STOPPING A STAMPEDE. Secret of the Cowboy's Coolness in the Face of Apparent Peril. "One of the slickest things I ever saw in my life," said a veteran army officer the other day, "was a cowboy stopping a cattle stampede. A herd of about 600 or 800 had got frightened at something and broke away pell mell with their tails in the air and the bulls at the head of the procession. But Mr. Cowboy didn't get excited at all when he saw the herd was going straight for a high bluff, where they would certainly tumble down into the canyon and be killed. You know that when a herd like that gets to going it can't stop, no matter whether the cattle rush to death or not. Those in the rear crowd those ahead, and away they go. I wouldn't have given a dollar head for that herd, but the cowboy spurred up his mustang, made a little detour, came in right in front of the herd, cut across their path at a right angle and then rolled leisurely on the edge of that bluff, halted and looked around at that wild mass of beef coming right toward him. He was as cool as a cucumber, though I expected to see him killed and was so excited I could not speak."

SHOES! SHOES!! In shoes we laugh, in shoes we play in shoes we weep, in shoes we ride in shoes we walk, in shoes we slide And shoes are thrown, 'em to the bride; And sad to say, and to think, in shoes we're cornered without a drink. In shoes we dance, in shoes we trade And shoes our understanding aid. We show the horse, we show the fly, And why not shoes for you, says I. In shoes we toil, in shoes we rest, And 'cause 'tis wise to wear the best: For such lux'ry cost your weary wit. Come straight to me—I'll give you fits.
