The Morning scores by Marksmen at Mahanoy City. Special to EVENING HERALD. Mahanoy City, Sept. 5.—Little wind, no sun, but heat that was almost intolerable were the weather conditions under which the shooting tournament at the park here took place today. PUBLIC SCHOOLS OPEN.

The public schools of this town were opened this morning for the term of 1898-9 with a large enrollment of pupils. Owing to the day being a holiday there are many children who did not apply, and therefore the enrollment is not complete. When it is, Superintendent Cooper believes, it will be the largest in the history of the schools. In all probability a complete roll will be made up in time for presentation at the meeting of School Board on Wednesday evening next.

The enrollment up to this afternoon was as follows: High school, 105; 2nd grade grammar, 161; 1st grade grammar, 274; 4th grade primary, 343; 3rd grade primary, 372; 2nd grade primary, 494; 1st grade primary, 418; total, 2,130.

KHALIFA'S REPULSE.

Signal Victory For the Anglo-Egyptian Forces.

DERVISHES' BRAVE FIGHT.

Rushed to Meet the Enemy With Desperate Energy.

THEIR LOSSES ARE APPALLING.

The Correspondent of the London Daily Telegraph Declares That Fifteen Thousand of the Wild Fighters Were Slain, While the Anglo-Egyptian Loss Was Only Five Hundred—Men and Horses Fell Thick Before the Deadly Fire of the British—Still Pursuing the Khalifa and His Chiefs.

Omdurman, Opposite Khartoum, on the Nile, Nubia, Sept. 2, by camel post to Nagaz.—The Sudan, General Sir Herbert Kitchener, with the Khalifa's black standard, captured during the battle, entered Omdurman at 4 o'clock this afternoon at the head of the Anglo-Egyptian column after completely routing the dervishes and dealing a death blow to Mahdism. Roughly our losses were 200, while the estimate of the dervishes were killed or wounded.

Last night the Anglo-Egyptian army encamped at Agadza, eight miles from Omdurman. The dervishes were three miles distant. At dawn our cavalry, patrolling toward Omdurman, discovered the enemy advancing to the attack in battle array, chanting war songs. Their front consisted of infantry and cavalry, stretched out for three or four miles. Countless banners fluttered over their masses and the copper and brass drums resounded through the serried ranks of the savage warriors, who advanced unwavering with all their old-time ardor.

Our infantry formed up outside the camp. At 7:20 a. m. the enemy crowded the ridges above the camp and advanced steadily in enveloping formation. At 7:30 our artillery opened fire, which was answered by a dervish rifleman. Their attack developed on our left, and in accordance with their traditional tactics they swept down the hillside with the design of rushing our flank. But the withering fire maintained for 15 minutes by all our line frustrated the attempt, and the dervishes, who swept toward our center, upon which they concentrated a fierce attack. A large force of horsemen, trying to face a continuous hail of bullets from the Cameron highlanders, the Lincolnshire regiment and the Sudanese, was literally swept away, leading to the death of the entire body, whose dead strayed the field.

The bravery of the dervishes can hardly be overestimated. Those who carried the flags struggled to within a few hundred yards of our fighting line, while the mounted contingents, who drew their lives away in bold charges. When the dervishes withdrew behind the ridge in front of their camp the whole force marched in battalions toward Omdurman. As our troops surrounded the crest adjoining the Nile the Sudanese on our right came into contact with the enemy, who had reformed under cover of a rocky eminence, and had massed beneath the black standard of the Khalifa, in order to make a supreme effort to retrieve the fortunes of the day. A mass, 15,000 strong, bore down on the Sudanese.

General Kitchener swung round the center and left of the Sudanese and seized the rocky eminence, and the Egyptians, hitherto in reserve, joined the firing line in ten minutes, and before the dervishes could drive their attack home.

The flower of the Khalifa's army was caught in a depression and within a zone of withering cross fire from three brigades, with the attendant artillery. The devoted Mahdists strove heroically to make headway, but every rush was stopped, while their main body was literally mowed down by a sustained deadly cross fire.

Defiantly the dervishes planted their standards and died beside them. Their dense masses gradually melted to companies, and the companies to dribbles, beneath the leaden hail. Finally they broke and fled, leaving the field white with jibbah clad corpses.

At 11:15 the sirdar ordered an advance, and our whole force in line drove the scattered remnant of the foe into the desert, our cavalry cutting off their retreat to Omdurman.

Among the chief incidents of the battle was a brilliant charge by the Twenty-first lancers, under Lieutenant Colonel Martin. Galloping down on a detached body of the enemy, they found the dervish swordsmen massed behind, and were forced to charge home against appalling odds. The lancers hacked through the mass, rallied and kept the dervish horde at bay. Lieutenant Grenfell, nephew of General Sir Francis Grenfell, and Captain Caldecott, of the Warwickshire regiment, were killed and four other officers wounded. Twenty-five men were killed and 20 wounded. The Egyptian cavalry were in close fighting throughout with the Baggara horsemen. For a short period the enemy captured and held the gun, but it was brilliantly retaken.

The heroic bravery of the dervishes evoked universal admiration. Time after time their dispersed and broken forces reformed and hurled themselves upon the Anglo-Egyptians, their emirs conspicuously leading and spurring death. Even when wounded and in death agonies they raised themselves to rise a last time.

Among the wounded is Colonel Rhodes, the correspondent of the London Times, and a brother of Cecil Rhodes.

GENERAL KITCHENER'S REPORT
Cavalry and Gunboats Are Still Pursuing the Khalifa.

London, Sept. 5.—The war office has received the following dispatch from General Kitchener, dated Saturday evening: "The remnant of the Khalifa's force has surrendered, and I have now a very large number of prisoners in my hands. Our cavalry and gunboats are still pursuing the Khalifa and his chiefs, who, with only about 10 fighting men, are apparently making for Kordofan.

"I visited Khartoum today. The town is a complete ruin, but the lower portions show some of the principal houses still standing. The people are naturally delighted to see us. So far as I can see at present Khartoum is the best position. Omdurman is very extensive, and the stretch there is unbreakable."

The war correspondent of The Daily Telegraph with the Anglo-Egyptian forces says: "Khalifa Abdullah, with his harem, and Osman Digna, his principal general, managed to escape, but Abdullah's name and thousands of prisoners are in our hands. It is estimated that 15,000 of the enemy were slain. Our total casualties were about 500.

Besides Colonel Rhodes, another correspondent was slightly wounded. Mr. Howard, the New York Herald correspondent, was slain by a shell in Omdurman.

The war correspondent of The Daily News says: "Our victory was not easily or cheaply won. The dervish loss was enormous. It is estimated that the killed of the enemy were no fewer than 8,000. Our whole force was engaged in the fighting from 8 a. m. until sundown. The dervishes displayed marvellous bravery to the last. Instead of waiting for us in Omdurman, where they could have made a resistance that would have cost us thousands of lives, they advanced to meet us. The sight was extraordinary. Some 12,000 men, in four brigades, attempted to rush our zerbah. With desperate gallantry they were repulsed, suffering huge loss. Our Maxim guns especially made terrible lanes in their ranks, and our artillery dealt havoc in the town, which was full of women.

The dervish army of 60,000 is utterly broken, but we are fully prepared to fight tomorrow if they wish it.

The Standard's war correspondent also pays tribute to the magnificent courage of the dervishes, but says: "Fortunately for us, their leaders showed little or no wisdom in choosing a battlefield. By not occupying the hill on our left front the enemy missed his opportunity. That would have left the Sirdar two alternatives. He might have either accepted the challenge, or else made a wide detour in the desert to reach Omdurman.

Describing the attempt of the Baggara horsemen to retrieve the day's fortunes by a final charge, the correspondent says: "Dashing across the level stretch of plain, the Khalifa's cavalry rode manly at the steady line of infantry. Our troops awaited the charge without flinching. On came the dervishes, but again the deadly fire poured into them and they fell. Men and horses fell thick, and hardly a rider left the desperate charge unscathed. A large body of the enemy's infantry, undismayed by the slaughter, could be seen preparing to follow the cavalry, but our field artillery and Maxims, responding from the hill on which they were posted, came again into action, and the conflict entered a new phase.

"The attack on our camp had been repulsed, and the only question was whether the defeat of the enemy was complete. It was not long before the dervishes were seen in full flight toward the right, leaving their dead on the field as they fled. Practically the whole army of the Khalifa was destroyed. Our casualties number over 500."

Emperor William's Congratulations.
London, Sept. 5.—The Cairo correspondent of The Times says: "The first telegram of congratulation to arrive from Europe was from Emperor William, who said: 'I am sincerely glad to be able to offer my congratulations on the splendid victory at Omdurman, which has avenged poor Gordon's death.'"

WOMAN GETS HEART BLOW

She Was Knocked Unconscious During a Fracas.

NERVOUS PROSTRATION FOLLOWS.

Two Young Men on a Spree Started the Row and Have Been Put Under Bail For Trial at Court-Created Much Excitement.

There was considerable excitement on West Centre street, near Main street, shortly after nine o'clock Saturday night through the riotous conduct of two young men named John Murphy and James Harkins, who got a pay-day jag on board and concluded to paint the town red. The result of their exploit was a fight in which a woman was seriously injured.

According to the statement of witnesses Murphy and Harkins first picked a quarrel with two young men whose names have not been learned, when standing at the Boddall building, corner of Centre street and Pear alley. The unknown men beat a retreat and then Murphy and Harkins turned their attention to Nathan Greenbaum and a man named Freiband, who were in front of the store at the corner. According to the witnesses Harkins said, "Let's lick and kill the Jew with the beard." An attack was first made on Freiband, and next on Greenbaum. The latter's wife, Annie, it appears, held her husband and prevented him from retaliating and in the fracas she received blows on the arm, neck and chest. The woman fell in a faint on the floor of the store and remained in that condition until after she received attendance from Dr. Stein.

Meanwhile two of the police and three citizens tackled Murphy and Harkins and got them into the lockup after a hard struggle.

Dr. Stein found Mrs. Greenbaum in a prostrated condition and said that it was a case of clean knock out caused, no doubt, by a blow over the heart. It was some time before the woman could proceed to her home with assistance. To-day the doctor stated that the woman was suffering from nervous prostration, but that her condition was not dangerous.

Last night Murphy and Harkins were taken before Justice Toomey and given a hearing. They had recovered from the effects of their spree, were neatly dressed and presented anything but a combative appearance. Greenbaum was on hand with his witnesses and presented them for assault and battery upon himself and wife. Harkins claimed that Freiband was the aggressor and first tried to strike him with a stick. This the latter positively denied and Justice Toomey held the accused men under $300 bail each for trial at court. It has also been stated in behalf of Murphy and Harkins that they do not strike Mrs. Greenbaum, but that the blows she received were given by her husband during his struggles to release himself from her grasp and attack the two men charged. This assertion, however, is emphatically denied by Mr. Greenbaum and his witnesses.

ANOTHER FREE FIGHT.
There was a free fight in the First ward early last evening in which a Hungarian and six Lithuanians made the scene a lively one for some time, but no one was seriously injured. Policeman Butler gathered in the combatants. Anthony Giovannsky, Anthony Zerkowski, Michael Buskiewicz, Sylvester Dunavsky, Victoria Buskiewicz and Tillie Zerkowsky were the accused, while Peter Shuba figured as the prosecutor. Shuba told Justice Toomey that he and his friends passed the losses of the accused when one of the women, Victoria, threw a piece of watermelon rind at him. It struck him and Peter says he went back to see who threw it. He found out but not without some expense of personal comfort, as the crowd pounced upon him and he was beaten over the head with clubs. While in the Justice's office the prisoners behaved in a manner indicating that they looked upon the whole affair as a huge joke, so Justice Toomey humorously remarked that he would put each under $300 bail to give them a chance to have the laugh out at court. William Snyder, of the First ward, gave bail for the crowd.

Fell Into a Breach.
A twelve year old boy named Charles Wychubis fell into a mine breach Saturday afternoon and sustained serious, though not dangerous injuries. He was attended at his home on East Centre street by Dr. W. N. Stein. The boy sustained lacerations on the forehead and right temple and also fractures of the bones in the right foot. The breach he fell into was the same in which a boy was fatally injured a few weeks ago. He fell into it while trying to pass over a narrow path.
