REPUBLICAN MEETING.

Speakers of That Party Will Address Sheuandoah Voters This Evening-

For the first time during the present campaige, the Republicans will hold a mass meeting in Robbins' opera house this evening, beginning at 7:30 o'clock. The meeting will be addressed by Genl. Adam E. King, of Baltimore, Md, Hon, Charles N, Brumm and Charles A, Suyder, Esq. The town has been pretty thoroughly billed, and the indications are a large crowd will greet the speakers. Genl. King, who will be the principal speaker, arrived in town this afternoon, and was greeted by many of our prominent citizens at the Formson House, where he is registered during his short sejourn hore. He is a polished orator of national reputation, and in every presidential campaign since the inauguration of Lincoln he has participated as a campaigner; has served as a member of the Republican national committee several times, and is recognized as one of the Repub-lican leaders of Maryland. An Informal Reception on the Big Battleship Texas.

HOBSON AND HIS CREW ARRIVE.

Famous Fighters From San Juan Hill and Guasima Are Already in the Quaker City, and Ten Thousand Soldiers From Camp Meade, at Middletown, Pa., Are En Route to Participate in the Great Military Parade of Thursday.

Philadelphia, Oct. 26. — Philadelphia lifted its hand and doffed the nation's hat to its naval heroes yesterday. Nominally it was the active opening of the peace jubilee. Actually it was a thunderous greeting of praise, welcome and thanks to a pulssant armada and the men who swept it on to unchallenged victory. The most illustrious actors of the war whose glorious end is the motive of the celebration learned what their country thinks of them. Sigsbee, Philip, Evans, Wainwright-these were some of the men. The Texas, the Gloucester, the Winslow,

The government was represented by Secretary of the Navy Long; the people by a throng that filled every bit confronts you at every turn when you once of timber on either shore of the Delaware river and jammed every available craft to the point of danger. The marine pageant was one of surpassing brilliancy and grandeur. It consisted in a procession of vessels around the anchored warships, but that bare statement conveys no idea of the demonstration.

The yacht May, with Secretary Long and the Washington party aboard, led the parade, the ships of the navy being anchored in single file in midstream, the line extending from Christian to Hanover streets, a distance of three Crowds View the Pageant. As early as daybreak the streets became alive with humanity pressing to-ward the water front. Here and there along the wharves stands had been constructed, but for the most part the throngs jammed themselves on roofs, piers, coal sheds and whatever offered foothold. At the same time the 200 or more steam craft were gathering at the rendezvous off League Island, where the line of parade was formed. Alexander Van Renselaer's yacht, the May, which did fine service in carry-ing supplies to Porto Rico and returning sick soldiers to their homes, say at Pine street wharf awaiting the arrival of the Washington delegation.

The party, which consisted of Secretary Long, Miss Helen Long, Lieutenant W. H. H. Southerland and Private Secretary Finney, reached Broad street station from 12:55 o'clock. They were joined there by Captain Robley D. Evans and Congressman Hillborn, of California, and the peace jubilee committee was in waiting to escort them to the May. Lieutenant Southerland, who commanded the gunboat Eagle during the war, and destroyed the big Spanish transatlantic liner Santo Domingo, ac-companied Secretary Long in the capacity of naval aide.

It was 1:30 c'clock when the party reached the yacht. The little gun in the stern of the May beliewed a sa-lute, and the secretary's colors broke from the maintop.
