The Senatorial Contest. rom Harleton Scutine.

The Shenandoah HERALD, which has all ong been a stout advocate of Scoator Quay, broke loose from its false moorings on Satur-day evening and joins the people of the state by advocating the withdrawal of the "Old Man" and urging the stalwarts to throw their support to a compromise candidate for United States Senator. To the few remaining adherents of the Beaver statesman in Schuyl-kill county this is a severe blow. It practically leaves them without an organ, and it should be a sufficient warning for even the most rabid factionist in that neck o' woods to get in out of the wet. The one man upon whom the burden of the HEHALD's column editorial particularly rests, is Senator Sam Losch. To be sure, the gentleman from Schuylkili Haven has not had much chance to size up matters political, being engaged wrestling with a severe speil of sickness during the past several months. But whatever he has missed that would tend to furnish him safe bearings on this all important question is supplied by the Herald, which, although rejuctant to take the step, points out that with the selection of a compromise candidate by the Quay followers, now rests the responsibility for the safety of the party throughout the state and particularly in Schuylkill county where These prices range in comparison with the Misses' and Children's stock.
