CORONER'S INQUEST. Verdict of Accidental Death Rendered in the Owens Case. Deputy Coroner J. J. Cardin and a jury last night held an inquest in the case of Alfred L. Owens, who was killed at Packer No. 3 colliery last Saturday afternoon. The jury rendered a verdict of accidental death, finding that the neck of the deceased was broken by the victim being thrown, or his failing from the back of a mule. The funeral of the victim took place at 1:30 bers of Major Jennings Council No. 367, Jr. O. U. A. M., were in attendance. The remains were taken to the Calvary Baptist Fresident Spalding Makes An Exter ded Ad-church, on South Jardin street, where Rev. dress On Work Before the Board and R. R. Albin, the pastor, conducted services. Interment was made in the Odd Fellows cemetery, J. P. Williams & Son were the funeral directors.

Refreshments were served during the even-ing, and the guests azpressed themselves as well pleased with the evening's enjoyment. Tinted Paper monopolize the position. Mr. Holman feellned the nomination.

Mr. Morrison then spoke and said it was well known that the Board had decided not to make any changes in the corps of officers. Last year the Board concluded its business with harmonious meetings and it was the do-Soldiers' Monument Park Association for the surpose of the erection and dedication ot a the surpose of the street of the Board that the relations remain purpose of the erection and dedication of a monument to commemorate the memory of the soldiers who fought in the war of the rebellion and these who fought in the late Spanish-American war. Preparations are being made for the manue. The motion was carried and the Health Officer and Secretary were sworn in. President Spalding then made a lengthy ad-access in which he said that, before entering dress, in which he mid that, before outering upon the seventh year, he desired to make a few remarks. It is only human, he said, to regard the kind expressions of friends with pleasure and satisfaction and he was not indifferent to the words and actions of his follow members on the Board. He did not expect to hear what he did from any of the members. He would have cheerfully given up the chair to any one of the members, but, since they had chosen him, he would con-tinue to preside at the meetings with fairness Drowsiness is dispelled by BRECHAM'S PILLS to call the attention of the Board to a few points. The Board has been in existence six years and one of its first rules and what regulations call for the abolition of pig pens Also and the prevention of pigs from roaming at large. The Borough Council and newspapers have taken up the matter, and the news-papers had been a great help to aid the Board, because they reach the people. This mine is owned by the Lytle Coal Company, comprising Scran-ton and New York capitalists. Upwards of a million of dollars will have been invested by the time the shaft is completed and the necessary structures erocted. The product is shipped over the Panneylvania Railroad, a branch of which connects with the Schuyi-kill Valley division at Pottaville. kill Valley division at Pottaville. At the Pine Hill colliery, a short distance east from the Lytle Coal Company's opera-tions, a massive coal breaker is being creeted te prepare the increased product that is expected from the extensive openings now under way. The Pine Hill is also owned by Scranton parties. The shipments are made over the Penasylvania railroad and over the eading.

The Woodside colliery, a new mine in that vicinity, is expected to be put in operation in the early fall. At the East Ridge colliery, in which members of the Woodside Company are also interested, the broaker has been enlarged and other improvements made so that its production can be largely increased. With all these new and enlarged coal operations at work, the prospects for miners and other coal workers and business generally is very promising for Pottsville and vicinity. The trolley roads reach points near all of these collieries.
