Statue of the General and Governor Unveiled in Harrisburg.

A REUNION OF THE SURVIVORS

Of Hartranft's Regiment Held Before the Unveiling Ceremonics-Veterans of the General's Command Pronounce the Statue a Perfect Likeness.

Harrisburg, May 13.—The equestrian statue of Major General John F. Hartranft, in Capitol park, was unveiled with impressive ceremonies yesterday afternoon in the presence of a large concourse of people. The exercises were followed by a parade, in which the survivors of the Third division of the Ninth army corps, commanded by General Hartranft in the civil war, had the right of line. The procession also included the Ninth regiment of immones, from Camp Meade, a pro-visional brigade of the National Guard. the Grand Army of the Republic and Sons of Veterans camps of Harrisburg and vicinity and the Harrisburg fire department.

A reunion of the survivors of the Fifty-first regiment, Pennsylvania volunteers, of which Hartranft was col-onel, was held in the morning for the election of officers and the transaction of routine business. After the meeting the old soldiers marched to the Executive Mansion to pay their respects to Mrs. Hartranft and her two sons and daughters, who are the guests of governor and Mrs. Stone.

The feature of the day's exercises which there were present many of the survivors of General Hartranft's division and several distinguished sol-diers and statesmen. President and Mrs. McKinley were expected to be present, but they could not come on account of the condition of the president's health. Major General Miles, on account of official business at Washington, was unable to come to Harris-

Postmaster General Smith, Secretary of War Alger and Adjutant General Corbin were present to do honor to the hero of Fort Stedman. Another guest of honor was General H. Kyd Douglass, of Hagerstown, an alde on the staff of General Stonewall Jackson. The exercises opened with music by the Carlisle Indian band, after which prayer was offered by Rev. William A. Houck, of Shamokin, chaplain of the division. After a selection by the division. Steelton band, the statue was unveiled by Miss Leonora Embick, daughter of ex-Representative M. A. Embick, of Boiling Springs, a member of the Hartranft division. As the flags fell from the shining bronze there was a mighty The Steelton band added to the enthusiasm by playing the "Star

Spangled Bannar.'
Major Isaac C. Brown, deputy secretary of internal affairs, followed with an oration. Short speeches were also made by General Douglass, Secretary Alger and Postmaster General Smith General Corbin and Scuiptor Ruckstuhl were introduced to the audience.

After the Carlisle Indian band rendered "America" the statue was presented to the state by Dr. J. E. Van-Camp, of Carlisle, and was received in a short speech by Governor Stone. The ceremonies closed with music by the Steelton band, and then followed the parade, in which over 3,000 marched. The Hartranft statue was the work of F. W. Ruckstuhl, a New York sculptor, and cost $18,000, appropriated by the legislature of 1895. In the statue the hero of Fort Steadman is represented returning to his native town tations of the public; the motion of his hand containing his cap is arrested at the end of the sweep that has lifted it from his head. Hartranft repre-sents a good ideal of the men who fought out the civil war. The veterans of Hartranft's command who have seen the statue pronounce it a most perfect likeness of the general. In most equestrian statues the horse is standing, but in this case the sculptor has tried, and most successfully, make a horse that to the eye of the spectator appears to be in motion. It is hard to find anywhere among eques-trian statues a more animated horse than that upon which Hartranft, in tors had given up hope. Read this sworn statement:

"In 18901 was taken with shoumatism, which began in my hips and gradually apread throughout my body. For two years and a half I was confined to my bed, employed nine of the best physicians in Albany, and two specialists from New York city. They all declared my case hopeless, and finally told me that I had but six weeks to live. I told them to take their medicine away; that if I were to die I should take no more of the staff.

My nivee, who through her friends knew of the good results attending the use of Dr. Williams Pink Fills for fine People, strongly recommended them. She procured the pills and by the time I had used the first box I felt hungry. Having had no appetite for a long time, I knew that the pills were doing me good. I continued their use, and after taking several boxes was able to leave my bed and go nheut with the use of crutches. I weighed out 129 pennds. As my normal weight is about 20 pounds, you can see how run down I had become during my stokness. After taking thirteen boxes of the pills I was weighed again, and although less than a year had passed I weighed 207 pounds. I continued the use of the pills and finally was able to abandon the crutches altogather, and am now as well as ever." May Tanness.

Sworn to and subscribed before me this 17th day of September, 1888.

LOYAL SOUTHERNERS

Grateful For President McKinley's Kindly Sentiments.

WILL CARE FOR THEIR OWN DEAD

In Southern States and Transfer Care of Confederate Graves in the North to Their Brothers of the North-The Race Question Touched Upon.

Charleston, May 13 .- With a spirited nd at times stormy session, the ninth annual reunion of the United Confederate Veterans vesterday was brought to a close. General John B. Gordon and all the old officers were re-elected, is follows: Commander-in-chief, J. B. Gordon; commander department of Army of Northern Virginia, Wade Hampton; commander department of Tennessee, Stephen D. Lee; commander department of trans-Mississippi, W. L. Cabell. Louisville, Ky., was chosen as the next place of meeting and the question of federal care of Confederate graves was disposed of by the adoption of a substitute resolution, which declines the president's suggestion, except as to those graves located in the north, and reserving to the women of the south the duty of caring for those in the seceding states and Maryland.

The adoption of this resolution and the report that accompanied it precipitated a debate which verged upon the sensational, and at times much confusion and disorder prevailed. The resolution adopted in place of the one offered by Stephen D. Lee is in sub-

"The United Confederate Veterans desire to place upon record their sinere appreciation of the utterances of the president of the United States con-cerning the assumption of the care of the recognition of an obligation on the the graves of our Confederate dead by the national government. We appreciate every kindly sentiment expressed and we shall welcome any legislation which shall result in the care of the graves of our comrades in the north-ern states by our government.

"In regard to our dead whose re-mains are resting in the states which were represented in the Confederacy and Maryland the care of their final resting places is a sacred trust, dear to the hearts of southern women, and we believe that we can safely let it there remain."

Several very vigorous speeches were made in opposition to the whole principle involved in the matter, but the final vote upon the resolution was practically unanimous, and the announcement of its passage was cheered. Another incident was the mention of the southern lynching question by Dr. J. L. M. Curry, one of the surviving embers of the Confederate congress, who, while denouncing mob law, de fended the south and declared her peo-ple should see to it that the record of er future should be as unstained as that of her past,

The all important report of the committee on a school history was also presented and adopted unanimously as meeting all questions that had led to the agitation of the subject. The report alluded to the war with Spain as factor in obliterating the shadows of the war between the states, and re-ferred to the prompt response of the southern states to the call for troops as showing the whole country the depth and fervor of southern patriotsm. Continuing the report says;

"President McKinley displayed the spirit of the American soldier when he hose from his former foes the gallant Wheeler, the steadfast Fitzhugh Lee, the hosts of the Union. We are glad that General Wheeler had another opthat General Wheeler had another opportunity to exhibit the fighting qualities of the Confederate soldier and that Lieutenants Hobson, Victor Blue and Worth Bagley, in the navy, showed the country of what stuff our young men are made of. Once more the blood of north and south has been poured out together—no longer beneath contending standards in the bitterness of war between the states, but now beneath one flag, to the glory of one country. These dead, at least, belong to us all. The last hatsful memory that could divide our country is buried with them. About their grave ory that could divide our country is buried with them. About their grave kneels a new nation, loving all her children everywhere the same."

Alluding to the Confederate graves the report says: "The recent generous words of Presi dent McKinley, commending the Con-federate dead to the nation's care, are the expression of a sentiment growing everywhere that the deeds of the Confederate soldier are the glory of the whole country and that his memory is worthy to be cherished wherever self sacrifice commands sympathy or brave actions strike a responsive chord in noble hearts." Coming down to the question for which it was appointed, the committee says that its duty is now little more than to keep watch upon the histories of the day and to stimulate historical research and publication, and regards the prospect for fairness and candor in history as much improved by the Spanish war. Continuing, the report says:

"The reception given our benevolent intentions in the Philippines is certainly of a character likely to inspire a wholesome respect for the matter of governing people of another blood who have started late in the race of civil-ization. We are not likely in the future to hear so much about the right of men, who have not yet learned to

PROPOSED DEWEY TESTIMONAL

A Newspaper's Plan For Rewarding

the Hero of Mantia. New York, May 13.—The New York Times, in an editorial entitled "What Shall We Do For Dewey?" .ays: "What sall we de for the man who has done so much for us? That is the question which has for a long time been agitating the American people. It is quite true that, according to our precedents we have not been niggardly in recogni-tion of the great service of "Commolore" Dewey, as he was a year ago. But there is a persistent and prevailing celling that we ought to do more; that the American nation, in some unofficial nd spontaneous way, should recognize the services of Dewey as the British nation officially recognized the ser-vices of Wellington, when it presente with the estate of Straithfieldsay "Evidently it will not do to mak any 'exclusive' acknowledgment of the services of an American hero to whom all Americans feel equally grateful. Evidently it will not do to leave him at the mercy of a group of millionaires. Evidently it will not do to exclude from the national testimonial to the admiral any American citizen who desires to bear his part in it."

The editorial then proposes that the 2,119 daily newspapers of the country be authorized to solicit subscriptions to the amount of $500 each, and that individual subscriptions be limited. The limiting of the amount to be collected by each paper to $500 would be moderate enough to prevent any news-paper from exploiting the admiral for the purpose of advertisical uself. Half of this should go to the erection of a residence for the admiral in whatever place in the United States he might prefer to put it and the other half for his personal use. The editorial pro-

"This would be truly a national and popular subscription. The admiral would not be at liberty to refuse it, since it would not be the creation of part of the nation. He would not be able to refuse it if the whole amount were deposited, as it could and should be deposited, subject to his order, before his arrival upon his native shores. "The president of the United States, the secretary of state and the secre tary of the treasury would be appro-prite custodians of the fund, and their willingness to assume its custody may be taken for granted."
