An Audacions Thief.

A country gentleman of Cheshtre was no sent galloping 20 miles to fetch the police to catch the thief who had stolen a sheck from inside an envelope which was inside his own letter box in his own hall gute-all through a tomitit. The envelope and the covering letter were there, but the whereabouts of the check might have rematned as great a mystery as any Thames embankment robbery in open daylight, but that when the gentleman and the police arrived and proceeded solemnly to in-spect the letter box two tuntits were disrovered inside. This led to a search, and yards off, lying on the ground, with benk marks upon it, was the check. Whether the tomitis had returned to find out in whose name they should forge an indorsement to the check is not clear, but this new development of the criminal tendency, which has always been latent in the whole race of tits, cannot be too strongly reprolated - Longman's Magazina.

A Perverted Sentiment.

Some one once wrote a sentimental song about the "light in the window for me and over since that time the "light in the window" has figured in poetry and song In St. Joseph's church, at Ashiand. to a greater extent and in a more senti mental manner than it is entitled to. The cold truth is that when there is a light in the window it means some one is sitting up to give the last one to come home a scolding or advice about the good sense of going to bed earlier. A light in the win-dow is something that a magged person never fails to see, and when his eyes first see it in turning a corner he gots a cold chill and longs for a home in a boarding transacted was the unanimous endorseme house.
