

CATARH OF STOMACH.

A Pleasant, Simple, but Safe and Effective Cure for It.

Catarh of the stomach has long been considered the next thing to inebriety.

This is often a foul taste in the mouth, eructations and if the interior of the stomach could be seen it would show a slimy, inflamed condition.

The cure of this common and obstinate trouble is found in a treatment which causes the food to be readily, thoroughly digested.

According to Dr. Harrison the safest and best treatment is to use after each meal a tablet, composed of Dextrose, Ascorbic Acid, a little Nux, Golden Seal and Fruit acids.

Send for little book free, on stomach troubles, by addressing Stuart Co., Marshall, Mich. The tablets can be found at all drug stores.

SAFE LOCK PUZZLES.

THE TROUBLE THAT IS CAUSED BY LOST COMBINATIONS.

A Remarkable Experience With a Screw Door Safe, Which Defied the Assaults of the Experts For Three Days and Nights.

Once a painter working in the Commercial Hotel slipped from his ladder and in falling struck his foot against the knob of the office safe.

The "sticking" of safe doors, as it is called colloquially, is something that occurs frequently in every city.

The widely prevalent idea that a combination lock may be opened "by ear" is absurd, and the safe sharp who pretends to do it resorts to an ingenious method, called "backing up."

Sudden death is by no means responsible for all the lockouts. Sometimes one of those mental ailments, in which the overtaxed brain itself slips a cog, causes a busy man to forget for the time being one or more of the numbers.

Some years ago a New Orleans merchant suddenly forgot the second number of his combination. He was in great distress, for he feared a mental breakdown, and, strange to say, he had the missing number associated in some manner with the idea of stopping or pausing.

It has something to do with standing still," he repeated over and over again to the baffled experts.

One of the most remarkable lockouts on record occurred in 1892 in a small town in this state. A general merchant had what was known as a screw door safe, with a time lock, which got out of order.

The safe contained a quantity of currency, several fine watches and a lot of diamond jewelry, and the owner was wild to have it opened.

A LEPROSY TRAGEDY.

THE SACRIFICE OF KAOMOUNA, THE HAWAIIAN BEAUTY.

A Story Which Sheds a Bright Light Upon the Filial Devotion of Kanaka Women—Why a Baby's Advances Were Not Returned.

The usual Honolulu crowd was down at the dock when the steamship Australia, seven days from San Francisco, pulled alongside the pier on a brilliant, balmy afternoon in January, 1895.

The usual groups of silent, expectant-eyed Kanaka men stood in the shade of the pier sheds, huddled in attitude, chary of words, and yet sweet natured.

All of the Kanaka women had bare feet. They stood about in little groups as silent as the men of their race.

The Australia was made fast to the pier, and the passengers began to troop over the gangway.

"Did you ever in your whole life see such a perfectly beautiful woman?" asked the young wife of her husband in a whisper when he came up.

"Who, Kaomouna?" replied the health official. "Oh, yes, she does. But it is her own child, Kaomouna, you know, has been searching her old mother for a number of years."

The parents of the little girl looked at each other. There were tears in the mother's eyes.

Another View of It. The new woman looked through her husband's pocket and found the birthday present he had intended to give her, but had forgotten.
