In at least two directions there is a drift away from the silver forces. The other day ex-Senator Peffer abandoned the base money coalition of 1806. Wharton Barker, of Philadelphia, one of the most radical and outspoken advocates of silver whom the country has had, says that silver is a dead issue, and has come out for greenbackism, with neither a 100c dollar nor a 45c dollar behind it. Gen. A. J. Warner, of Ohio, who was. next to Richard P. Bland, the earliest and most pronounced of the silver dollar advocates, now declares that imperialism and trusts are issues that transcend and take precedence meeting.

No one can better answer this important question than the merchant who has had some experience in advertising. It would be, of course, impossible to tell all about a large or even a small store in one or two annonneements: the best results are to be obtained by confining the details of the daily advertisement to a statement of the qualities and prices of those articles which are especially sensonable. By this method the merchant not only keeps his name and establishment before the public. but is enabled to concentrate the attention of intending purchasers upon the special line of goods offered for their inspection.

On leaving she showed, for the first time, signs of distress. She is still in deep mourning, and is determined to remain so until her husband regains his lib-

A somewhat larger crowd than usual watched her arrival and departure and again displayed utter lack of manners and consideration for her terrible position, gathering around her, rudely staring in her face, and pressing one another aside in their eagerness not to lose a single detail of the inward agony which might be reflected in her countenance. Her visible distress was a feast for these ghouls, who, however, were speedily dispersed.
