COAL TRAINS COLLIDE.

A Topping Caboose Kills an Aged Coal Picker.

Quakake, July 3. Mrs. Sarah A. Schneck, aged 60 years, was instantly killed here at about nine o'clock this morning, through a collision between coal trains. The woman was engaged in picking coal along an embankment of the P. & E. railway at the time.

A coal train from Lofly and on its way to Tanquag was flagged directly opposite the place where the woman was picking coal. Shortly after a second coal train came along and ran into the rear-end of the first train, wrecking the caboose and throwing it over the embankment. In its descent it crashed the woman and killed her instantly.

A second version of the affair states that there was no collision; that a car jumped the track and the woman, who was walking near, was struck and knocked down the embankment, being killed.

KILLED BY A FALL.

A Morea Man Drops From a Railway Bridge and Dies.

John Polan, aged 35 years and single, and a resident of Morea, was found dead this morning under the Pennsylvania bridge near Dark Water. The man evidently fell from the bridge while crossing it.

Polan drew his pay on Saturday and left his boarding house in Morea in the evening to visit friends at St. Clair. He left the house of his friends at the latter place shortly after dinner yesterday, and that was the last time he was seen alive.

SCHURMAN AT MANILA

Our Commissioner Returns From His Philippines Tour.

AN ENTIRELY HOPEFUL VIEW

Of the Conditions Existing in the Southern Islands—The People Do Not Wish to Fight—Public Schools of Manila Opened.

Manila, July 3.—Professor J. G. Schurman, of the United States advisory commission for the Philippines, returned to Manila yesterday from a three weeks' tour of the southern islands. He takes an entirely hopeful view of the general conditions there. The intelligent and substantial citizens desire an American protectorate. The masses are awaiting the settlement of the war in the Island of Luzon before declaring themselves. They are chiefly anxious to be understood. The president of the town of Santo Nicolas in the Island of Cebu, said to Mr. Schurman: "We want peace, food and prosperity. We do not wish to fight. We would be neutral."

The president of the commission thinks this declaration fairly expresses the sentiment of the people in the southern islands of the archipelago. Many of the towns there are in the hands of small bands of Tagalos, and the people fear to endorse American rule until they are certain that Aguinaldo must be beaten. Let them once be convinced of the American allegiance of the southern islands, Mr. Schurman thinks, can be secured by diplomacy.

Mr. Schurman traversed the Island of Negros with Colonel Smith and a party of natives. In several of the principal towns he was tendered banquets and he had an important conference with the young sultan of Sulu, who received him in the royal audience chamber, surrounded by a body guard of fierce looking Moros. Mr. Schurman told the sultan that the United States had acquired the sovereignty of the Philippines from Spain, but had no wish to subjugate the population nor to interfere with their customs or religion. On the contrary, the great desire of the American government was to help the people of the islands to develop their resources. The sultan replied that he earnestly desired peace, and was anxious to continue the existing treaties.

On the return voyage the president of the commission visited the town of Borneo, capital of British North Borneo, where he was cordially received by the British officials, who afforded him every facility in his study of the local government and the customs of the people. The population he found much like that of the southern Philippine islands. The government is rather in an elementary state, but a more complete organization is being developed as rapidly as is practicable.

Today the public schools in Manila opened, and there are 5,000 children in attendance. The teachers include Americans, Spaniards and Filipinos. English will be taught one hour a day. One of the instructors is the widow of the Filipino patriot, Dr. Rizal, who prepared the statutes of the Philippine League, and who, when about to board a steamer at Barcelona in the autumn of 1896, was arrested by the Spanish authorities and sent to Manila, where he was tried by court martial on a charge of having organized the uprising in the Philippines. The sentence of death, and shot on Dec. 29 of that year. After her husband's execution Mrs. Rizal, who is the stepdaughter of a retired Hong Kong gentleman, went to Iloilo and was chosen captain of a company of insurgents.
