KANSAS TROOPS ENTERED FIRST.

Colonel Funston, Who Led the Kansans, Has Had an Adventurous Career-He Is Being Urged For Promotion to Brigadler General.

Manila, April 1 .- Our troops are now resting at Malolos. It is evident that the rebels for some time past have abandon-ed all hope of holding their capital, for the Americans found there evidences of elaborate preparations for evacuation. On the railroad the rails and ties for about a mile had been toru up and probably thrown into the river. The only prisoners captured were a few Chinamen. They said that Againaldo left Malolos on Wednesday,

The principal citizens of Malolos, their families and goods have been taken into the country over the railroad, while others departed on foot, carrying their possessions and driving their cattle and other animals before them. Most of the robel forces were removed Thursday evening to positions east of the rail-road, leaving only some small bands in the strong treuches in front of Malolos.

General MacArthur started for the rebel capital with two rapid fire guns flanking the track, two guns of the Utan battery on the right and two guns of the Sixth artillery on the left of the rapids, iring continuously.

CRASHED ON THE ROCKS

British Channel Steamer Wrecked and Many Drowned.

DEATH LIST OVER A HUNDRED.

The Captain and All Officers Except First Mate Went Down With the S. Ship-Herote Action of the Crew. Vessel Was Speeding in a Pog.

Southampton, April L. The passenger steamer Stella, plying between this port and the Channel islands, crashed upon Donald, which she picked up derelic the dreaded Campet rocks, near the Island of Alderney, Thursday afternoon in a dense fog and foundered in ten min-utes, her boilers exploding with a trespite of this, it is said, there was no panic on loard. The consting steamer Lyux, which brought the news of the disaster here, picked up four boars and 40 persons belonging to the Stells. Another stemmer has picked up a bert con-taining 55 persons, including 20 wo-men. They have been landed here. Eight passengers of the Stella who were landed at Cherboneg, France, were rescued from a boat that originally contained 14 men. The boat capsized and six were drowned. The others clung to the keel for five hours and then man aged to right the boat, which was half full of water.

The Stella had 140 passengers of board, and her trew numbered 42 persons. The passengers were going to spend Easter in the Channel islands. was among the research says that a col inpetitic boat was inunched full of peo-ple, but he thinks she struck the rocks, owing to the fog. The second wate was the only officer of the Stella rescued. It is now believed that the loss of life will reach 120, though it is hoped that some others have been picked up by passing vessels. Another steamer of the one company, which arrived at the day, reports having passed many bodies of victims of the disaster about the Casquet rocks,

When the Stella disappeared 40 or 50 persons were discovered clinging to pieces of wreckage or cabin furniture and crying pitcously for help. All the passengers and crew had been provided with life belts, and there was little panic as the ship sank. I first slipped into the water and then swam to one of the beats, into which I was helped. We rowed supposedly in the direction of but seven hours later found ourselves near the scene of the wreck and saw dozens of persons clinging to the rocks."

The boat in which Bush was a passenger was afterwards picked up by the Lynx. The passengers all agree that perfect order and discipline prevailed on board the Stella. The crew promptly took up their stations when the steamer struck, served out the life belts and lowered the boats.

Mr. David King, a London merchant, who was among the last to leave the ship, said last night; "The greater part of Thursday was exceedingly pleasship, said last night: "The greater part of Thursday was exceedingly please ant, but toward evening we encountered a mist, which soon developed into a dense fog. There was, however, no apprehension, Suddenly a great shock told us that the Stella had struck the rocks. Screams rent the air, but the coolness of the officers considerably allayed the excitement. The crew behaved spiendidly, lowering the boats with the greatest promptitude. Every woman was supplied with a life belt. At first we thought there would be time for all the boats to clear away, but suddenly the ballers burst with a deafening report, rending the ship amidships."

Mr. King and two firemen, Osborn and Bayley, were the last to leave the vessel. He had just given up a life belt to aid a clergyman's wife, and was literally uilled into a boat by Second Mate teynolds, who was instrumental in saving many lives. The boat, with 22 persons, drifted for 15 hours in the intense cold and was finally picked up by the Great Western Rallway company's steamer Vera, from

Mr. King believes that five boats were sunched. He saw one opturned, with children clinging to it.

The scene at the moment of the sink-Women were screaming and praying and people were clinging to spars and other wreckage in all directions. Those who had succeeded in getting into the boats had a narrow escape from being engulfed on account of the suction caused by the sinking vessel. Many most pathetic incidents are reported. In several cases men lifted their wives and children into the boats and then perished themselves in their presence. One wife, who was thus beroft, lost her reason. A large number of the survivors ar-rived here without any clothing, clad-
