Filipino Methods. London, March 16. - The Dally Graphic publishes this morning a letter from a British naval officer in Maulia describing the beginning of the fighting between the Americans and Filipinos, which he says was due to an attempt on the part of the latter to rush an American post. "The British officers," he continues, "were not allowed to land until the day following the battle, and were even then prohibited from going to the front, but on the battlefield I saw Filipino prisoners burying heaps of their dead.

"It cannot for a moment be doubted that the Americans fought with gal-lantry and pluck, while the rebels, who were armed with Mausers and Remingtons, maintained a stubborn defense. Their dead bodies testify to this. It is also clear that the Filipinos were astounded and demoralized by the American tactics and the vigorous pursuit the Americans kept up throughout the day, instead of following, as the Filipinos expected, the Spanish custom of midday
