Coyne, Eugene Lawlor, Lloyd Brobst, William Neiswender, Joseph Blaker, Terrence and Timothy McLain, Patrick Flynn, William Smith, John Entering, Peter Becker, August Hess, John Hafner, Charles Hiltou, William Mayer and Edward Davis. Coyne is contemplating re-enlisting for three years.

About 350 recruits passed through town last night and to-day, on their homeward journey from Plattsburg to the Shamokin region.

Thomas A. Dawson, who has been home on sick leave from the 9th Infantry, now on duty at Santiago, to-day received his discharge.

A returned recruit says that the exodus from Plattsburg will not leave the place deserted by any great number of recruits, as they are arriving at the barracks daily in details of from 30 to 50.

COUNCIL MEETING!

Several Matters of Importance Discussed and Acted Upon.

SHERIFF'S SALES DISCUSSED!

Instructions Given for Action Where Such Sales are Made in Connection With the Properties of Tax Collector Scanlan's Bondsmen—Opinions by the Solicitor.

A regular meeting of the Borough Council was held last evening, with the following members in attendance: Messrs. McGuire, Straughn, James, Coakley, Lally, Hand, Bell, Murphy, Harkins, Brennan and Engler.

The first order of business after the reading of the minutes was the report of the Roads and Highways committee. Mr. Bell stated that the only work under way was the clearing of the streets and roads of snow. He asked for instructions as to what should be done where the electric railway companies fail to haul away the snow thrown from its tracks.

The result in a motion directing the committee to notify the companies that they must not shovel the snow from their tracks on to the streets, but haul it away. If the companies fail to do this the parties piling the obstructions will be arrested.

Under reports from the Finance committee it was stated that Tax Collector Burke had promised to take care of his property, requiring urgent attention, and by the next meeting of Council he will pay in considerable money.

Mr. James recommended that Mr. Lindenmuth, aged 65 years, residing on South Jarvis street, be exonerated from personal tax. It was referred to the Finance committee.

The fire apparatus committee reported that three weeks ago the fire plugs were examined and eight were found frozen. A day or two ago they were again examined and twenty-eight were found frozen.

Borough Solicitor Burke presented a lengthy list of several matters pending before Council.

On the question as to the right of the Chief Burgess to collect a license fee for the privilege of selling horses at public auction he said the Act of May 7, 1887, authorizes the Borough Council to impose a license for this by ordinance, and the strongest argument can be made that the Burgess has authority to collect such fees, and it is his duty to enforce the ordinance. For the benefit of parties who carry on these sales, he said, the Act of 1887 imposes a license in addition to any fee the borough may impose.

On the subject as to whether Council may legally increase the license charge on each street car Mr. Burke concluded that it could, but every such increase would not be legal, if it is reasonable it will stand; but should it become a tax, instead of a license, it would be illegal while the ordinance operates their lines in violation of the ordinance, the ordinance under which they occupy the streets, Council has its remedy, but not by an increase of car tax. The power to tax is limited. It must be exercised with reason.

A tax to provide a revenue for public purposes while the license fee is in charge for the privilege to the companies to do so.

Concerning the case of Mrs. Mary Mellet, the Solicitor reported that the decision made by the court in the matter was final, Mrs. Mellet having decided not to appeal.

Relative to the payment of a bill of over $600 presented by Justice Toomey for his costs in the State case, the Council decided by the borough against Fifth ward property owners for maintaining a nuisance, Solicitor Burke said the proper procedure would be for the borough to pay the costs, then take a transcript from the Justice's docket and take executions in the hands of the Sheriff for collection from the respective property owners.

As to the tax assessment made on the pumping station of the public water works by the township authorities, the Solicitor said he found the land was assessed at $3,000.

If the Borough Council regarded this as exorbitant, the Council has a remedy. He agreed to give a hearing on the matter to-day.

As to the bill introduced by the Chief of Police for telegrams sent to different parts of the country in efforts to head off Blawiecki, the murderer of Constable Dando, Mr. Burke said he submitted the bill to the County Commissioners for collection, and they referred him to the County Controller, who decided that the county was not liable for the bill.

Solicitor Burke also gave an opinion on the bill rendered by the Shenandoah Firemen's Association and contracted for legal services, printing and secretary's salary. Although the bill was only a small one, he said, still the Council has no authority to pay it. To pay the bill, it might just as well be argued that Council should pay the salaries of officers and other incidental expenses of the individual companies. Council makes an appropriation to each company for the maintenance of fire engines, hose carriages and other apparatus, and this is all it can do. The Firemen's Association is a distinct organization and does not come under the same law. It derives its revenue from a pro-rata share of a state tax which the borough turns over to its treasurer after receiving it from the state.

Reverting to the subject of the pumping station of the water works, Solicitor Burke said he was of the opinion that the borough must pay a tax on the station, for the reason that it is a plant yielding a revenue.

The Schuylkill Traction Company, the Solicitor said, is willing to pay the judgment the borough secured against it for car license. The final subject referred to in the report was the proceeding on Mr. Scanlan's 1895 tax bond. He said it is expected that a time will be fixed next Monday to take testimony in behalf of the borough. No proceedings have yet been taken on the 1896 bond.

Council took up the subjects referred to in the opinion of Justice Toomey. Upon motion of Mr. James the secretary was instructed to send a communication to Dallas Sanders, president of the Schuylkill Traction Company, and call attention to the discrimination waged against this town by the company in charging 10 cents fare from town to Girardville, and only 5 cents fare from Girardville to Ashland; and that, unless this borough is treated with the same consideration as Ashland and other boroughs are, Council will seek justice in the interest of the taxpayers of the borough.

Mr. Brennan asked whether or not the borough could place a tax on polls, including railway, electric light and telegraph, in the town, and was answered in the affirmative by the Solicitor. Further action in this connection was deferred pending an answer from President Dallas Sanders.

It was decided that an order be drawn for Justice Toomey's bill, but it be held pending a settlement with the borough on the fines collected by the Justice.

The Law Committee, in conjunction with the Borough Solicitor, was instructed to consult with the County Commissioners and try to get the pumping station assessment reduced.

Mr. James, as a member of the committee, gave notice that he would not go to Pottsville, or any other place, for the borough, he said: "Let this Council sit here, and pay him. I want to go and be discharged for my expenses."

It was also decided that the Fifth ward property owners interested be notified that if they do not pay the costs the borough has paid to Justice Toomey, within two weeks, the claims will be placed in the hands of the Sheriff for collection.

The Firemen's Association bills were referred back with a statement that the Council cannot legally pay them.

The renewal of the final note, amounting at $2,000, in payment of the water works land was discussed, and in connection with it remarks were made that Council should be sure that everything bearing upon the title was perfect before making final payment. It was finally decided that the matter be left in the hands of the officers of Council, and that they act under the Solicitor's advice in the matter.

One of the most important topics of the evening was then launched by President McGuire, who said a couple of gentlemen had spoken to him about quite a few of Tax Collector Scanlan's bondsmen being sold out at Sheriff's sale, and in time there would be a lot of them left on the streets, and he would be glad to see any possible way for Council to get the matter adjusted at an early date, it should be done, for the benefit of the borough, as well as the bondsmen.

Mr. Bell said he thought it was the duty of the other bondsmen to keep all the bondsmen on the bonds. This led to a discussion as to whether it would be advisable for the borough to become a bidder at the sales. Solicitor Burke said he wouldn't think for a moment of standing any of the sales and adding up property, unless expressly directed by Council to do so. "Suppose," said he, "I should bid for a property $2,000, or $1,500 more than would appear against it, and the owner of the property would be glad to get rid of it at that figure, and leave it on my hands, and I would come back and report, would this Council put up that money for me? You would have no right to do it if I went there without your authority."

Upon request of Mr. Engler, Borough Solicitor Burke gave the following opinion: "I would say that when a person goes on a tax collector's bond, that bond does not become a lien until the bond is certified from the Court of Quarter Sessions into the Court of Common Pleas, or, in other words, from the Clerk of the Court's office into the Prothonotary's office. Now, if, between the time of signing the bond and the time of certifying the bond into court, the bondsmen should have other judgments entered against him, these judgments would be a prior lien to the lien on the bond."

Mr. Straughn asked if the borough could show an intent to defraud it, could the Sheriff's sales be set aside.

To this Mr. Burke replied, "You can do that if you have the evidence to show the intent to defraud."

President McGuire said that he thought when bringing the matter up for discussion, that wherever there was a Sheriff's sale, the Solicitor should look the matter up and see where the borough can be protected.

Mr. Burke replied that, if Council wanted such case investigated, it could be easily done.

Mr. Hand got a chance to speak and said: "If a man has a property and owes $2,000 in a savings fund, and if his property is only worth about $2,000, why should he go upon a bond?"

The discussion finally resulted in the adoption of the following motion: "That the Solicitor and Law Committee be instructed to take all the necessary steps whereby the borough's interests will be protected in case of sales of property of bondsmen on Mr. Scanlan's 1895 and 1896 bonds."

Mr. Burke then said: "I ask that the Law Committee give their report on their report. There are many things to be done that I cannot attend to, and the committee can. I will do my share."

The Construction committee was instructed to procure bids for putting a new floor in the Columbus Hose Company's apparatus room, and present them at the next meeting.

Mr. Bell made a brief report for the Water committee, in which he said some trouble was experienced during the blizzard, but everything was all right again and there is now 36 hours supply of coal at the station.

Secretary Curtin, of the Board of Health, presented the organization's annual report.

DEATH OF M. FAURE.

The Summons Came Suddenly to the President of France.

A VICTIM OF APOPLEXY.

At Six O'clock He Called in Alarm to His Private Secretary, and at Ten O'clock He Was a Corpse—As a Young Man He Was Mayor of Havre, and Had Held Office in Three Ministries Before Being Elected President of the Third Republic. In the Midst of Corruption He Passed Unscathed.

Paris, Feb. 17.—M. Felix Faure, president of the republic of France, died of apoplexy at 10 o'clock last night, after an illness of four hours. It had been known for some time that his heart was weak, but the first intimation that he was sick was given at 6:30 last evening, when a message was dispatched to the premier, M. Dupuy, announcing that the president was ill. M. Dupuy immediately repaired to the Elysee.

All medical efforts proved futile, and the president died on the stroke of 10. The flag over the Elysee was immediately lowered to half mast and the news was dispatched to all the officials and the members of the cabinet. General Zurlinden, military governor of Paris, the grand chancellor of the Legion of Honor, the prefect of the Seine, the prefect of the police of Paris and the presidents of the senate and chamber of deputies promptly arrived at the Elysee. The report spread rapidly through the city and large crowds soon assembled in the vicinity of the palace.

About 5 o'clock M. Faure, who was then in his study, went to the door of the room of M. Le Gall, his private secretary, which is contiguous to the study, and said: "I do not feel well. Come to me."

Though M. Faure still retained consciousness, the doctors soon recognized that the case was hopeless, but it was not until nearly 8 o'clock that the members of the family were informed of the real state of affairs. They then came to the sofa, where the president lay upon a hastily improvised bed. Soon after he began to lose consciousness, and despite all efforts expired at 10 o'clock, in the presence of his family and M. Dupuy.

It was not until 11 o'clock that the news began to become known to the general public in Paris. From that time began a continuous arrival of public men. Strict orders, however, were issued and only members of the cabinet were admitted to the Elysee.

At yesterday's cabinet council M. Faure presided with his usual ability, and on their taking leave the ministers could not have imagined that they were pressing his hand for the last time. He took his lunch as usual at noon, returned to his study at 2, and spent the afternoon seated in a favorite arm chair by the fire, conversing with M. Le Gall, who about 5 o'clock asked permission to depart. At 5 o'clock M. Le Gall returned, immediately reporting himself to the president, who was then signing decrees presented by General Baillood, according to his daily custom. The work of signing was then about over and soon ended. General Baillood had gone but a few minutes when the president called M. Le Gall.

M. Faure's body has not been removed from the study where he signed so many decrees and laws. Thus it may be said he literally died in the harness. In the little room known to all who ever had an audience with him, furnished and decorated in the style of Louis XVI, he now sleeps his last sleep on a brass bedstead, in the circular end of the room, facing the window. His countenance is as serene as if in slumber. On each side of the bed sits a nun. Mesdames Le Gall and Blondel and the officers of the military household are in attendance.

Very painful it was to witness the distress of Mme. Faure and the children. Only with the greatest difficulty could she be induced to leave the death chamber, and even then she insisted on remaining in M. Le Gall's room, apart from the children. In order to give free vent to her grief, Mme. Lucie Faure, Mme. Berge, the other daughter, and M. Berge are in the secretary general's bureau.
