The resources, which include the court house, prison and almshouse and grounds, are valued at $600,204.20; the cash on hand and the amount belonging to other accounts, $142,790.05; the amount of taxes due, $155,493.69; making the total assets or resources, $1,107,516.94.

Further figures follow: Total valuation for 1899 (estimated), $7,200,000.00; county taxes at 8 mills, $576,000.00; funded debt taxes at 1 mill, $47,500.00; total taxation for 1899 for county purposes, $580,000.00; less estimated cost for collection, $45,000.00; cash value of 1899 taxes, $334,000.00. The statement says further that neither the above amount nor an equitable proportion of the same has been reckoned in the above statement.

The 1898 assessment value the real estate at $44,424,814; occupations, $2,440,000; horses and mules, $486,430; cows, $254,320; carriages, &c., $6,585; total, $47,534,750.

The history of the proposed bond issue is also given at length.

The County Commissioners presented 178 $1,000 bonds to the Controller to-day, with a request that he affix his signature thereto and make them complete. No answer had been made up to the hour of going to press.

CRIMINAL COURT.
There is a difference of opinion as to whether the friends of ex-Congressman Brumm took any organized part in the contest against the re-election of County Superintendent Weiss, and it is but just to state that some first-class arguments are made to show that they were neutral in the matter, or that they quietly helped Weiss. The advocate of this idea states that Minersville, the ex-Congressman's home, was sold for Weiss, and that it is true. They also say that Lurwick, of Port Carbon, who was named for opposition candidate, was in that position because he favored Professor Meyer, from his own town.

Weiss got the mining districts almost to a man, but lost heavily in the farming centres. Rush township gave Miller 4 votes and Weiss 1. Miller got 2 votes from Ryan township and Weiss received 4. In St. Clair, however, Miller got 8 votes, and only one, that of Weaver, went to Weiss. With a few more exceptions the lines were pretty clearly drawn between the town and country votes.

A deed from Joseph E. Edwards and wife to J. H. Lessig and others, for property in Orwigsburg, was recorded.
