EMBODYING PRESAGES' TRIAL.

A Verdict Is Expected Not Later Than Monday Next.

FOREIGN WITNESSES EXCLUDED.

Colonel Jousant Declines the Testimony of Colonels Schwartzkoppen and Panizzardi Cannot Be Admitted—The Charges for Acquittal. Rennes, Sept. 8.—Yesterday came the beginning of the end of the Dreyfus trial. With the speech of the government commissary, Major Carriere, the case entered upon the final stage of pleadings and the verdict will be rendered on the evening of Sunday.

The government is not only fearful regarding Rennes, but is particularly concerned regarding Paris and other large towns where passions have been heated and where the verdict, whichever way it is given, is practically certain to give rise to trouble.

It is understood that the government has intimated its desire to the president of the court martial, Colonel Jousant, and there is no reason to believe that he will not fall in with its views.

Colonel Jousant yesterday took the most important decision yet taken, and took it entirely upon his own responsibility, although he is undoubtedly only the mouthpiece of the whole body of judges. His decision to exclude the testimony of Colonel Schwartzkoppen and Major Panizzardi was most significant, as it meant that the court had already reached a conclusion and that the pleadings of counsel were merely a waste of time and might be dispensed with, if they were not a necessity.

The court has made up its mind, but which way? This is the vital point, and forms the sole topic of discussion. Both sides are equally confident that the court will decide in accordance with their view. The Dreyfusards declare that the judges cannot condemn Captain Dreyfus after rejecting the decisive evidence which Schwartzkoppen and Panizzardi would have given in his favor.

The verdict may be a condemnation, an unequivocal acquittal, or a form of acquittal that would be equivalent to the verdict of "not proved." The last will be the case if the judges should pronounce against him by a vote of four to three. That is, he would be freed, even though the judges in his favor should be in the minority.

When a builder wants to put up a permanent structure, he looks well to the foundation. He digs deep and lays the stones with accuracy and precision. The foundation is the absolute necessity for a solid house. In the physical structure of the stomach is the foundation upon which it depends the support of every other organ of the human body. It is the weak and disordered stomach that causes indigestion, impure blood, general debility, nervousness, and all the woes of dyspepsia.
