The Hague, May 23 .- Andrew D. White, the United States ambassador at Berlin and head of the American delegation to the peace conference, in an interview here with a press repre-sentative said he regarded the situation as promising, and that the first work of the organization was well done. He said: "I am hopeful that it will be possible to reach practical conclusions. The sceptisism of the first few days

"I think we may arrive at some re-sult on the subject of mediation and arbitration. Although it is undoubtedly impossible to make such a con-nection obligatory, it can be rendered at least optional, and I believe that after the conference the powers will secognize that they have at their dis posal a means of regulating their dif-

Izo Warfare.

The delegates were unanimously of the opinion that the question of the reduction of armaments would be the most difficult to meet and they be-lieved it would be relegated to the rear of the other two features, espec tally since the special object of the conference is now acknowledged to be an endeavor to establish means for the solving of international difficul-ties without recourse to war, thus increasing the rarity of wars and, as a natural consequence, leading to the reduction of armaments.

After an active exchange of views the chiefs of the various delegations arrived last evening at an agreement regarding the selection of the presi-
