La Grippe Cured

This modern malady has become dreaded not more for its direct fatality than for the weakness of body and mind it leaves behind it. Prolonged debility, permanent prostration, melancholy and suicide follow La Grippe. For this disease there is no remedy superior to Ayer's Cherry Pectoral.

"The best remedy for la grippe that I know of is Ayer's Cherry Pectoral."
Rev. JOHN K. CHASE,
South Hampton, N. H.

"My wife and five children were taken down with la grippe, while the disease was widely prevalent. I doctored them with Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, and before using quite two bottles my family was restored to health. I know of several obstinate cases of the same complaint which were also cured by this remedy."
J. PARMEYER,
Fairfield, Wis.

CRIMINAL COURT.

The Murderer Trial called before Judge Bechtel.

Pottsville, Jan. 16.—The trial of Martin Wargo, indicted jointly with Andrew Harzard for the murder of George Harbeck, was begun yesterday afternoon before Judge Bechtel. The row which resulted in a fatality occurred in John Kis' saloon in Pottsville on July 28, 1908. Harbeck and a friend went into the saloon to get a glass of beer. Wargo and Harzard were there and Harbeck invited them to join him in a drink. After they had had the drink Harbeck and Harzard became involved in an argument which led to blows, during which Harbeck was knocked down and before he could rise Wargo dealt him several blows on the head with a heavy beer glass. He died in the hospital. The jury was secured just before court adjourned.

THE COSTS DIVIDED.

Elias Jarvis, Raymond Kanber, Scott Thomas, Joseph Livello and Thomas P. Brennan were tried before Judge Lyon on the charge of assault and battery and voluntarily confessing a revolver. They were found not guilty but pay two-thirds of the costs, the prosecutor one-third. The prosecutor was a young man named Williams of Shenandoah and the difficulty occurred by the defendants backing into the prosecutor's wagon while in the Ringtown valley. M. M. Burke, Esq., represented the prosecutor.

FRIGHTFUL COLLISION.

boy division of the Lehigh Valley, said: "The accident is evidently due to a blunder in orders."

Block System Not in Use.
On this section of the Lehigh Valley the block system is not in use. The train dispatcher at Easton, who has charge of the territory, is said to have wired the operator at South Plainfield to let No. 71, the local, come through, but later there was a message from Easton to hold all westbound traffic. It is alleged that the latter message was overlooked. Some say it was not handed to the operator, but whichever way it was the westbound train was allowed on its track, and from everything that could be learned the collision was plainly due to a mistake in orders and to no negligence of the train crew. Sigmund Brennan, at West Dunellen, who threw up his arms as the local passed, has no wire and nothing to do with the dispatching of trains.

The loss of life inflicted would probably have been nothing like what it was had it not been for the fact that at Mauch Chunk the baggage car of the excursion train was found to have a hot box and was taken off, thus leaving the crowded day coach next to the engine. If this coach had retained the position it held when the train left Shamokin probably only a few lives would have been lost.

Dr. Brakely, of Dunellen, was one of the first on the scene. He said: "We got into the overturned car and groped among the debris for the dead. Teeth, arms, brains, splintered wood and twisted iron were mixed up in an indescribable mess. The wounded, most of them suffering from broken legs, were all jammed together at the rear end. The dead were found about 4 months old, in long clothes. We thought it was food and laid it on the bank beside the half dozen other mangled bodies we had extricated. Just as I was leaving I noticed signs of life. The baby was alive, and a careful examination showed it had sustained only a bruise of the head. We put it in the cars for Plainfield."

A Baby's Marvelous Escape.

This baby belonged to Mrs. Mary Parreca, of Mount Carmel, who was accompanied on the train by her husband, two young sons and the infant in question. Mrs. Parreca said: "I was nursing the baby, when the whistle began to blow. My husband started to open the window. Then I was thrown to the back of the car and lost consciousness. My baby was gone. I almost went frantic when I awoke, but at last I found my child peacefully sleeping in the other train, and apparently none the worse for the experience."

L. S. Walter, a lawyer of Mount Carmel, was pinned in the debris of the front car for two hours. Despite the fact that he was seriously, if not fatally, injured, Mr. Walter directed the attention of the rescuers to other sufferers and from his point of vantage superintended their efforts. When finally taken out Mr. Walter was carried to a nearby vacant house, where he was cared for. The vicinity of the railroad crossing where the trains crashed is somewhat deserted. The occupants of the few houses nearby did everything in their power to assist the wounded, the women tearing up sheets as bandages for the wounded and easing in countless ways their sufferings.

The Killed and Injured.

The dead are: Martin Keenan, hotel-keeper, Mount Carmel, Pa.; W. H. Hinkle, contractor, Mount Carmel; Jacob Heller, tailor, Mount Carmel; H. E. Welkel, 25 years old, Mount Carmel; Frank Fischer, shoe dealer, Mount Carmel; William H. Lender, 24 years old, dry goods dealer, Mount Carmel; only recently married; Frank Markel 64 years old, Shamokin, Pa.; Theodor S. Kohn, Shamokin; Abner S. J." on his cuffs; James Prendergast, engineer, Easton, Pa., likely to die; Joseph, full name and residence not known; Orianda Staine, Sunbury, bruised and ankle sprained; Harry R. Foster, plumber, Pottsville, both legs broken, sent home; Mrs. Henry Lockhaven, Big Mine Run, legs crushed, sent home; Mrs. Lockhaven's mother, legs crushed, sent home; Mrs. Louden-alger, not very seriously; Miss Annie Johns, Shamokin, seriously injured about the legs; John Prentice, Marblehead, Mass., not seriously, proceeded home; Frank E.
