COLD CURE

HUMOR OF THE INSANE.

There is plenty of it. Says the Superintendent of an Asylum: "I was sitting in my office the other day," said the superintendent of the insane asylum at Parlor City, "when one of the patients, a harmless fellow who is allowed to have the freedom of the building and grounds, came in, pale with indignation, and said that he had a complaint to make. 'What is it, your highness?' I said, for it was the Prince of Wales I was talking to. 'Are the rules of the palace to be observed or not?' he demanded. 'I want to know whether our rules can be broken with impunity.' 'Certainly not, your highness,' I said. 'What is it?' 'I was coming down the corridor this morning,' he said, 'and in a rack on the wall I saw a dozen red pills marked 'For Fire Only.' Now, is that right or not?' 'It is,' I said. 'The sign is correct.' 'Well, then,' he said, 'John (referring to a keeper) must be punished. As I stood there he came along and filled the pails with water.' 'He should be executed at once,' I said, and the prince bowed with great seriousness and walked out of the room. 'This incident illustrates a trick which few people know anything about,' continued the superintendent. 'That is, that there is more unaccountable humor shown by a lot of lunatics than there is genuine humor among sane people. Some of the things that my patients say and do are funnier than any of the things I read or hear from the outside world. I tell you, life isn't so prosaic as you'd think in an insane asylum.'—Exchange.

"A Cheerful Look Makes a Dish a Feast."

"Cheerful looks" depend just as much upon physical well-being as upon natural disposition and temperament. If the blood is disordered, the brain is starved, and no "dish is a feast," for the reason that the vitalizing elements do not reach the proper spot.

A step in the right direction is to purify the body by the use of a natural remedy. Hood's Sarsaparilla is Nature's remedy. It acts upon the blood, and whether the seat of the disorder is brain, stomach, liver or kidneys, the purifying process of this medicine is equally sure and successful. It never disappoints.

Diphtheria—My little nephew was troubled for two years with sore throat and tonsillitis. Was threatened with diphtheria but Hood's Sarsaparilla worked it off. He is now entirely well. Leez G. Reese, Oak Hill Ave., Waterbury, Conn.

Run Down—I was weak, had no appetite, nervous and completely run down. Tried many remedies but nothing helped me until I used Hood's Sarsaparilla which cured me. Mrs. Wm. Marks, 27 Henry St., Birmingham, N. Y.

Eczema—I was almost bedfast with eczema on my face. Had no appetite. Hood's Sarsaparilla soon made me stronger and later all the sores disappeared and I was cured. Mrs. L. L. Owen, 414 Lyon Street, Des Moines, Iowa.

Dyspepsia—I suffered for 20 years with dyspepsia. Dared not eat meat, new bread or vegetables. Went hungry for fear of disease. Feet dependent and distressed. Took Hood's Sarsaparilla and got relief immediately. Can eat most anything without discomfort. Mrs. Emily F. Brum, Whiteboro, Me.

Liver and Kidneys—My mother was very sick with congestion of the liver and kidneys. Nothing helped her until she got Hood's Sarsaparilla, which showed her the cause of her illness and got her healthy. Mrs. D. A. Stone, Winthrop, Me.

Hood's Pills cure liver, bile, the bowels and give cathartic to take with Hood's Sarsaparilla.

THE RUNNING CINCH.

Its Meaning and Economical Uses Explained by Western Sheriff.

"It is in the most settled regions of the far west, but in some of the most unsettled and turn loose, that the running cinch works to best advantage, and it saves costs to the community and trouble to the sheriff," said an ex-sheriff from New Mexico to a reporter in the office of an up town hotel. "It works well at round and settles everybody concerned except the man that is cinched, and he never complains, because he's dead."

"You see, it often happens that a sheriff in a wild and woolly region, with the best intentions, has a live prisoner on his hands who is not by all good rights to be planted. He is responsible for his safe keeping in a jail that a cow could walk through, and he knows that the man is dangerous every minute that he lives. The prisoner's friends outside are plotting to help him escape on the one hand, and on the other there is always the chance that the citizens get up a mob to take and call for the prisoner with a rope, which is a reflection on the sheriff and gross disrespect to the majesty of the law."

"These things worry the sheriff, and he thinks it's best to get rid of it, so he leaves matters loose in the jail, and there is not much of a watch kept that any one can see, and the prisoner, seeing nothing to hinder, walks out some day and runs for it. He does not get far. The sheriff has everything prepared, with men waiting, and the prisoner is bored, and balling, with lead before he has time to make much of a show as a pacemaker."

"The Mormons have used the possibilities of the running cinch the most systematically, and in the days when they held courts and spots in Utah, a 'gentle' prisoner in their hands was liable to be persuaded if he declined to take advantage of the chances they gave him to run. During the building of the Union Pacific road through Utah the jail at Brighamville, 40 miles from Salt Lake City, became famous for this. Although the prisoners comprised the toughest class of men, such as naturally flocked to the country as the railroad advanced, no effort was made to hold them in jail, and a door or window was always left open somewhere at their service should they feel inclined to walk out. But none ever got away or outlived his experiment in breaking jail. The Mormons in official authority are always good shots, and the prison guards kept their practice up in this way."

"It was through an atrocious misuse of the running cinch that the great Apache chief Mangus Colorado was killed by United States soldiers about 40 years ago. He had surrendered as a prisoner of war and was held under guard in camp when the plot was made for his death. He was freed the opportunities given him to run he was tricked with a red hot bayonet thrust through the wall of the tent in which he was lying. At that he sprang from the tent and was killed by the guard as an escaping prisoner. This dastardly murder, which was without merit justification, proved a costly crime for the government in the end. After this the Apaches would not trust the white man's word, and long wars followed as a consequence, in which thousands of lives were lost and vast expense incurred."—New York Sun.

Making New Shoes Secondhand.

"I knew a man once," said a man who was getting his shoes blacked to his neighbor in the next chair, "that had a new pair of shoes every week for a year, and they never cost him a cent."
"Why, how was that?" the other man asked.
"He used to wear new shoes for a second hand shoe dealer."
"What did he do that for?"
"So as to put some signs of wear on 'em and make 'em secondhand bargains. It left 'em literally as good as new, and the dealer could truthfully say that there was a pair of shoes that had never been worn half a dozen times in the world, and anybody could see that that was a fact. Blacked up in good shape, they'd look like as could be and sell as a bargain in the secondhand shoes and bring about what such shoes would sell for new."—New York Sun.

She Ought to Know.

A charming instance of logical topography was related by P. A. Barnett in his lecture at the College of Preceptors. A friend of his was once returning home with a laborer's wife for attempting to feed an eight months' old baby with some form of buring.
"Do you think I don't know how to bring up children?" replied the indignant mother.
"Why, I've buried 'em."—London Chronicle.

Their Doctors Use It.
Relief Society of Chicago Endorses
Paine's Celery Compound.

The work of the average woman, whether she be in charge of a household, where the work is always done, but never done, or behind a counter, or in a schoolroom, is of a sort that rarely leaves her with strength or inclination for anything else.
The strain upon most women's nerves, is so great that a breakdown stares many of them constantly in the face, which means, loss of work, doctor's bills and discouragement.
One of the earliest and one of the most infallible indications of falling nervous strength is the inability to sleep soundly.
No fact is more clearly established than that sleep repairs the tired nervous tissues and that the loss of sleep deranges the health more quickly and more seriously than any other privation the body can suffer. The great effort, then, of every poor sleeper should be to strengthen the nerves. The fact that hundreds of men and women in every community have been cured of insomnia by Paine's celery compound tells its own story of the invigorating effect of this wonderful remedy, not only upon the nerves, but upon the entire nervous system.
Physicians prescribe Paine's celery compound where the nerves have become so exhausted that not only sleep but digestion is interfered with. Its immediate invigorating effect in such cases is shown in the following letter from Mrs. Fannie West, president of the South Side relief society of Chicago. The letter is dated December 12, 1898:
"We feel very glad to acknowledge the fine qualities of Paine's celery compound. It is the best remedy we know of for building up the nervous system. Our doctors prescribe it, and it always gives immediate relief."
Back of nervousness, sleeplessness and many of the peculiar ailments of women is poverty of the blood. Paleuess, thinness of the body and weakness are evidences of poor blood. In some cases palpitation of the heart is complained of, and when the poverty is greatest, the lips are pallid and the tongue almost colorless.
In these cases of anemia if Paine's celery compound is used the pain from day to day is plainly noticeable. Its tonic effect in renewing the blood and restoring the strength has been little short of miraculous in cases of extreme emaciation and nervous prostration.
If a woman feels that she is losing ground in weight and strength she should set about increasing the blood supply at once with the aid of Paine's celery compound.
Give this greatest of all remedies a trial.
