NERVOUS DYSPEPSIA

To Gain Flesh, to Sleep Well, to Know What Appetite and Good Digestion Mean.

MAKE A TEST OF STUART'S DYSPEPSIA TABLETS.

No trouble is more common or more misunderstood than nervous dyspepsia. People having it think their nerves are to blame and are surprised that they are not cured by nerve medicines. The real seat of the mischief is lost sight of. The stomach is the organ to be looked after.

Nervous dyspeptics often do not have any pain whatever in the stomach, nor perhaps any of the usual symptoms of stomach weakness. Nervous dyspepsia shows itself not in the stomach so much as in nearly every organ. In some cases the heart palpitates and is irregular; in others the kidneys are affected; in others the bowels are constipated, with headaches; still others are troubled with loss of flesh and appetite with accumulations of gas, sour risings and heartburn.

It is safe to say that Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets will cure any stomach weakness or disease except cancer of the stomach. They cure sour stomach, gas, loss of flesh and appetite, sleeplessness, palpitation, heartburn, constipation and headache.

"Some weeks ago my brother heard me say something about indigestion, and taking a box from his pocket said "Try Stuart's Tablets." I did, and was promptly relieved. Then I investigated the nature of the tablets and became satisfied that they were made of just the right things and in just the right proportions to aid in the assimilation of food. I heartily endorse them in all respects, and I keep them constantly on hand."

M. DUPUY SUSTAINED.

French Premier Wins in the Chamber by 423 to 124.

M. BEAUREPAIRE'S ACCUSATIONS

Against the Judges of the Court of Cassation Evoke a Lively Discussion in the Chamber, But Fail to Precipitate a Cabinet Crisis.

Paris, Jan. 13.—The chamber of deputies yesterday, after an exceedingly stormy debate on the interpellations relative to the charges of M. De Beaurepaire, adopted the order of the day, which was accepted by the government, the vote standing 423 to 124.

The chamber was crowded and the discussion violent. Paul Deschamel, on taking the chair said that France loved both the army and justice. He dwelt upon the danger of internal dissensions, appealing to deputies to be calm and moderate.

Then, on the motion of M. Dupuy, the premier, the chamber decided to proceed immediately to discuss the interpellation of Lucien Millevoye, Republican Nationalist, respecting M. De Beaurepaire's accusations against the court of cassation.

M. Millevoye, amid a constantly growing tumult, dwelt upon the sensation caused by these accusations and declared it impossible to continue the revision proceedings under present conditions. He read M. De Beaurepaire's statements and demanded the adoption of disciplinary measures against the guilty judges.

Joseph Laises, deputy for Condon, in the department of Gers, evoked considerable applause by asserting that the country had had enough of the Dreyfus affair, but the tumult was speedily renewed when he began a violent attack upon the judges.

M. Dupuy rose to protest against the attacks of M. Lasies upon the judiciary. The president of the chamber (M. Deschanel) called M. Lasies to order, but the deputy continued long enough, amid deafening uproar, to make a definite charge against the criminal branch of the court of displaying partiality and to declare that the Dreyfus agitation was being supported by foreign gold.

M. Lebret, minister of justice, replying from the tribune, said that as certain charges had been brought against a judge, he had made them the subject of special, searching and sincere inquiries. With reference to M. Bard's addressing Picquart as "Colonel," the minister of justice said that the generals themselves continued to call him "Colonel," and Picquart's jailer had been ordered to do so. All the witnesses had been treated in the same fashion by the court of cassation, which had invariably expressed regret at having to trouble them to attend. The court, he remarked, regarded such refreshments as had been served to any as at the disposal of all witnesses.

Paul De Cassagnac, Conservative deputy for Mirande, in the department of Gers, followed. He said he thought the ministerial explanations utterly inadequate, equivocal and suspicious. The Republicans were answerable for the present deplorable state of affairs, and the republic would end wallowing in the mud.

M. Dupuy, who spoke next, said: "The government has nothing with which to reproach themselves. The country know that we are giving all our care to the army. Respect for law and love of liberty unite all Republicans, and all persons affected will have an opportunity of explaining at the inquiry about to commence with regard to the Dreyfus affair. Let us have done with it as speedily as possible. Let us restore quiet unto the country."

After several other violent speeches the premier accepted the proposal of the Leftists advocating the order of the day, pure and simple. This was adopted, 423 to 124, and the chamber adjourned.

The evident tendency abroad to minimize and even ridicule the declarations of M. De Beaurepaire is regarded here as a further example of the disposition outside of France to belittle every incident and all evidence unfavorable to the Dreyfus case. It is impossible to converse with representative men in Paris without seeing that the action of M. De Beaurepaire has created a deep impression.

Discovered by a Woman.

Another great discovery has been made, and that too, by a lady in this country. "Disease fastened its clutches upon her and for seven years she withstood its severest tests, but her vital organs were undermined and death seemed imminent. For three months she coughed incessantly, and could not sleep. She finally discovered a way to recovery, by purchasing of us a bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, and was so much relieved on taking first dose, that she slept all night; and with two bottles, has been absolutely cured. Her name is Mrs. Luther Lutz. Thus writes W. C. Hamnick & Co., of Shelby, N. C. Trial bottles free at A. Wasley's Drug Store. Regular size 50c and $1.00. Everybottle guaranteed.

Diplomatic Appropriation Bill Passed

Washington, Jan. 13.—The senate yesterday passed the diplomatic and consular appropriation bil without amendment. It covers $1,705,533. During the general debate two set speeches were made against imperialism by Messrs. Carmack and Gains, of Tennessee. Little business was transacted by the senate in open session. Sixteen bills on the private pension calander were passed, and a joint resolution extending the thanks of congress to Miss Clara Barton and other officials of the Red Cross society for their beneficent work in Armenia and Cuba was adopted.

THE WAR OF WORDS.

—the proper authority—about things that are passed.

"I have not felt at liberty to object to this method of procedure for the reason that my objection, however well founded, however well based on law and regulations, I feared would be given to the world as an evidence that I and my department feared an inspection, and this too, when and while I and the whole department courted it; but we did not court exparte reports made at the instigation of people well known to be hostile, parties whose actions already, and whose statements here before your committee, show but too plainly what animus is behind it all. It can be readily seen that if this sort of exparte examination is made and exparte reports solicited no man's reputation is safe; every man's character may be put in jeopardy; designing people might ruin Christ even if he were here today.

"Inspector General Breckenridge has recently addressed letters direct to officers of my department calling for reports to him about the various articles of food furnished during the past year to the army. He does this without the authority of the secretary of war. In effect we have in this two officers of the army—General Miles and General Breckinridge—who take upon themselves to investigate matters pertaining solely and exclusively to the secretary of war.

"Your committee will readily see at once how far this thing has gone and to what extremes these men go to establish and make a case. General Breckinridge has also addressed. I am credibly informed, a similar letter direct to the Surgeon general. I and my department, who are concerned in this matter, are being tried, not with sworn evidence or with opportunity to confront the witnesses, still less the opportunity to refute any statements made, because they refer to things gone, to things consumed, things not in existence, and therefore every one is given a free hand and free licence to comment as they please because of the inability to refute with any evidence whatsoever the statements that have been made by people who know that their statements cannot be controverted because the evidence in the case is out of existence."

General Eagan said it appeared from the seeking of these reports that the subordinates were inspecting their superior, trying him by exparte reports obtained at their own instance.

"If General Miles," he continued, "had informed himself as much about the army ration as he pretends to have informed himself about refrigerated beef, which he falsely calls 'embalmed beef,' then he should have been enabled to inform you that this very tinned beef we are speaking of has been a part of the army ration since Feb. 8, 1888. Whether General Miles is ignorant of this, I do not pretend to say, but he takes it upon himself when asked who fixed it as a part of the army ration to say, 'You will have to ask some one here in Washington.' This implication shows how reliable his statements are."

General Eagan went on to say that General Miles' chief commissary, selected by him over experienced officers, had public subsistence funds in his possession, but could not use them for lack of a check book, though Colonel Sharpe, chief commissary on General Brooke's staff, who because he did not happen to be a selection of General Miles, "had sense enough to provide himself with a check book." He questioned the right of General Miles to divert the customs funds to the purchase of beef when the subsistence department had over $400,000 available.

"Having traversed General Miles' statements," he said, "having shown him to be a liar, having demonstrated the animus that pervades the whole matter, I now go back to his statement that in his judgment food was one of the serious causes of so much sickness and distress of the troops. The design to say, to imply, to assert, to insinuate that sickness was caused for such reason in Porto Rico is to make an assertion wholly untrue, devoid of facts, devoid of truth, and can only be prompted by a base motive and under cover of the qualifications, in my judgment."

General Eagan said General Miles legally had no such control of the purse as he assumed in Porto Rico, nor does the law authorize him to set aside food furnished under the law, but it does determine how to hold accountable the party furnishing improper food.

General Eagan concluded as follows: "The damage that has been done by these statements is believed to be very great, but I indulge the hope and the belief that my statement will offset the statements made by General Miles, and will, in some measure at least, do justice to others that have been wronged, maligned and libeled. For myself, I content myself with expressing my profound belief that either General Miles or I should be put out of the service; either he or I am right; either he dishonors his uniform with his false statements and libels or I dishonor mine in feeding soldiers with poisonous beef, causing their sickness, and doing so under 'pretense of experiment.'"

General Eagan, after the hearing was over, refused to say whether he had any further move in prospect in forcing an issue between himself and General Miles. "I have said all I intend to say for the present," he replied, "and if any one wants to bring the matter to a court martial I am ready for that, too, as I have already stated before the commission."

As soon as the nature of General Eagan's statements became known attention was directed to army headquarters to ascertain what move would be made by General Miles. The latter, beyond saying that he had stood for the soldiers, declined to make any statement.

Altogether the intimation conveyed was that General Miles would act with deliberation if he decided to take any action at all, and there was a faint suggestion that he might decide to ignore the statements altogether. Of course a decision to that effect on the part of General Miles would terminate the incident. But should he decide to take notice officially of the attack the next step would be for him to prefer charges with the president against the commissary general.

THE TROUBLES IN SAMOA.

Fears That Mataafa's Return Has Led to a Slaughter.

San Francisco, Jan. 13.—The following letter, under date of Dec. 28, has been received from a newspaper correspondent in Samoa, and shows how alarming was the situation when the steamer Mariposa left Apia for this city:

"Events have moved very rapidly since the last mail left here. Civil war has been narrowly avoided and for the first time in Samoan history the lives of white residents have been threatened by the natives. Even now bloodshed is not far from improbable. Armed guards protect the residence of Chief Justice Chambers, an American citizen, and that of Mr. Cherry, the leading English lawyer of the town, who has taken a prominent part in supporting Malietoa Tanus claim to the throne. If fighting once begins the results will be serious, for each side has thousands of men in the field, and it will require energetic action on the part of English and German warships to keep the conflict within bounds.

"The whole trouble has arisen through the injudicious action of the three treaty powers in bringing the deported Mataafa back to Samoa. By doing so they have thrown down a bone of contention and converted what might otherwise have been a peaceful election into an angry combat. Of course, at the time America, England and Germany agreed to Mataafa's return Malietoa's death was not anticipated, otherwise the home coming of the exiled king would certainly have been delayed.

"To show the extent of the feeling aroused Suatele, a religious fanatic, who is one of Mataafa's most prominent adherents, is quoted as saying: 'Samoans you must fight strong; when you fight, kill. When you meet a white man, cut him up; when you meet a missionary, cut him up; when you meet a deacon, cut him up; when you meet a Samoan, cut him up; we will break through the bonds of the treaty; we will leave no mustiposility.'"

Turks Defeat Arabs.

Constantinople, Jan. 13.—A great battle has been fought in the Yemen division of Arabia. The Turkish troops stormed and captured the insurgent position at Shanel on Nov. 30. About 4,000 insurgents and 2,000 Turks were killed or wounded. After the battle at Shanel a further Turkish advance was ordered. Abdullah Pasha, commanding the Turkish troops, was directed to capture Sanich, the headquarters of an important insurgent leader, 60 miles northwest of Sana. All the commanding positions in that vicinity are occupied by rebels, and as the Turkish troops are deserving the operations are likely to be prolonged and difficult.

WRITE A LETTER.

Many women live where there is no skillful specialist in women's diseases, and still more cannot afford to pay the high fees charged. These sufferers should follow the example of Mrs. Anna Willy, of Northville, Spink Co., S. Dak., who writes as follows to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.:

"I am enjoying good health, thanks to your kind advice and valuable remedies. I suffered very much with female ailments for more than two years, when I wrote to you for advice. After carefully following your free advice, and taking six bottles each of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and Golden Medical Discovery, I am now a well and happy woman. I have also taken several vials of your 'Pleasant Pellets,' which did me a great deal of good."

Dr. Pierce has probably treated and cured more cases of female weakness, pains in the back, side and abdomen, nervousness, headache, irregularities, ulcerations, tumors and other female troubles, than any other living physician. His wide experience peculiarly fits him to bring about cures when every one else fails. He charges no fee whatever to those who write him for advice, and he invites all to consult him free by mail. His wonderful remedy, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, can be depended upon to overcome nearly every kind of disease that afflicts girls and women. It contains no alcohol, opium or other narcotics, and does not create craving for injurious stimulants, as is so often the case with other medicines advertised for woman's ailments.

An honest medicine dealer will give you Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, and not try to persuade you to take some inferior substitute for the little added profit he may make thereon.

Those who wish may enclose 21 one-cent stamps in their letters, and Dr. Pierce will send free his 1008-page Common Sense Medical Adviser, which is the most complete and practical family doctor book ever published, containing over 700 pictures. The same book, cloth bound, 31 stamps.
