BIALECKI STILL MISSING.

All Efforts Thus Far Made to Trace Him Have Failed.

Bialecki, the murderer of Constable "Jack" Dando, is still at large, and there is nothing upon which to base a prediction of his early capture. The police have worked steadily on the case since Wednesday night, but their drag nets have developed nothing. The fugitive apparently did not notice the slightest clue that could be worked up into a trace, and those most interested in working up the case are as much at sea as the people who maintain a passive attitude and await developments.

Rumors of all kinds are continually gaining circulation, and at times the fugitive is reported to be in half a dozen places at one time. This was the case when Salsusky, the murderer, escaped a few months ago. Yesterday it was stated that Bialecki had been seen in Gilberton and the night before, but he was not arrested because the people of that place did not know of the murder at that time. Yesterday afternoon it was reported that a farmer driving to this place from Kingtown had seen a man answering Bialecki's description on Locust Mountain, and that when the man got sight of the farmer he rushes into the bushes at the side of the road. Investigation of the latter report showed that the farmer who gave this information was full of "corn juice" and that there was a color of Jim James about the tale.

The case has caused a resurrection of the Salsusky case and rumors are current that the murderer is under arrest in New York. Inquiry at official sources indicates that those rumors are only idle gossip. No official in town has been found with any more knowledge of the matter than common rumor.

The case of Bialecki continues a subject of much discussion and criticism and general regret is expressed with mingled indignation that the murderer should have escaped. Several leading citizens of the town have declared that they would advise themselves to the exigencies of the times and advise some means by which an example may be set for others of the Salsusky and Bialecki character who are still residents of town and liable, upon the slightest opportunity, to develop as the two fugitives have. To accomplish this it is suggested that the local officials adopt the plan adopted by the Mahanoy City authorities, when they successfully worked up the arson cases in that town a few months ago and secured conviction.

NOT THE MAN.

An Arrest at Ashland to-day, But it Was Not Bialecki.

This afternoon the HERALD received a telephone message from Ashland stating that a Pole closely answering the description of Walezyk had been arrested for the murder of Constable Dando, who was recently in that town. The officer sending the information said the prisoner was about 5 feet and 7 inches tall, weighed about 105 or 170 pounds, had brown hair, a red moustache mixed with gray, and short red whiskers. In the absence of Chief of Police Murphy, who was at work in the morning, a HERALD reporter placed the facts in possession of Policeman Foyle, who opened telephone communication with the Ashland officer. From the information he got he felt justified in going to Ashland to see the prisoner.

The Ashland officer said the prisoner reached that town this morning from Centralia and said he was on his way to Girardville. That was all he would say. He refused to give his name, or any other information, when questioned by an interpreter. Up to the time the HERALD went to press no message had been received from Policeman Foyle. A messenger on duty at the HERALD office, without any additional explanation.

Charles B. Hanford in "Othe lo."
The engagement of the talented young American tragedian, Charles B. Hanford, at the Grand opera house, Ashland, on Thursday night, Oct. 9th, will prove a rare treat to the theatre-going patrons of Ashland and the surrounding towns. Mr. Hanford is under special contract with Manager Waite not to play any other town in this vicinity this season, excluding Hazleton. He will appear in "Othe lo," which is his greatest play, and will be accompanied by a company of metropolitan artists, who are filling an engagement at the Park theatre, Philadelphia, this week. Manager Waite will also make arrangements with the trolley roads to have electric cars for Shenandoah and intermediate points in waiting at the theatre at 8 o'clock. The sale of reserved seats will open on Tuesday morning at Voshage's drug store, Ashland, and parties desiring seats can be accommodated by telephone by calling at the HERALD office, without any additional expense.

Six Three-Quarter Days.
The working time next week at the collieries was not announced to-day. The orders are to resume operations on Monday, and it is expected the collieries will again work six three-quarter days, same as this week, if no accident is secured. There are 3,000 coal cars on the road from Philadelphia to Pottsville, and the outlook at present is that there will be no more delays caused by a scarcity of cars. At no time during the past two years has there been such a demand for coal, and orders are increasing daily. The western markets in particular are very active and orders to ship west coast coal mined are common. This had considerable to do with the scarcity of cars, as the majority were traveling westward, while the east were doing without. The present outlook is indeed encouraging.

The Theatre.
The production of "The Electrician" at Ferguson's theatre last night gave satisfaction to a large audience. It is a sensational drama with stage and scenic effects dealing with the electrical world that are entirely new and, to some extent, surprising. This is especially the case in connection with the use of a very electric light power house is presented with great realism. The interior of the plant is shown with the dynamo, switch boards and all other accessories, and when the plant is put in operation towards the close of the act the effect is thrilling. The company is a good one, embracing several strong leading people and clever comedians. Pleading specialties are introduced between the acts, and as a whole the performance is a very interesting and realistic one.

Misakiewicz's Matrimonial Venture Started With Embarrassments.

ARRESTED ON A PERJURY CHARGE

Alleged to Have Been Committed When the Accused Applied for a Marriage License—He Settled by Paying Rite Intended Wife's Debt.

Justice Shoemaker had before him this morning a case of perjury based upon a combination of peculiar circumstances and bringing to light some facts bearing upon the methods by which the people of foreign countries manage to evade the poverty barrier of the immigration laws and get into this country.

The man accused of perjury was John Misakiewicz, a Lithuanian resident of town, and the prosecutor was Paul Gurewicz, also of town. The suit was instituted before Justice Kuebler, of Pottsville. The presumption is that it was instituted there to give the accused in convenience, as all the parties to the suit reside in town.

A Pottsville constable came to town this morning and placed Misakiewicz under arrest. The prisoner claimed the right to go to town with Misakiewicz and he was taken there. After a consultation terms of settlement were arrived at and the prisoner was discharged.

According to the facts gleaned it appears that several months ago Gurewicz decided to bring his wife's sister to this country and he sent her $21.75 to pay the traveling expenses. Before the money was sent he was agreed by letters between the parties that the wife's sister would pay back the money advanced by working as a servant in Gurewicz's family.

In due time the girl, who was seventeen years old, arrived here. She soon after fell in love with Misakiewicz, and he was taken there. After a consultation terms of settlement were arrived at and the prisoner was discharged.

When Gurewicz feared that his claim would never be settled after his sister-in-law should get married and be looked upon for some pretext upon which to get a hold on the girl or her husband. He was successful. Upon visiting the Pottsville court house Gurewicz found that Misakiewicz in making application for the marriage license, had sworn that his intended bride was 21 years old, whereas she was not quite eighteen. Upon this discovery a warrant was procured for Misakiewicz's arrest on a charge of perjury.

The settlement arrived at before Justice Shoemaker was payment of the costs to the Pottsville constable by Misakiewicz and the installation of $4.33 per month until the sum of $51.75, the amount advanced by Gurewicz to his sister-in-law, is paid.

A Murderer's Confession.

Shamokin, Pa., Oct. 15.—The mystery surrounding the murder on last Monday of six-year-old Daisy Smith, whose body was found near her home at Bellin's Grove by her father, riddled with shot and a gaping knife wound in her neck, was cleared yesterday by the confession of Edward Kriesinger, who was arrested on suspicion soon after the discovery of the body. Kriesinger says that the girl had killed him, and he laid in wait for her, armed with a shotgun and knife. After the shooting he cut her throat three times with the knife. He then hid the blood, and returning home washed the blood from his clothes. Kriesinger bears a bad reputation, and it is said to have served a term in jail.

THE VIRDEN
MASSACRE

Mine Leader Swears Out Warrants
For Mine Owners.

MURDER CONSPIRACY CHARGED.

Messrs. Lukens and Loucks Among Those Included in the Warrant—Mil-lita Commander at Pona Will Prevent the Landing of Imported Miners Virden, Illa., Oct. 15.—A new outburst of excitement swept over this town yesterday, and from 2 o'clock until nightfall rumor followed rumor, and not even the best informed had any definite idea as to what would develop during the night. Rumors that another train load of negroes was on its way here kept the excitement at a high tension, but the military are in complete possession of the stockade and are closely guarding the railroad property.

The coroner's jury heard a large number of witnesses yesterday, but did not conclude its work. The wounded guards, eleven in number, who were on the train with the negroes, testified that the firing was begun by the strikers. One acknowledged that the guards returned the fire, but none would acknowledge that he had fired.

The men said they were under strict orders not to fire except in self defense. One of the wounded guards, who had been at the stockade previous to the shooting, stated that he positively knew there were no guards in the tower over the shafts, and that none of the firing came from the stockade.

Warrants were sworn out yesterday before the local magistrate by an officer of the Miners' union, charging President Loucks, Manager Lukens and others with "conspiracy to murder," but on the advice of the military officers in charge here they were not served. This action, however, caused Colonel Young to refuse to allow several guards who had been employed by the coal company to depart for their homes in Chicago, as he thought they might be needed as witnesses. Six ex-guards from St. Louis, who came up on the train carrying the blacks Wednesday, and who were more or less severely wounded, were allowed to leave for home after a consultation participated in by Colonel Young, Manager Lukens, Coroner Hart, Police Magistrate Roberts and Attorney Padon.

Three of the men were so badly injured that it was necessary to carry them to the mines. Dr. Charles A. Pen-terson, of St. Louis, had charge of the men and accompanied them to St. Louis on a special train over the Burlington.

General Manager Lukens, of the Chicago-Virden Coal company, yesterday made the following statement in regard to the charges pending this company and the demands of the strikers:

"Under the old scale of wages, prior to the summer of 1897, the pay at our mines was 25 cents per ton mine run, and fairly good miners could and did earn $2.25 per day of ten hours, free of all expenses. The payrolls show an average of $2.25 per ton, with an average of $1.50 in the mine, with a range of $1.10 to $1.50 per day. The price of powder has been reduced 50 cents a keg since then, which makes a material increase in the miners' wages. At the price miners are demanding, 40 cents per ton, an average miner can make from $3 to $1 per day and a good workman could have no difficulty in earning $8 per day. We do not object to the men making good wages; the more the better. All we desire is an opportunity to get our coal dug at a price which will allow us to enter the market and sell our coal without loss to our own and this is impossible at the rate of pay demanded by the union workmen.

"The state has taken absolute possession of our property," he said, "and has practically prohibited us from operating our mines."

The officials of the Alton railroad are after Governor Tanner for instructing the militia to prevent the landing of passengers carried by that road. The railroad officials claim that one of the most sacred prerogatives of a common carrier was outraged, and they express their indignation to find out if the governor of the state "can exercise lawless force," as they term it, without being held to account. Solicitor General Brown declares: "The governor has absolutely no right to prevent this road taking its passengers to where they are to be taken. It is an unheard of thing, and nothing can be found in the laws of the state justifying the conduct of the governor. We can take passengers, whether colored or white, from Alabama or from any other state and land them in any part of this state."
