Given Notice to Get Out.

Today Policeman Heaton, under instructions, gave official notice to all parties conducting houses of ill-repute in the town, to vacate and leave the town between now and October 15th. After that date, if they do not comply with the notice, they will be dealt with according to law. They all, however, have expressed themselves as willing to shake the dust of Shenandoah from their feet. Officer Heaton is determined to enforce compliance with the order, and for that the officer is to be commended.

On a Collecting Tour.

Chief Burgess Tabor was at work today making collections from property owners, along that part of Main street which is being paved, for their proportion of the expense incurred in changing the sidewalks. Several of the parties are objecting to making payment. Inasmuch as the borough is paying in front of their properties, this enhancing their value, there should be no objections raised to paying for the curbing.

Jonathan Hummel, formerly of town and now a resident of the Catawissa Valley, last night prosecuted David Patterson before Justice Toomey for threatening to kill him. ## Rearranging Stacks.

Swalm, the hardware man, is bringing order out of chaos. He is now shelving the store room. The trade can be again served with the promptness for which his store has been noted. In re-arranging the stock he finds old lots slightly rusty and damaged in appearance. These are going at bargain prices. Just now the paint stock is being overhauled. The labels are smoked, but the paint is as good as ever. You can save 25 cents a gallon now.

including the Chain in the Wm. Penn Murder Case.

BURIAL OF THE VICTIM TO-DAY!

Owing to the Large Number of Witnesses and Others Required at the Inquest Yesterday it Was Necessary to Hire a Hall—Proceedings Continued.

The coroner's inquest into the death of Joseph Rutkasas, who was murdered at Wm. Penn last Sunday evening, was resumed yesterday afternoon in Bender's hall at Wm. Penn, the office of Justice Green being inadequate to accommodate the numerous parties interested, the equally numerous witnesses, officials, reporters, etc. The main assembly room on the third floor of the building was used as a rendezvous for the witnesses and the inquest was conducted in a room on the second story of the building, to which only the officials, jury and reporters were admitted. Only one witness at a time was admitted to the room.

Among the officials in attendance were Coroner C. A. Bieller, of Frackville; Deputy Coroner J. J. Corbin, Deputy District Attorney J. J. Moran, Court Interpreter Moses Rothenstein and Court Stenographer Martin Moore. W. B. Durkin, Esq., was in attendance as counsel employed by a brother of the deceased, to assist in the prosecution. M. M. Burke, Esq., was in attendance as counsel for Raleigh and Matt. Bubis, two of the men under arrest.

The inquest developed testimony showing that Raleigh Bubis is the man that struck the fatal blow. One witness swore positively to this, another swore he saw Bubis' arm go over the fence at the fatal moment, just before the latter fell and nearly all the witnesses examined fix Bubis' presence at the scene of the murder.

Dr. W. T. Davies, of the Miners' hospital, swore to the post-mortem. He said he found no evidence of external injury, with the exception of that on the head. There he found a lacerated wound about an inch and a half in length. It involved the skull, making a compound, compressed fracture of the skull and there was extensive intercranial hemorrhage. There was a clot of three or four ounces of blood. The internal organs were normal, with the exception of the lungs. They were filled with coal dust and showed evidence of older pleurisy. The intercranial hemorrhage, following the compound, depressed fracture of the skull caused the death, and the injury was done with an instrument denoting a sharp character, like a heavy instrument of some kind, such as an axe or hatchet.

The most important witness at the inquest was Frank Dalzic, a boarder at the house of the victim. He said he was standing inside the gate with the victim when about twenty men came along, put in their arms over the gate, and saw John Stinkawicz, Thomas and Raleigh Bubis and Andrew Koras, all of whom are among the men arrested. They were six of the party who came close to the gate. Witness heard Koras shout "Give it to him, give it to him." Raleigh Bubis came over the gate, put his arm over it and struck Rutkasas, who fell without uttering a word or sound. Witness could not see what Bubis had in his hand, on account of the darkness. Bubis said nothing before striking. He struck Rutkasas and then walked away. John Stinkawicz remarked "It's over now." After that he was struck, Anthony Zagoski and Joe Surawicz were beaten by the same crowd. They belong to the Zurkis faction, the same as Rutkasas.

Anthony Matshulis, one of the men under arrest, testified that he saw Raleigh Bubis go to the gate of Rutkasas' house and saw Bubis put his arm over the gate, but he could not say whether he struck Rutkasas, or not. Rutkasas fell.

Frank Wylonski testified that before the murder of Rutkasas he was upstairs at his home, looking out of the window. Several men came along. Among them were Thomas Bubis and Andrew Kuris. The latter shouted to witness "Come down stairs you ———. I will make bogaloo out of you right away, and then I will sell you for ten cents a pound." Witness told them to go away and not make disturbance. Witness afterwards saw Koras standing at Rutkasas' house. There was a big crowd there.

Stiney Kriptaewicz testified that about two hours before the murder a man named Wassilius was beaten at his house by a crowd which was led by Andrew Kuris, George Kinschinski, John Stinkawicz, Thomas Bubis, Joe Roskowski, and the prisoner Brazowski. Witness helped Wassilius to escape through the rear door of his home. Witness took a revolver from Brazowski, but found it empty and returned it.

The funeral of Rutkasas, the victim, took place this morning from the family residence at Wm. Penn. High mass was celebrated in St. George's Lithuanian Roman Catholic church in town and the remains were interred in the parish cemetery.

Deputy District Attorney asked that the inquest be continued. The request was granted and the unexamined witnesses were directed to appear at the same place at one o'clock this afternoon. It is stated that several women residing in the vicinity of the scene of murder will give damaging evidence against the accused. It is expected the inquest will close this evening.

THE LAKESIDE RAILWAY.

Action Taken Against the Sale of the Company by the Sheriff.

Sometime ago the Sheriff levied upon the Lakeside Railway Company, advertised the property for sale on the judgment of Julia Ward, formerly of this place, for $168.00 damages secured for one of the cars running into her laundry team three or four years ago. Upon the application of MacHenry Wilhelm, Esq., the court continued the sale.

The Herald on Monday, in the court proceedings, noted that Mr. Wilhelm had filed a bill in equity against the company, praying that the Lakeside Railway Company be restrained from proceeding upon the execution issued on a judgment to sell the property and franchises of the company and that a receiver be appointed by the court to take charge of the property and assets of the defendant company and to manage the same to protect the rights of the creditors of the defendant corporation.

The complainant alleges that he is informed that the Lakeside Railway Co. has mortgaged its property and franchises for $250,000 and that bonds have been issued to that amount on the mortgage. That all or a greater part of the bonds have been sold for the purpose of raising money to build and equip the road and that the stock of the company has been issued to the officers and others without payment by the holders.

The complainant also avers that the judgment of Julia Ward obtained in suit for $168 has been assigned to E. W. Ash and others, and that before said assignment was that of the Lakeside Co., and that no one else or any corporation has any interest in said judgment.

It is also averred by the complainant that the defendant company is indebted to him in the sum of $6,000 for services rendered as its attorney for four years past, and that he has brought suit to recover the amount due him; that he is informed that for more than a year past the company has defaulted in the payment of the interest due on the bonds and that there are other unsecured creditors of the defendant company whose claims are unpaid; that the defendant has caused to be issued on the Julia Ward judgment several writs of f. a. and in virtue of said writs has caused the property and franchises to be advertised to be sold on Sept. 9th, last; that the suing of said writs is a conspiracy to defraud the complainant and other unsecured creditors of the defendant company, and that refusal to pay the interest due on the bonds shows the defendants to be insolvent.

Still on Trial.

The suit of James Gibbs and Curtis S. Books, trading under the firm name of Books & Gibbs vs. the School District of Girardville, is still on trial at Pottsville. Judge Henning presides. The plaintiffs are represented by ex-Judge Ryan and James Carlet. The school district's lawyers are Hon. John W. Ryan, John F. Whalen and M. H. Wilhelm. Books & Gibbs got the contract to build a new school house at Girardville and difference arose about the carrying out of the plans and specifications furnished by the Board. Then the contractors abandoned the contract and sued for the balance on the entire amount about $5,000.

OUR HERO AT HOME.

Admiral Dewey Arrives Two Days Ahead of Time.

THE ADMIRAL'S GRATITUDE.

He Appreciates the Splendid Welcome Awaiting Him.

HE REFUSES TO DISCUSS POLITICS.

The Admiral Spent a Busy Day in Receiving Callers, and Returned a Visit Made by Sir Thomas Lipton—The British Cup Challenger Cheered by the Crew of the American Warship—The Admiral Perfectly Satisfied With the Arrangements Made by New York's Reception Committee—Eleven of the Olympia's Sailors Stricken With Typhoid Fever.

New York, Sept. 27.—Admiral George Dewey arrived off New York at dawn yesterday, and the Olympia is now anchored in American waters in the light of Sandy Hook.

The first about of welcome was from the pilots and crew of pilot boat No. 7, 15 miles south of the Hook light-ship. It happened to be Pilot John Peterson's turn, and at 5:30 a. m. he was put aboard the Olympia, and brought her around the Hook and into the lower bay. The marine observers along the coast had sighted the Olympia in the first light of the morning. The shore batteries of Fort Hancock, manned by gunners called from breakfast, let loose 17 guns. The flagship replied with 21, and let go her mortar not far from where the cup challenger Shamrock is moored. The admiral was in his own country again, after 23 months' absence. He had returned "great with the arduous greatness of things done," and he scarcely seemed to realize it. The pilot had brought aboard the Sunday papers and a press reporter was received by the admiral in a cabin littered by the illustrated Dewey editions which together made hundreds of pages in black and white and in colors, all concerning the great admiral and the preparations made to receive him.

The Admiral's Gratitude. "It almost saddens me," he said, "to see what my people are doing for me. The pride and gratification is immense, and I cannot express the appreciation I feel. I did not know, I did not really realize until this morning the splendid welcome that my countrymen are giving me. The governors of many states are coming to see me, and troops from Florida, Georgia and other far away states are on their way to take part in receiving me."

The admiral stroked the head of a tawny haired dog, the Chow dog of a Chinese breed that appears in the illustrated interviews with the admiral. "Bob here," he said, "is not well. He yearns to be ashore. He is sick to get a little grass and to somper around. I feel a good deal that way myself. I am mighty glad to get home. It is not good for a man, any more than a dog, to live on shipboard for 23 months."

The admiral said the he felt tired, but he did not look so. His complexion is a clear bronze, his hazel eyes being bright and his rather jaunty. Some deep lines are under his eyes and around his mouth, but his voice is singularly clear and pleasant. The admiral's whole presence is that of a man in his fullest powers. His manner is gentle and kind, but he is exceedingly wary, and did not permit himself to wander off into politics or to exercise those positive views he no doubt holds about the Philippines and American affairs there. His attention was brought to interviews in which he is described as going rather fully into the character of the Philippines and their fitness for self government.

"I cannot stand for any interview giving my opinions on political subjects and the Philippines," he said. "I disown any views ascribed to me on those subjects."

Brightening the Olympia. Alighting on his arrival two days ahead of the time he was expected Admiral Dewey said: "I am sorry that I am ahead of the schedule. The Olympia has been steaming at the uniform rate of ten knots an hour since we left Gibraltar. Several days ago we knew that we would arrive before Thursday unless we moderated our speed or went somewhere out of our course. Captain Lambertson, Lieutenant Brumby and I held a consultation. The propriety of running into Hampton Roads or some other port in the south was spoken of, but we concluded that we ought not to touch land first anywhere except at New York. It was suggested that we cruise some distance outside New York harbor until Thursday, but we knew that if we did that we would be discovered and reported. The weather looked a little squally, and it seemed to be better to be inside the Hook than outside. But the consideration that really decided us to come into port was to give Captain Lambertson a chance to clean up the ship before our voyage up the harbor. Captain Lambertson and I are very proud of the Olympia, and we wanted to see her just finishing a midday scrub before she came out to sea."

The Olympia looks as smart now as a year ago. The anchors were hardly down before details of the crew were washing the ship's white sides and touching up the stains with paint.

The admiral's first business was to send an officer ashore with telegrams for the navy department, Mayor Van Wyck and General Butterfield, announcing the arrival. He then spent most of the morning in looking over newspapers and receiving reporters. He was just finishing a midday breakfast when Sir Thomas Lipton came on him. With Sir Thomas were Dr. Mackay and other visiting Englishmen.
