MURDEROUSLY ASSAULTED

Heavy Bail Fixed for Three Men Charged With Assault.
On Sunday night, last, Anthony Fast, of South Catherine street, was murderously assaulted by several men. He was beaten about the head and body with blackjacks and has since been confined to his bed.
Yesterday his condition became so serious that Dr. P. E. Burke feared the result would prove fatal. Warrants were sworn out and last evening Policeman Hurley and Watchman Martin O'Hara arrested Stiney Krapczyk, Walter Luckiewicz and Anthony Krobateki, the alleged assailants. They were arraigned before Justice Shoemaker and remanded to jail. Burke said the condition of the prosecutor has improved and that the man would probably be able to appear and testify to-night. Upon this Justice Shoemaker fixed bail in the sum of $1,000 for each of the accused to appear tonight. They treat the charge against them lightly and say that they pulled the assault from the victim, instead of assaulting them. When questioned as to the identity of the assailants the accused could give no information.

Corporal Bradley Now.
Many people of town will be pleased to learn of the success of our townsman, James Bradley, who was enlisted in the regular army last August by Lieut. Siviter, when the recruiting station was open here. When Bradley enlisted he was held on the detail force at the station. Lieut. Siviter gave him the option of going to the camp of the 21st Infantry at Lithia Springs, Ga., or remaining as private clerk with the recruiting corps. Bradley, soldier-like and wisely, said, "I am at your command, Lieutenant." He has since been with Lieut. Siviter in recruiting trips to Hazleton, Wilkesbarre, Scranton and other towns in that region. A letter from Carbondale states that Bradley last week advanced to the rank of a non-commissioned officer and is now a corporal, with good chances for still further advancement as he has made a good record and is a favorite with his superior officers.

Fleming to be Pardoned.
Thomas R. Edwards this afternoon was in receipt of a telegram from Harrisburg saying that application was made today before the Board of Pardons for the pardon of Michael Fleming, of this town. After carefully considering the case, the large petitions and hundreds of letters in his behalf, the Board decided that they would grant the pardon upon the receipt of a letter from Judge Koch recommending the action. Mr. Edwards has already secured the letters desired from Judge Koch, and the pardon of young Fleming may now be expected any day. This will be welcome news for the young man's many friends here, and those who have worked so zealously in his behalf, prominent among them being Mr.
Edwards.

THE CASE OF MRS. MELLET

More Evidence Taken on Her Applica-For Release.
JUSTICE CARDIN ON THE STAND.
He Testifies as to the 1896 Tax Bond, But His Memory Failed—Tax Collector Scanlan Declines to Testify in His Counsel's Absence.

POTTSVILLE, Nov. 23.—A hearing was held in the office of Hon. James B. Kelly here this morning in the case of Mrs. Mellet, who seeks to be released from the 1896 and 1899 bonds of Tax Collector M. J. Scanlan, of Shenandoah, on the ground that she never signed either of the bonds, and that her name was forged to the bonds.
Mrs. Mellet was represented at the hearing by Hon. James B. Kelly and J. J. Moran, Esq., and M. M. Burke, Esq., represented the Borough of Shenandoah, in opposition to the application.
At the last hearing Mrs. Mellet's case was closed and this morning Mr. Burke opened the case for the morning by calling Justice Toomey to the stand.
The record of the Justice as to whether Mrs. Mellet made the acknowledgment before him was as follows as at the preceding hearing:

"Mr. Toomey, at our last hearing you were examined as to the acknowledgment before you of Mrs. Mellet's case, and you testified that you were not the person who signed the bond of Mr. Scanlan for her, and that you were not the person who signed the bond of Mrs. Mellet. Have you, since that hearing, considered the matter or refreshed your memory or recollection, as to the acknowledgment?"
"Well, I have been trying to recollect, and trying to fix in my mind, something about it, but I can't, anymore than what I testified to before."
"Have you not been able to recall any of the circumstances surrounding the taking of this acknowledgment?"
"Mr. Toomey made a lengthy reply about remembering that he had one of the bonds in his office, and remembered that Thomas Scanlan, one of the signers called at his office. Mr. Kelly objected to the reply on the ground that it was immaterial, Mrs.
Mellet's signature being the only one in issue. Mr. Toomey could not remember whether it was the 1896 or 1899 bond he had in his office."
"You have spoken of Thomas Scanlan's acknowledgment, can you recall the acknowledgment of Mrs. Mellet?"
"No, sir."
"Can't you say whether she came to the office, as Mr. Scanlan did, or you went to her home?"
"No, sir."
"By Mr. Kelly: 'You have no recollection at all, now, of taking her acknowledgment at your office, at her home, or elsewhere?'"
"No, sir."

"SQUIRE CARDIN TESTIFIES."
John J. Cardin was the next witness called and examined by Mr. Burke.
"You were a Justice of the Peace in Shenandoah in September, 1896?"
"Yes, sir."
"I hand you the bond of Tax Collector Scanlan for 1896; will you please refer to the back of the bond. What is that entry on the back of the bond?"
"It is an acknowledgment."
"Taken by whom?"
"Taken by me."
"As a Justice of the Peace?"
"No, sir."
"SQUIRE CARDIN TESTIFIES."
John J. Cardin was the next witness called and examined by Mr. Burke.
"You were a Justice of the Peace in Shenandoah in September, 1896?"
"Yes, sir."
"I hand you the bond of Tax Collector
back of the bond?"
"It is an acknowledgment."
"Taken by whom?"
"Taken by me."
"As a Justice of the Peace?"
"No, sir."

The witness then read the acknowledgment, which set forth that Thomas Connors, Mrs. E. Kelly, Thomas Scanlan and Mrs.
Mary Mellet appeared before him and made the acknowledgment to their signatures on the bond of 1896.
"Did you take that acknowledgment?"
"Yes, sir."
"State whether or not Mrs. Mary Mellet, one of the parties mentioned in that acknowledgment, did appear before you and make that acknowledgment?"
"She must have appeared or it wouldn't appear there—although I have no personal recollection of it now."
By Mr. Kelly: "Have you ever seen that paper or acknowledgment, from the day it purports to have been acknowledged until shown you now?"
"No, sir."
"Have you any recollection, any memory, of the transaction, other than what appears upon the face of that paper?"
"I remember Mr. Scanlan coming to my office and saying, 'We will go and take these acknowledgments, and we started. I remember going to one house on Bower street (who the party was I don't know) and took her acknowledgment. It is one of those four. When we came out on the pavement from the house I forgot everything else about the matter.'"
"On the face of the acknowledgment it would appear that the four parties named had appeared before you at one, or the same time?"
"Yes, sir; or I went to the house—one of the two."
"Did the four parties appear before you at one and the same time? Have you any recollection?"
"Yes, sir; I have a recollection that I went to this woman's house on Bowers street, and she appeared separately. How I took the rest I can't tell."
"Your mind is a blank on that?"
"Yes, sir; entirely."
"Are you acquainted with Mrs. Mary Mellet?"
"I don't think I know her. I am not positive of that."
"Did you have any acquaintance with her, or know her personally in September, 1896?"
"No, sir; I did not."
"And, so far as your memory now serves you, you have no recollection of her appearing before you, and your testimony that she must have appeared, some acknowledgment of that bond before you is based entirely on the fact that you have that acknowledgment there?"
"Yes, sir."
While making this answer Mr. Cardin was inspecting the signatures on the bond and added, "Her name is in my handwriting."
By Mr. Burke: "Do you mean to answer that you put that name there by her direction, and in her presence?"
"I must have when I put my certificate on that. I have no memory of it now."
The witness was then shown the name of Mrs. Mellet, with her mark, on the 1896 bond and was asked by Mr. Kelly, "Is that your handwriting?"
The handwriting of both signatures was the same and Mr. Cardin replied "No" to the question, adding that had he not seen the

SHARKEY THE WINNER.

His Fight With Corbett Ends in a Disgraceful Fiasco.
SHARKEY HAD THE BEST OF IT.
One of Corbett's Seconds Jumped Into the Ring, Evidently With Premeditation, and Referee Awarded Fight to Sharkey on a Foul—All Bets Off.

New York, Nov. 23.—The Sharkey-Corbett fight, which was witnessed by the largest and most representative gathering of sporting men that ever congregated to see a ring contest, ended in a most disgraceful fiasco last night at the Lenox Athletic club. Corbett had the worst of the encounter, when one of his seconds, "Connie" Mc-Vey, jumped into the ring, appealing to the referee, the violating the rules, and the referee, "Honest John" Kelly, had no alternative but to disqualify Corbett and award the bout and the $20,000 purse to Sharkey.
McVey's interference was absolutely inexcusable, and the referee, believing that he had no choice, and that the action, took it upon himself to declare all bets off. Before Kelly did so, however, many of those who had bet on Corbett, and they were legion, appealed to the referee to take such action, while the Sharkeyites shouted against such interference, and Kelly's part and protested that he had no authority to declare the bets off. However, the referee's word went with the majority of the spectators, and consequently all money paid on wagers made will be refunded.

It was an unfortunate and abrupt ending to what promised to be a most interesting fight. For weeks both Corbett and Sharkey had trained faithfully and carefully for the contest, and when they stripped each of them showed in excellent condition. Sharkey was very confident of success, and the manner in which he acquitted himself in the ring while the fight lasted showed very plainly that his confidence was founded on good ground. Those who believed that Sharkey could not fight fairly changed their opinion after the bout had gone one round. On the other hand, Corbett hit the sailor in the body rather low, and Sharkey protested.

Sharkey's quickness and aggressiveness was astonishing from the very beginning, and from the first it was evident that he held Corbett safely. In the second round, there were wild yells from the admirers of the Irishman when he floored Corbett with a right swing on the head, preceded with a powerful blow on the body. Sharkey's rushes were successful invariably, and Jim's quickness and leg work were tried to their utmost in an effort to evade the aggressive sailor-pugilist.
That Sharkey has improved wonderfully goes without saying, and on the other hand, that Corbett is not the Corbett of New Orleans is beyond question. At no time had the Californian the upper hand of his younger rival, and he was a sturdy fighter, and a clever one at that, and his work last night stamps him beyond all doubt as being second only to Fitzsimmons.

From the second to the eighth round Sharkey held a decided advantage. In the ninth round, which was wild yells from the admirers of the Irishman
when he floored Corbett with a right swing on the head, preceded with a powerful blow on the body. Sharkey's rushes were successful invariably, and Jim's quickness and leg work were
tried to their utmost in an effort
to evade the aggressive sailor-pugilist.
That Sharkey has improved wonder-
other hand, that Corbett is not the Corbett of New Orleans is beyond
question. At no time had the Californian the upper hand of his younger
rival, and he was a sturdy fighter,
and a clever one at that, and his work last night stamps him beyond all doubt as being second only to Fitzsimmons.

When the big Californian realized what had occurred he was furious with passion and rushed at McVey. Had he caught the latter there is no telling what Corbett would have done in his frenzy, but the police were on hand and rushed between the men, thus ending the scene which would have added to the disgraceful fight.
A close estimate placed the attendance last night at 9,000, and it was learned that the receipts exceeded $45,000. Tickets for seats near the ring brought fabulous prices. The original cost was $20 each, but last night twice that sum could not purchase one of them, and in two instances they brought $100 apiece. The other tickets, costing $5 to $15, brought prices increased two and three fold, and the club management did not put on sale any of the advertised 33 admission tickets. The anxious sport gladly paid $5 and in many cases $8 for the privilege of standing up at the extreme ends of the building.
The doors of the big building were thrown open at 5 o'clock, and immediately the rush for admission began, although the big fight did not begin until 11 o'clock. By 8:30 o'clock nearly every seat in the house was occupied. Bankers and brokers of prominence, lawyers of note and business men, representing nearly every phase of trade, mingled with well known politicians and held animated conversations in close proximity to the ring-side.

During the first bout there was a commotion in a box at the ring-side.
Kid McCoy, the pugilist who is to meet Peter Maher at Coney Island next month, had gained admission to the arena, disguised with false black whiskers and mustache. Some days ago Tom O'Rourke, the manager of the club, forbade McCoy the privilege of entering the club house, although the "Kid" had been engaged by a morning newspaper to write the story of the big fight. At noon he took his seat at the ring-side. McCoy was recognized, and he removed his false appendages. Then the police hustled him out.

A one year guarantee accompanies every watch repaired at Orkin's, 129 S. Main street.

Mrs. E. Kelly, Thomas Scanlan and Mrs.
Mary Mellet appeared before him and made
the bond of 1896.
"Did you take that acknowledgment?"
"Yes, sir."
"State whether or not Mrs. Mary Mellet, one of the parties mentioned in that ac-
make that acknowledgment?"
recollection of it now."
paper or acknowledgment, from the day it
shown you now?"
"No, sir."
"Have you any recollection, any memory,
upon the face of that paper?"
"I remember Mr. Scanlan coming to my
member going to one house on Bower street (who the party was I don't know) and took her acknowledgment. It is one of those four. When we came out on the pavement from the house I forgot everything else about
the matter.'"
"On the face of the acknowledgment it would appear that the four parties named
time?"
"Yes, sir; or I went to the house—one of the two."
"Did the four parties appear before you at one and the same time? Have you any recollection?"
"Yes, sir; I have a recollection that I went to this woman's house on Bowers street, and
can't tell."
"Your mind is a blank on that?"
"Yes, sir; entirely."
"Are you acquainted with Mrs. Mary Mellet?"
"I don't think I know her. I am not positive of that."
"Did you have any acquaintance with her,
or know her personally in September, 1896?"
"No, sir; I did not."
"And, so far as your memory now serves
you, you have no recollection of her appear-
that bond before you is based entirely on the
there?"
"Yes, sir."
While making this answer Mr. Cardin was
added, "Her name is in my handwriting."
By Mr. Burke: "Do you mean to answer
direction, and in her presence?"
"I must have when I put my certificate on
that. I have no memory of it now."
The witness was then shown the name of Mrs. Mellet, with her mark, on the 1896 bond and was asked by Mr. Kelly, "Is that your handwriting?"
The handwriting of both signatures was

second signature he would have remained under the belief that the name of Mrs.
Mellet on the 1896 bond was in his handwriting. It resembled it, but he was positive he did not sign the name on the 1896 bond and, as both signatures were alike, he was positive that he did not write either name, although upon first impression he believed he had written the name on the 1896 bond for Mrs.
Mellet.
By Mr. Kelly: "You have no recollection of Mrs. Mellet appearing before you, or you going to her, for the purpose of taking her acknowledgment of her name on this bond?"
"No, sir."
"And, if it were not for the fact that this acknowledgment purports to have been taken by you, your mind would be a perfect blank?"
"Other than leaving the office that night and going to see that one party."
"Was it a man, or a woman?"
"A woman."
"But which woman, you couldn't name?"
"No, sir."
"Do you know where Mrs. Mary Mellet lived in 1896?"
"No, sir."
"Do you know whether she lived on Bowers street or not?"
"I don't know sir."
By Mr. Burke: "When you called at this house on Bowers street, how many ladies were there?"
"Two, one of them, I remember, appealing to my recollection there was just one."
"You spoke of the signature of Mrs. Mary Mellet in the 1896 bond; what have you reference to?"
"Her signature on the bond."
"Do you mean to say you wrote that?"
"No, sir; not now. I thought at first that I did."
"You would not have entered this acknowledgment on the back of this bond for her if she had not appeared before you?"
"No, sir; I would not."
Mr. Burke then called upon Tax Collector M. J. Scanlan to take the stand. Mr. Scanlan responded to the call of his name and said, "I am advised by my lawyer, W. J. Whitehouse, not to go on the stand until he comes here. He is engaged in court, and he will be there all day." Messrs. Burke and Kelly instructed the commissioner to make a record of Mr.
Scanlan's statement.
There being no other witnesses to call, it was agreed to meet again next Friday afternoon to take Mr. Scanlan's evidence, and close the case preparatory to submitting it to the court on Monday, Dec. 5th.

Went Down With the Marine.
Among the seamen who went down with the ill-fated Maine, in Havana harbor, was Patrick Hughes, brother of James Hughes, of Hecksher's. This information has just been received by the latter, to the effect that his brother enlisted in the navy in 1890, and was on the ill-fated Maine.
