They were abourd a box car on Conductor "Sig" Robbins northbound train and when ordered to get off drew revolvers and referred to them as "first class tickets." At Unlon-dale the conductor learned from the operator of the Mayfield affair, and sixing p his passengers as the perpetrators of he during deed telegraphed ahead to Mount Ararat for assistance to captur them. "Big Bill" Leach, a noted hunter and trapper, who keeps a summer hotel not fur from the station, was aroused, and summoning as many of the neigh-bors as the time would allow formed a osse to effect the capture, saw the crowd at the station and jumped out on the opposite side and started down the tracks. Lench, who had a Winchester repeating rifle, and Miller Jesse Vail, who had a revolver, ran around the engine and called upon the robbers to surrender. The answer was a volley of builtes. Leach and Vai returned the fire. The robbers stood an sent back another volley. Leach's rifle cracked three times and three robbers bit the dust. The remaining three fied, one going down the railroad and two making for the woods. A fourth sho from Leach's rifle winged the man on the tracks, but he picked himself up sud continued his flight. A fifth shot was sent at random in the woods in the diection in which the other two fugitives
