NORTH ATLANTIC SQUADRON.

Commodore Philip Will Succeed Ad-Washington, Oct. 7.—Admiral Howell as been relieved from the command of the North Atlantic squadron, and his flagship, the San Francisco, has been ordered out of commission at Norfolk. The command of the squadon devolves upon Commodore Philip, whose flagship, the New York, is now at the New York mays yard.

The explanation for the change in command given at the navy yard is that the San Francisco, Admiral How-ell's flagship, must go out of commisof commission since, though she has circled the world and done a phenome-nal amount of cruising. Even now she is a most serviceable vessel, but it is deemed positively necessary to modern-ize her in some important points.

Recurring to the change in comands, it may be stated that the opinion has prevailed for some time in the navy de-partment that the North Atlantic squadron was afflicted with too much rank, and that a contralized authority in one commander would give better
