Newspapers.

The following is an extract from an address delivered in New York on Wednesday evening, by Dr. St. Clair McKelway, the brilliant editor of the Brooklyn Eagle, and is worthy of reproduction here, especially at this

"Advertisers and newspaper men together make the character of a publie journal. The editorial page, all are signs of clogged kidneys, causing poisoned contradiction to the contrary notwithstanding, is the most important page of the newspaper. The news pages, by their fairness, their cleanness, their intelligence and their enterprise, largely make evident the ability and the resources of the sheet. But the editorial page reflects not only the ability, but the character of the journal; its virtue as well as its vigor; its conscience as well as its capacity; its courage as well as its

"The editorial page indicates the quality of the constituency of a newspaper. I know that it could not get along without the news pages, but I also know that the news pages would get along in limping and halting fashion without the editorial page. Recall newspapers with poor editorial pages or with none, but with bright news pages. They may have vogue, but they do not have influence. They may have circulation, but they do not have power. They may be able to say things and to spread things, but they cannot do things and cannot get things done. And the exact measure of their impotency is sug-ribly burned, he having received an gested by the blare of their claims of alternating current of 1,100 volts. efficiency and of accomplishment. Happily these newspapers of blare are just few enough to be as distinctive as repulsive, and desirably to differentiate themselves from the general honored than it is to-day.

"I give a short duration to the journalism of dirt, defamation, demagogy and boasting. That journalism, in all its few examples, is becoming the victim of a throat-cutting competition and of a reciprocal evisceration; and the other journalism, holding its steady course, was never more prosperous and never more deit will still further improve. "We are now near enough to the next campaign to be able to form some idea of the lines along which the con-test will be fought, and I am taking no risk when I say that those who in 1896 gave their allegiance to the Chicago piatform are as united today in the determination that no step taken in 1896 shall be retraced. Suggestions that we abandon the money question sometimes come from those who deserted the party in 1896, but those suggestions are not supported by evidence tending to show that the position in 1896 was wrong, but was pred icated upon the theory that the issue upon which the party once lost can never be revived, and what seems most strange, this argument is made by those who have followed a different course in the past."

PROFESSORS DISAGREE

As to the Food Value of Meat Furnished the Soldiers. Washington, April 14.—Dr. W. D. Bigelow, chemist of the agricultural department, told the Wade court of inquiry yesterday that the canned beef was a wholesome and nutritious product-even more nutritious than fresh times with sour or watery risings, a forma-beef, because of the preponderence of tion of gases, causing pressure on the lungs proteids. He also gave the details of and heart and difficult breathing; besidene, his general investigation into the canned beef supply, showing the meat to be a generally satisfactory ration. He be a generally satisfactory ration. He considered the beef extract a stimulant rather than a nutritive. The meat left after its extraction, he said, would be nutritive, as the proteids would be left. Whether, however, it would be palatable would be a matter for each individual to decide for himself. Probable it would not be an ideal found. ably it would not be an ideal food. Canned roust neef was preferable to bacon as a food for the soldiers.

Professor Mallet, professor of chemistry at the University of Virginia, presented a contrary view. He expressed the opinion that a chemical analysis was not a sufficient test of the character of a food product, saying that various conditions necessarily must be considered. A combination of horse flesh, tallow and carpenter's glue might give practically the same results as those reported from the ex-amination of the canned roast beef. In determining the food value of a ration it was necessary to consider changes and also, secondarily, its pal-atability. It was also necessary to Mr know the possibility of the injurious effects of any food article upon the body. Considering all these questions Mr. Mallet did not believe the canned beef supplied to the army in the Spanish war a proper article of food. He related that the experiment had been

Most elderly people are very susceptible to illness, but it is wholly unnecessary. By keep New Blood and Life, ing their blood pure they can fortly themselves from which they suffer so generally. S. S. S. is the remedy which will keep their systems young, by purifying the blood, thoroughly removing all waste accumulations, and imparting new strength and life to the whole body. It increases the appetite, builds up the energies, and sends new life giving blood throughout the entire system

Mrs. Sarah Pike, 477 Broadway, South Boston, writes: "I am seventy years old, and had not enjoyed good health for twenty years. I was sick in different ways, and in addition, had Eczema terribly on one of my legs. The doctor said that on account of my age, I would never be well again. I took a dozen bottles of S. S. S. and it cured me completely, and I am happy to say that I feel as well as I ever did in my life."

Mr. J. W. Loving, of Colquitt, Ga., says: "For eighteen years I suffered tortures from a flery cruption on my skin. I tried almost every known remedy, but they falled one by one, and I was told that my age, which is sixty six, was against me, and that I could never hope to be well again. I finally took S. S. S., and it cleansed my blood thoroughly, and now I am in perfect health."
