GEN. GOMEZ'S DEMANDS.

Wants Forty Million Dollars to Pay Off His Troops.

POPULAR HAILS HIM AS VICTOR.

He Has Been Receiving the Adulations of the People in the Various Towns Through Which He Has Passed—To March to Santa Clara.

Remedios, Cuba, Jan. 24.—General Maximo Gomez, commander-in-chief of the Cuban army, has withdrawn to this part of the island. As previously cabled, he was not invited to be present at the evacuation ceremony at Havana on Jan. 1, and he has been nursing his feelings of alleged injury sustained at the hands of our government. As a salute to these injured feelings of respect he has been receiving the adulations of the Cuban populace of the various towns through which he has passed, and the ovations of this character which were tendered to him here and in Cabaena have lately brought these towns into the public eye.

General Gomez remains at the head of the Cuban army. He considers this to be his 300th day of freedom. He is paid off. The amount needed for this purpose, according to the Cubans, is $40,000,000, which would give nearly $2,000 gold to each soldier. Just what security can be offered for this loan is not clear.

The fact that every seaman of the island has passed, and the ovations of this character which were tendered to him here and in Cabaena have lately brought these towns into the public eye.

THAT "EMBALMED BEEF."

Captain Warburton, Under Oath, Declares It Had to Be Buried.

Washington, Jan. 24.—The board of survey appointed by Secretary Alger to pass upon the question of the proper condemnation of a large quantity of beef destined for the troops in Porto Rico has returned from Captain Warburton H. Warburton, of the Pennsylvania volunteer battalion of artillery, a sworn statement of the condition of refrigerated beef on board the transport Manitoba. In the course of this statement Captain Warburton says: "The meat was so bad that it was impossible to swallow it. In my opinion the meat was not good, not was it fit for issue. I had no idea that this meat had been subjected to any chemical process, but believed the beef to have decomposed on account of the lack of proper refrigerating facilities. It had to be buried immediately upon delivery at our camp, which was about two miles beyond Ponce." Captain Warburton gives the names of some witnesses whose testimony may be of value.

ROMANCE OF AN EARL.

London's "Noble Organ Grinder" Will Doubtless Get His Estate.

THERE ARE TWO CLAIMANTS.
The Eldest Son of Earl Poullet, Who Has Just Died, Was Discarded by His Father Through No Fault of His Own—An Interesting Life Story.

London, Jan. 24.—William Henry Earl Poullet, died in this city on Sunday in his 72d year. It is probable that the succession to the title and estates will be disputed.

The deceased earl was thrice married. According to gossip, he made a wager, when a harum scarum youth and traveling about, that he would marry the first woman he met on landing in England.

Accordingly, at Port Sea, in 1849, he married Miss Elizabeth Virginia Newman, daughter of a Landport pilot. Within a few months she gave birth to a son, whose paternity her husband denied. The couple from that time lived apart, the wife dying in August, 1871. The child, who now calls himself Viscount Hinton, and claims the succession, has long been living on the streets of London as an organ grinder, and his pretensions were always sternly repudiated by the deceased earl.

About six weeks after the death of his first wife Lord Poullet married Miss Sophia Johnson, who died in 1878, without issue living. In 1879 he married Miss Rosa De Melville, daughter of Alfred Hugh De Melville, and their son is generally recognized as the rightful heir.

The long standing quarrel between the late Earl Poullet and the organ grinder viscount has furnished the material for many a London sensation. Only a month ago the claimant to the succession issued an appeal to the public to take a philanthropic interest in the condition of the poor, among whom he has lived and earned his living. He prefaced it with a brief biographical statement, which is interesting just now, as likely to form the basis of important litigation between him and the son of the late earl.

In the course of the appeal "the noble organ grinder," as he is known in London, said:

"I am Viscount Hinton, William Turnour Thomas Poullet, eldest son of Earl Poullet, of Hinton St. George, Somerset, hence my title. On the death of the present earl, against whom I hold no animosity whatever, I expect to inherit Hinton St. George, still a magnificent domain of 20,000 acres. The estate is worth £12,000 per annum, which I shall soon time enjoy.

Through certain affairs, which must be nameless, my parents lived apart, my mother enjoying a good income, which died with her. Her illness and death took place at South Sea, August, 1871. Being her constant companion, I was inconsolable at my loss. The earl shortly afterward took to himself the title, and for some time after she left this world he took to himself another. Certain affairs took place and I was thrown on my own resources.

"Friends took care of me and kept me going for a time. I was advised by an old friend to try to win a living in the streets. An organ was procured for me, to which I am compelled to stick, not being able to turn my hand to anything else. The work is very hard, especially during the winter months. Some people think and say it is an idle life. Let them try it. I am earning an honest living with my piano organ.

"I am also learning a phase of life among the London populace which I believe few members of the nobility have had a chance to know. When I take my seat in the house of lords I shall come equipped with a better understanding of its duties toward the public than had I squandered a patrimony or idly wasted in inheritance. As one of the thousand or more organ grinders in London, I should say that the proper housing of the poor is more important to me than the multiplication of warships or the adoption of new races of men."

The late Earl Poullet conscientiously involved himself in debt, sold every family possession he could sell and mortgaged the remainder up to the hilt. In order that "the noble organ grinder" in the event of ultimate accession to the title and entailed estates, might benefit as little as possible. At one time the courts refused him a certificate of discharge in bankruptcy on the ground of unjustifiable extravagance in living. He made no secret of the reason for his prodigality. The old earl's hatred for him whom he called "the impostor" was intense, and his animosity extended to the wife of the claimant, who has invariably accompanied him with the piano organ about the streets of London. Some weeks ago the claimant and his wife were in the habit of taking the organ each day to a position in front of the earl's town residence, at 60 Queensgate, and playing airs which, whether the organ grinder intended it or not, had a peculiarly maddening effect upon the earl.

Lord Poullet died uncertain as to what would be the outcome of his life-long efforts to defeat the aspirations of Elizabeth Newman's son. The child was born in wedlock, and the claimant's legal advisers are doing all in their power to support his claims to the succession cannot be defeated.
