

The funeral of Private Stanley Swartz will take place to-morrow afternoon. Employees of the Park Place store will be the pall bearers. Interment will be made at Catawanna.

While a train of empty coal cars was being pushed up the siding to Maple Hill and Elletts-town collieries yesterday a chain hanging from the foremost car caught in a frog and the car was thrown from the track, followed by six others. ## FATAL GENEROSITY.

Cuban Refugees, Carried in Our Army Ambulances, Took Yellow Fever Germs to Our Soldiers.

Chicago, July 30.—The first definite statement was made yesterday as to how yellow fever was brought into the ranks of the American army in Cuba. Mr. H. L. Beach, who represented the Associated Press along the fighting line at Santiago, and who has just returned from Chicago, made the statement as follows:

"It is an actual fact—something I saw with my own eyes—that our army ambulances were used to carry Cuban refugees who had fled from Santiago, and who were carrying the germs of the dread fever with them. The Cuban refugees were sent word to Santiago that they intended to bombard the city; the people all began to flee, and most of them went to El Caney. This is a town of about 500 people, but 15,000 refugees went thither and occupied the houses in which there was room for only 500. The town was overflowing; there was no food for the Cubans, and the army had not gone out and forage for themselves.

"Santiago is known as the worst yellow fever port in Cuba, and those people who did not carry it with them soon had it, for their condition, huddled together as they were, was terrible, and brought on the pest almost immediately. I know it to be a fact that the army ambulances were used to haul these refugees from El Caney, so they might get food. The people waded through the mud and were picked up by the ambulances. Then our sick and wounded were hauled in the same ambulances. But, worst of all, it seems to me, is the fact that the commissary wagons, which always were going to Siboney and back carrying food, went out with food, returned loaded with refugees and went back again loaded with food. No yellow fever appeared in the army before the lines were opened to the people."

Down Comes the Price On Wool Bunting U. S. Flags.

Those who foolishly thought they were securing a bargain in buying the supposedly cheap "cotton" bunting flags are now regretting their action, as they view the scarcely visible colors in their flags as they are suspended over-head. By investing a few dollars more they could now have a flag that always looks clean and bright in colors. Our wool flags have proved their superiority over "cotton" goods. We have again reduced our price on wool bunting flags down to a close second in price of the "cotton" flags. We manufacture our wool flags, and can guarantee them to be A No. 1. ## COUNTY POLITICS.

"Red" Contributes Another Installment on Matters Political.

Special Herald Correspondence.

Pottsville, July 30.—Among the politicians of the county scene, the present week the "expose" given in this correspondence on that now famous harmony deal, in which Burd Payne played so prominent a part, and which proved a colossal failure. Mr. Payne is a man of much ability and Controller Snyder is fortunate in the choice. The leaders of the party will be made. Those men from Ashland is placed in the category of the "has-beens."

True it is that every political campaign develops a small army of so-called leaders who imagine that the destinies of their respective parties are, Atlas-like, on their backs. They are really not so absurd. They are faithful in advice, and try to convince their hearers that they know it all. But what they do not know about politics would fill a large book. Of course, I do not mean to infer that my friend Payne is in that class. He is a necessary ally, the real public party in more ways than one, but he is traveling in bad company.

One thing is certain, there will be no more sham harmony deals this year, in the interest of a favored few at the sacrifice of the many. That was upped in the bud, and the Hicks is really given the credit. The mysterious trips to Lancaster county, and dark lantern pow-wows in the Congressman's private office, were so well guarded from the public, that when the report of their deliberations appeared in this correspondence the demand for the paper was suppressed. The result has practically taken Mr. Brumm out of the fight for nomination, and now the leaders are turning their attention to three men—two from north of the mountain, and the third from a district near Pottsville. The matter will be allowed to rest for a few days, when definite announcements will be made. The leaders of the party at large realize that a man must be the Congressional nominee if the Republicans are to be successful this year.

It will require the best efforts of the Republicans to win this year, and there must be no blunders made in the selection of the party nominees. The best kind of material must be selected. Party hacks and "has-beens" should meet with little encouragement, and if any are named it will prove a political blunder. What I mean by the term "hacks" are those who have grown fat at the public crib, and who should give way to new blood.

THE CONTROLLERSHIP.

While it is true that Mr. Brumm and his friends are by no means "party hacks" and "has-beens" should meet with little encouragement, and if any are named it will prove a political blunder. What I mean by the term "hacks" are those who have grown fat at the public crib, and who should give way to new blood.

The condition of the county is such that it is a good reason for Brumm's opposition to the present Controller at this time. Mr. Snyder participated in the harmony deal in good faith, for the best interests of the party. Notwithstanding Brumm's hostility to Snyder, the latter was willing to concede the Controllership to Snyder, if it could be shown that that would bring about a cessation of hostilities between the different factions. But Brumm would agree to nothing, not even a dose of Payne's harmony elixir.

Mr. Snyder, who by appointment, is now holding the reins of the reins of the reins, his administration when the affairs of the county were in a much muddled condition. By his careful management he has proved himself to be an efficient official and a man in every way worthy of being nominated for that office. His past record as County Controller is a fitting tribute to the administration conducted with integrity and ability.

THE CONVENTION DATES.

Pottsville's morning contemporary has worked itself into a frenzy because it cannot locate Chairman Shay to look at matters in the same light that the political writers of the Journal do. The latter, for some unknown cause, is anxious that the convention be held on the 15th of August. The county chairman says his inquiry in different sections of the county leads him to believe that the Republicans do not desire an early convention, especially in the warm season, and the date selected will probably be the last week in August or the first week in September. So my friends of the Journal should console themselves until that time arrives.

THE FREE SILVERITES.

The corridors of the Park Hotel, in this town, will resound with the theories of the lamented William Jennings Bryan on Monday. A conference of prominent free silver Democrats has been called to meet at that hostelry on the day mentioned, and the question of placing a third ticket in the field will be under consideration. There is no denying the fact that the free silver element of the Democratic party (which constitutes a large majority of that party in Schuylkill county) are not only dissatisfied with the platform, but have little faith in the pretensions of the nominee for Congress. Mr. Ryan is looked upon as a man from outside, and he made his canvass for the nomination on those lines, and was supported by the leaders of the party who favor the Bryan doctrine. Notwithstanding this, it is charged that Mr. Ryan was instrumental in drafting that weak-kneed platform, and in choking off a strong endorsement of the Chicago platform. Under these circumstances, it is natural that dissatisfaction should follow.

What will be the result of the conference on Monday it is difficult to predict. Those who have been invited to the conference will not talk for publication. It is not at all likely, however, that a third ticket will be placed in the field or that another convention will be called. While the free silver leaders, or at least a majority of them, have the courage of their convictions, the rank and file will not follow their lead in breaking away from party ties. It would be a great surprise should the conference result in the nomination of a third ticket.

NOTES.

Even the Democrats are partial to love-feasts. Within the next two weeks the state candidates of that party will meet at Bedford Springs and console one with the other. Dr. William Stein, of Shenandoah, candidate for Coroner before the Republican convention, circulated among the party workers here yesterday.

Even the state leaders are for peace. Yesterday a conference was held at Bedford Springs, participated in by Senator Quay, Governor Hastings, Dave Martin, and Chris Magee, and lesser lights.

There is more in that harmony deal that needs ventilation, but it is a difficult matter to get facts.

Dr. Quail is spoken of in connection with the Congressional nomination, as is also Superintendent W. E. Weaver. There is no reason to become excited over politics. The man who gets the plums will not share with you. The friends of Major Finney expect his
