Mr. Houck's Beautiful Display.

An attractive show window that is meeting with much admiration is the display made by Druggist Paul Houck at his Shenandoah drug store. The ceiling and sides of the window are beautifully decorated with the colors of Yale and Princeton colleges, the Indian school at Carlisle, the University of Penusylvania and the law university at Ann Arbor. From the ceiling are suspended miniature foot balls on ribbons. The base of the window is filled with bric-a-brac that contain the choicest of confectionery, onyx tables and vases filled with flowers which represent the colors of the above mentioned institutions. The display is the first of its kind ever shown in town and Mr. Houck is receiving many congratulations on his enterprise and good taste.

Miss Horr is a graduate of a school f elecution in Boston and ranks high in her profession.
