EMPLOYEES TO BLAME

For the Terrible Wreck at Exeter, on the Reading Railroad, Reading, Pa., May 25.—The taking of testimony in the inquest over the victims of the railroad wreck at Exeter was concluded at noon yesterday. The jury came in at midnight with a verdict. They found that the accident was due to negligence of certain employees of the company. They censured George C. Bowers, train master of Philadelphia, with equipping the special train with a crew unfamiliar with the main line; Engineer Orrell and Conductor Magee, for reckless running; Engineer Wildermuth for having passed the signal at Exeter and then backing up 236 feet; and Train Dispatcher J. Honzik for declaring negligent in not notifying the special crew of the delay of the express. They recommend that the independent tower system below Reading be abolished and that the ten minute rule between passenger trains be enforced.
