Dyspepsia Tablets. Interesting Experience of an Indianapolis

Mean, Make a Test of Stuart's

No trouble is more common or more mis understood than nervous dyspensia. People having it think that their nerves are to blame, are surprised that they are not cured by nerve medicines and spring remedies; the real sent of mischief is lost sight of; the stomach is the origin to be looked after.

Nervous dyspepties often do not have any pain whatever in the stomach, nor perhaps any of the usual symptoms of stomach weakness. Nervous dyspepsia shows itself not in the stomach so much as in nearly every other organ; in some cases the heart palpitates irregular; in others, the kidneys are affected; in others the bowels are constipated, with headaches; still others are troubled with loss of flesh and appetite, with the accumulation of gas, sour risings and heartburn.

Mr. A. W. Sharper, of No. 61 Prospect St., Indianapolis, Ind., writes as follows: "A motive of pure gratitude prompts me to write these few lines regarding the new and valuable medicine, Stuot's Dyspepsia Tablets. I have been a sufferer from nervous dyspepsia for the last four years; have used various patent medicines and other remedies without any favorable result. They sometimes gave temporary relief until the effects of the medicine wore off. I attributed this to my sedentary habits, being a bookkeeper with little physical exercise, but I am glad to state that the tablets have overcome all these obstacles, for I have gained in flesh, sleep better, and am better in every way. The above is written not for notority, but is based on actual facts,"

Respectfully yours, A. W. Sharper,

61 Prospect St., Indianapolis, Ind. It is safe to say that Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets will cure any stomach weakness or disease except cancer of the stomach. They cure sour stomach, gas, loss of flesh and appetite, sleeplessness, pulpitation, heartburn, constipation and headaches,

EASTER SEASON IN RUSSIA.

The Most Venerated and Gay of the Year ly Festivals.

Easter in Russia is the most venerated Easter in Russia is the most venerated and also the most gay of the yearly festivals, says Prince Kropotkin in The Atlantic. The last week of the great Lent, the Passion week, was kept in Moscow in my childhood with an extreme solemnity. It was a time of general mourning, and crowds of people went to the churches to listen to the impressive reading of those passages of the gospels which relate to the sufferings of the Christ. Not only were meat, eggs and butter not eaten, but even fish was refused, some of the most rigorfish was refused, some of the most rigor-ous taking no food at all on Good Friday. The more striking was the contrast when Easter came.

Every one went to church on Saturday to attend the night service, which began in a mournful way. Then all of a sudden at midnight the resurrection news was announced. All churches were suddenly illuminated, and gay peals of the bells re-sounded from the hundreds of churches. General rejoicing began. All kissed each other thrice on the cheeks, repeating the resurrection words, and the churches, now flooded with light, shone with the gay toilets of the ladles. The poorest woman of the people had a new dress. If she had only one new dress a year, she would prepare it for that night.

The holy week was at the same time and is still the signal for a real debauch in enting. Special Easter cream cheeses (paskha) and Easter bread (koolich) are prepared, and every one, no matter how poor he or she may be, must have, be it only a small paskha and a small koolich, with at least one egg painted in red, to be consecrated in the church and to be used afterward to break the Lent. old Russians eating began at night, after a short Easter mass, immediately after the consecrated food had been brought from church, but in the houses of the nobility the ecremony was postponed till Sunday morning, when a table was covered with all sorts of viands, chooses and pastry, and all the servants came to exchange with their maters three kisses and a red paint-ed egg. For the whole of the Easter week a table spread with Easter food stood in the great hall, and every visitor was invited to partake of some.

The Size of the Sea.

Here are a few facts about the sea for your scrapbook: The Pacific covers 68,000,000, the Atlantic 30,000,000 and the Indian Ocean. Arctic and Antarctic 42,000,000 square

To stow away the contents of the Pacific To stow away the contents of the Pacific it would be necessary to fill a tank one mile long, one mile wide and one mile deep every day for 440 years. Put in figures, the Pacific holds in weight 948,000,000,000,000,000 tons. It would take about 1,000,000 years for all its water to pass over the falls of Niagara.

The average depth of the Atlantic is not quite three miles. Its waters weigh 825,-000,000,000,000,000 tons, and a tank to contain it would have each of its six sides 430 miles long. The figures of the other oceans are in the same startling proportions. It would take all the sea water in the world about 2,000,000 years to flow over Niagara. A tank to hold it all would have to measure nearly 1,000 miles along each of its sides.

BISMARCK STORIES.

THE READY WIT OF THE MAN OF BLOOD AND IRON.

A Cemetery That Would Not Agree With Rim-Lessons In Politeness to Count Thun of Austria - A Startling Answer to an Indiscreet Question,

The late Prince Bismarck, although known as a man of blood and iron, was remarkable for his ready wit and his never failing alertness in any emergency. A few years before his death he was surprised by delegation of peasants from his family estate, Schoenhausen. They had come to ask him to choose their village cemetery for his final resting place.

"It can't be," replied Bismarck calmly,
"The conditions of your cemetery do not agree with my rheumatism, and I have no desire to bring my gout with me into the Naturally brave and often reckless in the face of danger, Bismarck shunned nothing when a life was to be saved. As a young lieutenant he risked his own life to save that of his drowning servant. He received the medal "for saving of human life," and he continued to wear it on all ceremonious occasions until he withdrew from public life. Once some high personage, proud of his titles and decorations, noticed the insignificant little medal on the breast of Bismarck and asked sneer-ingly, "What does that thing mean?"

"Not much," said Bismarck, "only that I am in the habit of saving a life now he wanted to be so and an excellent talk-er. These qualities surprised no one more than the empress of France, who, like most of her countrywomen, was inclined to conceive Bismarck as a rude, cold blooded, clumsy brute of the old uncivilized Teu-tons, who led a primitive life in the vir-"Mais il est plus causeur qu'un Fran-

Once he called on Thun, who received him in most luxurious Pullman drawing room sleephis shirt sleeves. Bismarck proceeded to pull off his own coat without a moment's hesitation, saying, "Indeed, count, it is very hot in your room!" The count jumped from his chair and hastened to put on his coat, at the same time pouring out apologies. On the occa-sion of another visit Thun was scated at his writing desk smoking and with an open box of eigars in front of him. He asked Bismarck to wait for a few moments, but offered him nothing to smoke. Bismarck, who was an enthusiastic devo tee of the weed, suffered in silence for a few moments and then walked up to the desk and deliberately picked out a cigar under the nose of the startled count, and once more that gentleman had to apolo-

Bismarck was always disliked by the diplomatists of the old school, whose tricks and conceits he despised. He confounded their clever plans time and again by an almost overbearing use of the truth. In the spring of 1806, when the war against Austria was nothing but a possibility, Bismarck, who was then president of the Prussian cabinet, attended a dinner given by the minister of Saxony. The Countess Hohenthal, who sat by his side, was in-considerate enough to ask, "Is it true that your excellency intends to go to war with Austria?" businarck in his blandest manuer. "I have thought of nothing else since I entered the cabinet. Our guns are ready, and you will soon find that they are superior to the Austrian artillery."

A plug of tobacco is as good a barometer as any one needs. As long as the weather is to be fine the tobacco will be dry, and if there is not too much sugar and liquorice in it it will cromble like both.

Wolff's Telegraph bureau was honored with Bismarck's attention on account of some alleged irregularities. The chancellor summoned one of the government officers, who promptly asserted that he did not know a thing about the whole matter. "You had better make a thorough investigation and give me a detailed report," said Bismarck. "But there is no special said Bismarck. "But there is no special hurry. If I have the report by tomorrow

Good living was one of Bismarck's weak points, and the first Countess Bismarck said sometimes that the chef de cuisine was the only one who could govern her Iron Chancellor. Certain it is that this magnate, Herr Mueller, could take liber-ties which would have proved dangerous to other persons. He had sent word twice on one occasion that dinner was ready.
"Not hungry yet. Wait another half hour," was the reply that came from the chancellor.

The third message received from the kitchen magnate admitted of no appeal:
"His excellency will have to cat now whether he is hungry or not, for I, the premier of the kitchen, cannot keep the lishes any longer."

one of them must be that of a baby. The young married couples that start out in life with the idea that children are nuisances, and that they do not want and will not have them, are the kind that you read about every day in the newspapers—in the divorce column. A home without children is not a home. God and Nature never intended that there should be a place called home that did not resound with the patter of childlish footsteps.

There are tens of thousands of homes that are childless because of the ill-health of the wife and would be mother. There are tens of thousands of other homes childless because the little ones have died almost as soon as they were born. In both cases Dr. Pictoc's Favorite Prescription is a sovereign remedy. It acts directly on the delicate and important organs that make wifehood and motherhood possible. It makes them well, strong, vigorous virile, and elastic. It does away with the dangers of maternity. It banishes the usual discomforts of the expectant period and makes baby's advent easy and almost painless. It insures the little new comer's health and an ample supply of nourishment. The prospective mother prepares herself for maternity by taking the "Favorite Prescription" and gives her child a fair start in life by giving it a strong and well developed body. Thousands of homes that were childless, to-day echo with babies' laughter, and bless this great medicine. Thousands of women who were weak, nervous, despondent invalids, are to-day happy, healthy wives and mothers because of this medicine. Medicine dealers sell it.
