

NERVOUS DYSPEPSIA
To Gain Flesh, to Sleep Well, to Know What Appetite and Good Digestion Mean.
MAKE A TEST OF STUART'S DYSPEP-SIA TABLETS.

No trouble is more common or more misunderstood than nervous dyspepsia. People having it think their nerves are to blame and are surprised that they are not cured by nervine medicines. The real seat of the mischief is in the stomach. The stomach is the organ to be looked after.

Nervous dyspepsia often do not have any pain whatever in the stomach, nor perhaps any of the usual symptoms of stomach weakness. Nervous dyspepsia shows itself not in the stomach so much as to nearly every organ. In some cases the heart palpitates and is irregular; in others the kidneys are affected; in others the bowels are constipated, with headache; still others are troubled with loss of flesh and appetite with accumulations of gas, sour risings and heartburn.

It is safe to say that Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets will cure any stomach weakness or disease except cancer of the stomach. They cure sour stomach, gas, loss of flesh and appetite, sleeplessness, palpitation, heartburn, constipation and headache.

in his own words:

"Some weeks ago my brother heard me say something about indigestion, and taking a box from his pocket said 'Try Stuart's Tablets.' I did, and was promptly relieved.
Then I investigated the nature of the tablets and became satisfied that they were made of just the right things, and in just the right proportions to aid in the assimilation of food.
I heartily endorse them in all respects, and I keep them constantly on hand."

DEPT. OF SUPREME COURT
Tragic End of Ex-Attorney General Garland's Life.
BROKEN WHILE IN ARGUMENT.
He Had Just Declared: "This, Your Honors, is Our Contention." When He Fell Senseless to the Floor and Died in Ten Minutes.
Washington, Jan. 27.—Former Attorney General Augustus H. Garland was stricken with apoplexy while addressing the United States supreme court yesterday afternoon and died within ten minutes. When the court convened at noon Mr. Garland resumed an argument in the case of Tolson vs.
Moore, which had begun on Wednesday. There was a full bench, with the exception of Justices Brewer and White. Mr. Garland spoke calmly, and with no evidence of exhaustion or effort.
He had read from a law volume and had followed with the sentence: "This, your honors, is our contention." As the last word was uttered Mr.
Garland was seen to raise his hand and then snap. He tottered and fell backward, striking against a chair and overturning it as he fell heavily to the floor. A succession of loud, deep gasps came from him as he lay on the floor.
His associate in the case, Mr. Franklin Mackey, was at once by his side, and with other counsel and officials the head of the dying man was raised and his shoes removed, and a draught of water given him. A deathly pallor had spread his face, and this soon gave place to a deep purple, which foretold the gravity of the attack. He was carried from the chamber across to the room of Chief Clerk McKenny and placed on a sofa. Senator Gal-linger, who is a physician, was near at hand. A single glance told him that the attack would be fatal. Within ten minutes from the time of the stroke Mr.
Garland breathed his last.

The court in the meantime had postponed the case which Mr. Garland was engaged in until the seriousness of the attack was known had proceeded with other business. On the announcement of Mr. Garland's death the court at once adjourned.

It is said that never before in the history of the United States supreme court has an attorney been stricken with death while making an argument there. There have been cases in which counsel have fallen, stricken with illness, but no case in which death has followed within a few minutes.

Mr. Garland has been in poor health for several years. He had been several months ago was in the hospital for some weeks.
His friends noticed when he was well enough to be out again that he had fallen rapidly and was growing feeble.
Several weeks ago he was taken ill with the grip, and had suffered from its effects ever since. He doctoring himself by taking popular remedies, and it is understood had not considered his case serious enough to call in a physician. Before he went into the court room yesterday he remarked to one of the court officials that he was not feeling very well, and he thought he would be forced to retire Monday next.

The news of General Garland's death produced a profound sadness in the senate, where he had served for many years as one of the galaxy of distinguished men. While in the senate he had been a member of the judiciary committee, and he had taken rank with the strong men of that day. Of recent years he had practiced his profession almost exclusively in the supreme court of the United States. It was here that he was his most pronounced triumph.

Augustus H. Garland was born in Tennessee on June 11, 1832, but was taken to Arkansas in his infancy. After a collegiate education he studied law, and began practice at Little Rock, the state capital. Mr. Garland began his political career at the opening of the civil war, being elected delegate to the state convention in 1861. In that body he opposed secession, but when it was decided to follow the lead of South Carolina, Mr. Garland cast his lot with the secessionists, and remained faithful to the Confederacy until it ceased to exist. He served two terms in the Confederate congress, and a portion of a term in the Confederate senate. The war over, he at once renewed his allegiance to the United States.
In 1868 he was elected United States senator, but congress refused to recognize the legislature by which he had been elected.

In the contentions in the Republican party in Arkansas, in the Brooks-Baxter days, Mr. Garland espoused the cause of Mr. Baxter, as did a majority of the Democrats, and he succeeded Mr. Baxter as governor of the state.
He served in the national senate in 1877, being unanimously chosen, and was serving his second term when called into Mr. Cleveland's first cabinet.
While occupying this position as attorney general he was tendered the position of the supreme bench afterwards given to Mr. Lamar, but declined, saying he was too old, in his opinion.
Since retiring from his position in the cabinet Mr. Garland has resided in Washington.

THE PRESIDENT AND THE SENATE.
Failures to Furnish Documents Arouse Some of the Senators.
Washington, Jan. 27.—Yesterday's adverse action of the senate was contaminated in its action of the failure of the president so far to send the senate the documents in his possession and in the state department bearing upon the Paris conference.
Senator Goeman raised the point as soon as the doors were closed, and pressed the senate to demand a lengthy of the president to respond to the senate's request for information.
The attack of the Maryland senator was followed by similar speeches by Senators Vest and Hoar, and they were replied to by Senators Spooner and Platt.

The five senators engaged in a running debate the opponents of the treaty contending that the senate is entitled as a part of the treaty making power to all of the facts bearing upon the case, and the supporters of the document holding that the president could withhold from the senate information which he deems to be of such a nature that its disclosure would be injurious to the interest of the general welfare or give out, Senator Spooner cited the precedents to show that the president could withhold information of this character at his pleasure when he deemed it desirable to withhold facts bearing upon some international complications when to do so might prejudice the country's best interests. The point was also made that the president might feel more free to communicate with the senate if he could be sure of privacy in doing so.

Senator Hoar said that no one could excel him in admiration for the personal qualities of the president or in confidence in his patriotism. At the same time he contended for his original proposition that the senate was entitled to the president's full confidence.

Striking Roadmakers in Cuba.
Santiago de Cuba, Jan. 27.—Two hundred men who had been engaged in road making in this district went on strike yesterday. They had been receiving $1 per day, and want $1.25, with ration. It is believed that two men have been guilty of inciting them to strike, and as soon as these are discovered they will be placed under arrest. Unless the strikers return to work at once (it is expected they will) other laborers will be employed.

Town Nearly Destroyed by Fire.
Kingston, Jamaica, Jan. 27.—The town of Porus, the inland terminus of the central line of the Jamaica railroad, has been almost destroyed by fire, involving heavy losses. There were no fatalities, however. The fire was unopposed, owing to the want of water.

RATTLESNAKES

are not more deadly than the millions of disease germs that are floating in the air we breathe and in the water we drink—germs of typhoid fever, malaria, consumption. Compared to a disease germ, a rattlesnake is a gentleman. He is a fair fighter. He tells you to look out.
He rattles before he strikes. You have a chance to fight or run. The disease germ sneaks in. It comes while you are sleeping. It gains an entrance to the blood. It propagates through the multiplies in a few hours, or days, your blood is full of its children—millions of them. They go all over your body seeking a weak spot. They don't rattle—they strike. You feel listless, nervous, sluggish, feverish, and maybe you're flat on your back before you really know there is anything the matter.
The only way to keep out disease germs—to keep from being sick—is to keep your blood pure and rich, and to keep active and healthy.
Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, the greatest tonic in the world, will do it.
Charles H. Sargent, of Plain City, Madison Co., Ohio, writes: "During the summer and fall of 1896 I became all run-down, nerves were out of order, stomach out of order. I wrote to Dr. Pierce for advice. He said I had general debility, and advised Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. Since I stopped taking it about one year ago, I have not taken any medicine of any kind, and I have been able to work every day, and I feel as good as ever. I can eat three square meals a day, and I do not get that miserable burning stomach after eating. My blood and nerves are in good shape."

Eczema FROM BIRTH
Our little daughter had Eczema from birth.
The parts affected would become terribly itchy, and water would come out like great blobs, and the skin would crack and peel off.
After bathing her with CUTICURA SOAP, I applied CUTICURA Ointment freely, and gave her CUTICURA Syrup regularly. She improved so much and so soon never troubled.
The statements I have made are absolutely true and not exaggerated in any way.
