MIRACULOUS ESCAPE.

Boy Uninjured, But the Horse He Was Riding Killed.

A thrilling accident occurred yesterday afternoon at the place where the P. & R. Railway crosses the turnpike west of the Turkey Run colliery and it is surprising that there is no loss of life to record. A boy had a miraculous escape from death. The horse he was riding was so badly injured that it had to be killed.

An empty timber wagon drawn by three horses was on its way from the Wm. Penn colliery. The outfit was owned by Daniel E. Troy, a timberman of Beaver Valley. Troy was seated on the wagon. Two horses were hitched together and Troy's 14-year-old son was on the back of the horse in the lead. The dirt banks hide from view trains that approach from the east towards the highway and, not infrequently, they also prevent the sounds of bell and whistle from being heard.

As the timber team approached the railroad a man who was walking from Wm. Penn to this town, and who was in a position to have a clear view eastwardly along the railroad, as well as southwardly along the turnpike, saw that the teamster was approaching danger. He shouted to the teamster and waived his arms above his head as a danger signal, but neither Troy nor his son paid attention to him. The man continued his warning signals without effect. The boy who was on the lead horse said after the accident that he did not realize the meaning of the man's actions, and his father's view was obscured by the horses.

Just as the lead horse reached the crossing a west-bound engine rushed upon the spot. The horse was thrown in such a position that the engine cut off one of its legs. The boy was hurled fully fifty feet from the track and, strange to say, was comparatively uninjured. Of course he was considerably bruised by the fall upon the frozen ground. The father retained his presence of mind and secured immediate control of the two remaining horses after the one in the lead had been torn from the pole fastenings. Both horses were knocked down by the shock, but immediately regained their feet and would have dashed away with probable disaster to the elder Troy, had not the latter acted as promptly as he did.

The engine that struck the team was No. 539, in charge of Conductor Foulk and John Thompson, engineer. Troy and his son proceeded to their home immediately after the accident.

A Most Singular Thing

It is a singular fact, but none the less true, that people who are sick or out of health and are taking treatment from doctors, do not know exactly what is the matter with them. One doctor says one thing and another doctor says something else. Meanwhile they do not get well. Now, why is this? Simply that such persons have not consulted the right doctor, have not consulted a great specialist who, because he makes a specialty of the treatment and cure of chronic and lingering diseases, and because of his vast experience in treating the class of diseases like your complaint, knows just precisely what ails you from your symptoms, and moreover has from his great experience the exact knowledge of what medicines your case requires to be cured. For instance, the famous Dr. Greene, of 35 West 14th St., New York City, who stands at the head of specialists in nervous and chronic diseases, has cured thousands of cases like yours. He, therefore, will perfectly understand your disease, and if you consult him, either personally or by letter, he will tell you or write you exactly what your complaint is. Although Dr. Greene has the largest practice in this country, he gives everybody the privilege of consultation with him, free of charge, and if you will write him about your case, you will receive, without cost to you, the best medical advice and counsel about your complaint, which advice, if followed, will lead to your cure. Dr. Greene's system of treatment by harmless vegetable medicines is the wonder of medical science. One of his grand discoveries, Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy, is known and used all over the world, and he has equally marvelous remedies for various complaints. You want to know what your trouble is, why not write to the Doctor and find out.

AN INDIAN MURDERER'S FATE.

Punishment That Befell Him In a Primitive Mexican Tribe.

Speaking of primitive law among the Mexican Indians brings to mind a curious case that was told me some years ago in the state of Oaxaca by an old Zapoteca chief who had become a convert to Christianity.

He said that a long while ago an American botanist was traveling through the mountains of Oaxaca studying the rare and beautiful flora of that region. He had with him a mozo from another part of the country.

He carried several goldpieces sewed in the lining of his jacket. The mozo became aware of that fact, and one day, when the botanist got down on his knees to drink at a little spring, the mozo cut his head off with a machete, took the goldpieces and fled to the higher sierras.

Not long after the body was found by some Zapoteca Indians who had seen the botanist in former days studying the flowers and plants near their village. They knew that he was a harmless and good man because he loved the flowers. All Mexican Indians love flowers. So they took the body to the chief and told him what they had seen and found. The old chief was very indignant. "What!" he said "Shall the kind stranger with the white face who loved flowers and sought not our goods nor insulted our women come to such a dog's death among us and not be avenged?"

He then dispatched four swift Indian runners in different directions with orders not to return without the murderer. After a week's time they returned bearing the malefactor bound in their midst. A council of old men was called and the case was examined. The guilt of the mozo was proved, as he still had with him the strange pieces of gold.

Then the old chief gave the sentence. It was speedily performed. They led the trembling murderer to the center of the little plaza. There four green stakes were driven in the ground. The murderer was stripped naked and stretched by the wrist's and feet in the air among the four stakes, to which he was lashed. Then the Indians made a great heap of unslaked lime under the wretched man's body, and when the heap touched his breast and sides they poured water over it until the scalding steam of the burning lime had cooked all the flesh from the bones. Then they took the bones and threw them into a hole on the mountain side.

And so was the stain of the murdered man's blood covered and vengeance was wrought by the Indians in behalf of "the white stranger who was good and loved flowers."—City of Mexico Two Republics.

Deaths and Funerals.

Mrs. Joseph Dusch died at her home in Tamaqua Sunday night, leaving a husband and one child. Funeral to-morrow, interment at Ashland.

James Payne, for many years a resident of Ashland, and at one time land agent for the P. & R. R. R. Co., died at the insane department of the Almshouse at Schuylkill Haven. He was 73 years old. Ex-Deputy Controller B. W. Payne is a nephew of the deceased.

Mrs. Mary, wife of Thomas Rutledge, died at her home in Mt. Pleasant, on Sunday night after a brief illness, aged 50 years.

The funeral of Mrs. John Mootz will take place at Pottsville to-morrow morning.

News has been received of the death of Henry Manbeck at his home at Napierville, Illinois. He was a former resident of this county and a brother to the late Enoch Manbeck, of Ringtown.

The wife and daughter of James Noble, formerly of Pottsville, died at their home at Gadsdon, Ala., and their youngest daughter is seriously ill.

Many residents of Shenandoah will regret to learn of the death of John A. Guldin, formerly proprietor of the Commercial Hotel at this place. His death occurred at Eldred, McKean county, on Sunday, where he conducted a hotel. He was ill several weeks from brain fever, and death was due to meningitis. Funeral will take place to-morrow at Pottsville, from the residence of the deceased's father.

Andrew Morrison, a former resident of town, died at his home in Summit Hill yesterday from illness precipitated by an attack of grip. He was 49 years old and is survived by his wife and two daughters. The announcement of his death occasioned much surprise here, as Mr. Morrison was a visitor to town about a week ago and appeared to be enjoying excellent health. The deceased was a member of Shenandoah Lodge No. 511, F. & A. M., and Shenandoah Lodge No. 591, I. O. O. F., of town. There are several near relatives of the deceased in this town.

A message from Millersburg, Dauphin county, announces the death of Agnes, wife of L. E. Bowman, at that place this morning. She had been ill several weeks and death was due to grip, followed by heart failure. The deceased was 61 years old and is survived by her husband and the following children: Mrs. G. G. Clauser, of town; Mrs. H. G. Bogar, Mrs. W. H. Miller, Miss Elizabeth Bowman, Ira T., Roscoe A. and T. Ross Bowman, all of Millersburg; and H. E. Bowman, of Harrisburg.

The funeral of Charles H. Blew, an aged and respected resident of Rush township, who died suddenly on Saturday afternoon from paralysis of the heart, took place this afternoon. Interment was made at Barnesville. He was 63 years old and a veteran of the civil war, having served in Co. E, 97th Regt., Pa. Vol.

William Schwender, who moved from Mahanoy City to New Ringgold about six months ago, died at the latter place yesterday. He was 65 years old and a veteran of the civil war. His wife and eight children survive.

Robert Grafton, the miner who died at the Miners' hospital on Sunday from burns received in the Gilberton colliery last Wednesday, will be buried in the Odd Fellows' cemetery at Girardville to-morrow.

CIDER A BACTERICIDE.

The Beverage Declared to Be a Specific Against Typhoid Fever.

Cider was regarded by the late Edmond de Goncourt as the drink of dry, hard-headed, reasoning men, but his judgment was probably biased by the traditional prejudice of the French against the calculating and wily "Normand." It may be remarked that the Devonshire people, who are the cider drinkers of England, do not appear to have this character, though they are certainly intelligent. Literary men, owing to their partial, hasty or superficial views, are prone to fall into many errors of this kind, especially when dealing with the characters of races and peoples.

They do not patiently and repeatedly look at the matter all round or take the long time required to sift it to the bottom and so arrive at the truth. In short, they have not the scientific habit of mind which might save them from very erroneous conclusions and the propagation of pernicious popular mistakes. At the same time there is no doubt that the liquor a man habitually drinks has some influence on his mind, and it is possible that the acidity of cider sharpens the wits. "He who drinks beer thinks beer," is an old saying with some foundation.

Be that as it may, the Pasteur Institute has recently found that cider is a bactericide. The Normans often make cider with dirty water, and even pretend that pure water does not make good cider. The institute, investigating Norman cider in search of bacteria, has observed that the bacillus of typhoid dies in cider in two to 18 hours, owing to acidity. The cider should contain at least 2 per cent of malic acid to produce this effect, otherwise the bacillus will exist for three or four days, and if the liquor is neuter, for more than 20 days. Ordinary cider, however, possesses at least 2 per cent of malic acid, and consequently if it is not drunk for 18 or 20 hours there is no danger of typhoid fever.—London Globe.
