A FREE AND EASY TALK.

Soon the door opened, and a gentle-man entered. I in my girlish ignorance thought idm rather free and easy, as he also sat down and entered into conversa-tion with me. We discussed French politics, and he asked me why I wore violets, "Because," said I, "I am an Imperial-

I also informed him that my sister was a poor, misguided Legitimist. We got deeper and deeper into politics. I told him how the different factions called the Mrs. Elizabeth Slitzer, of No. 111 West emperor Ce Monsteur-la. ### Robbed the Grave.

A startling incident of which Mr. John Oliver of Philadelphia, was the subject, is narrated by him as follows: "I was in a most dreadful condition. My skin was a most yellow, eyes sunken, tongue coated, gain continually in back and sides, no appetite-oradinally growing washes, day be day continually in back and sides, no appetite-gradually growing weaker day by day. Three physicians had given me up. Fortun-tely, a friend advised trying 'Electric Bitters,' and to my great joy and surprise, the first bottle made a decided improvement. I continued their use for three weeks, and am now a well man. I know they saved my life, and robbed the grave of another victim.'' No one should fail to try them. Only 50 cents per bottle at A. BUT REVENCE AND THE GARMENT WERE NOT LONG WANTING.

Lieutenant Brewer's Exciting Expestence With Rain-In-the-Face, In Which the Great Stonx Chief Was Thoroughly Cowed.

Captain Edward P. Brewer of the regular cavalry while a licutemant was stationed at Fort Shoridan with his troop during the World's fair. Brower is known among his brother officers and the society of Chicago as "Pansy," a name given to him for his extreme nicety in dress and his performances as escort militairs to the In-fanta Eulalle. But he is no carpet knight. as his encounter with old Rain-In-the-Face will demonstrate. During all the years of his service, with the one exception of his tour at Sheridan. Brewer has been in the field or frontier garrisons. He has put in many long years on the trails of Apaches and Sloug and is noted as an Indian fighter. The encounter with the wily, treacherous, gross eyed, how begged old chief and medicine man was the aftermath of the last uprising among the Sloux. Brewer and his command went forth from Rosebud and rounded up old "Rain" and his hand and forced them to get back to the agency. This made the old Indian very sore, and he hid for a chance to get even. This made the old Indian very He got even, but eventually quit loser. This is how it all came about: Scon after his return Mr. Brower applied for a few days' leave of absence to visit some friends a few hundred miles avery. Having received permission, he started in the ambulance one morning with a party of ladles for the railroad depot. Looking ahead, they were considerably surprised to see a mounted Indian with a rifle thrown across his saddle bow block. ing the passage Ho was one of the finest specimens of his race, a man of about 45 r 50 years of age, well built and dressed with gaudiest of costumes. Nervously toyng with the rifle aurous his saddle and usting several scowling glances at the leutenant, whom he no doubt recognized as his recent captor, he spake a few very impressive and vehement words to the old driver, who spoke Sioux about as well as the Indian himself. "What does he say, Burgess, and why doesn't he let us pass?" inquired the lieutenant scenting some devilment on the part of his copper colored friend. "It's Rain in the Face, sir, and he says no alternative and moved by the en-treaties of the frightened ladles, the lieu tenant reluctantly disrobed and passed the coveted prize to the redskin, who received it with a malicious grin of triumph and then allowed the ambulance to proceed. Brewer had no intention of letting the matter drop here, but resigned himself to the sting of the premeditated insult with as good a grace as possible under the cir-cumstances, firmly resolving to fix that

A few days after he thanced to meet a few Indian boys and promised a big sliver dollar to the one who should first inform him when Rain-in-the Face came into the post. ### FEELING OF "BEING STARED AT." A Psychologist Who Says That If Is All Nonsense.

There are scores of scientific people in the world that seem to find no better fan than demolishing popular notions about things. Hore, for instance, is Professor E. B. Titchener of Cornell university, who discusses in a lotter to Science the widespread belief that a person slitting quistly in an audience occasionally be-comes aware that he or she is the object of scrutiny and on looking about finds that this is true.

The Cornell expert declares that there are some facts underneath the supposition, but that the facts have been misinter-preted. That's only a polite way of say-ing that people are swfully mistaken. In the first place, it is pointed out that a nervous disposition to turn around in one's sent, giance over one's shoulders and perhaps fumble the back hair is a minon trait of many well bred as well many ill bred folk. In the second nce, it is argued that in any large and ell filled suditorium there will always be several persons so seated as to be look-ing, naturally and not by design, toward the spot where any individual may be. Consequently if the individual turns around and begins to survey the house he cannot fail to catch the eys of some one, who will thus appear to have singled him out. The muscles are always under more or less unconscious strain that calls for some sort of motion to secure relief. It is this that deludes a person into the belief that he "must" turn about in his chair. Professor Titchener Insists that such cor dision is no more mysterious than the sposition to turn one's car so as better steb a sound.

That this Cornell person is a heartless wrotch as well as a hardened skeptic is evident from the cold blooded way in which he presents his final plos. serts that he has experimented with a lot f people that pretended to be sensitive to he gaze of other persons or to be able thus to influence other people. And he says that he invariably gets "negative results," by which he doubtless means that the sensitive folk cannot be persuaded to look around at the proper moment and in the ight direction, and that those who lay laim to a special capacity for controlling others fail to control 'em. The goblins will eatch Professor Titchener some night, 'll he don't watch out."-New York
