The secretary recommends that these grades be revived, temporarily as before, to be filled by appointment by the president, with the consent of the senate.

In concluding his report the secretary mys: The naval war board, as finally constituted during active operations in the recent war, was composed of Rear Admiral Montgomery Slcard, Captain A. S. Crowninshield and Captain A. T. Mahan (retired), and was constantly in session at the navy department. It was equal to every demand, and through it proper control was exercised by the department over all movements in the field. At the same time all officers there were left ample discretion and were nevel hampered in their work.

With such aid as that of this board in the direction of naval movements, with such most helpful, earnest and adequate assistant secretaries as Theodore Roosevelt and his successor, Charles H. Allen, with such efficient and competent bureau officials charged with the maintenance, supply and preparation of the navy, with such officera in authority at naval stations, and with such officers and men afloat to carry on the campaign, the success of the naval department of the government was assured. It is to all these that the country is indebted for whatever good work and renown have been achieved by its navy in the recent war. The head of the de-partment can only in a measure aid with a touch here and there. Untrained in
